VAMP CHARGE BY REFORMER STIRS WOMEN

Picture of Sex and Alleged Object in Life Drawn by Wilbur Crafts Is Resented by Leaders in Civic Work

Eastern Man's Charge That San Francisco "Wickedest City" in Nation Described As Pure Rot and Malicious

A delegation of Eastbay women, anxious to deny the allegations of Dr Wilbur Crafts, head of the International Reform League, that women are "pernicious evils who have no objects save to vamp or be vamped," will wait upon the 'advance agent of the Anti-Saloon League, who has opened headquarters in San Francisco, to voice their protest.

If the indignation of Mrs. Carrie Hoyt, civic worker, political worker and feminist is heeded, the delegation will inform Crafts regarding the purposes and activities of their sisterhood. In addition, before the Civic Center in Berkeley, Mrs. Hoyt will take up the charges of the man who has been sent to the West to open up the reform drive on San Francisco, which municipality has been designated in the list of wicked and terrible cities as the "wickedest and wettest" of the entire nation. Sacramento comes second, with Cincinnati, O., and Peoria, Ill., following closely after. The batteries of reform will be turned upon these units of government in the order which they are listed The San Francisco "clean up" is planned first for the fall. Crafts has come to California to program the movement.

Mrs. Hoyt intimated that the statements which the reform agent is quoted as making concerning women should be taken up by members of the Berkeley center, California Civic League, today.

VAMP AND VAMPER CHARGES TO BE RESENTED

Women, according to Crafts, are among the most "pernicious evils, and have but two objects in life—to vamp and be vamped." He proclaims that he intends, through his organization, to change this.

Crafts is against many things, among them being present-day "chic" styles and the "baby doll" type of woman. Her he would eradicate. He would have her abolished from the covers of magazines by legislative action. He dislikes "movie queens."

The prodigal daughter has no place in Crafts' plans. "There is no such thing and should not be," he asserts. "If a woman violates the moral code, let her pay the price."

"I think it is a crime for a man to make such statements as he is quoted as saying," says Mrs. Hoyt. "What he needs is a deputation of California women to demonstrate to him that they neither have time nor inclination to 'vamp or be vamped.' He needs to be shown what manner of women we of the west are." Mrs. Hoyt intimated that the case of Crafts would be brought before today's meeting of Berkeley Civic Center.

CRAFTS' STATEMENTS DECLARED "PURE ROT."

"A man has no right to come among us and advertise to the world that San Francisco is the wickedest city of the nation," Mrs. Hoyt retorts. "We are not so wicked as many other cities. What vice we have is not hid. Our women may go anywhere they please and if they go right they are not insulted."

"Contempt is the proper spirit in which to treat such utterances as Crafts is quoted as making," according to Mrs. Frank G. Laws, president of California Civic League "They are complete and absolute 'rot.' If this man expects to pull into a controversy the women of California by declaring what is destructive, he will be sadly disappointed," she promised.

Crafts pronounces the doom of modern women along with booze, prize fights and gambling.

"Sinners of Los Angeles received me with open arms in Los Angeles," Crafts says of himself.

WHEELER SCORES NEW BEER REGULATIONS.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Characterizing the forthcoming new beer regulations as a "break in the dyke of prohibition," Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, today issued a call for the dry's of the nation to "seal the break."

"These regulations merely help the drinker to get beer for beverage purposes by getting a physician to certify to an imaginary illness," said Wheeler. "All the medical properties in beer are easily obtainable in any number of drugs.

"It's all a fake and it's up to the friends of prohibition to uphold the principles for which we have fought for many years."

France, Pleased by U. S. Action, Tenders Thanks

LONDON, April 28.—(By the Associated Press.) — Reuter's, Limited, announced today it had learned that France had instructed Ambassador Jusserand in Washington to thank the United States government "for its assurance that the United States would not deliver the German reparations note without the approval of the allies."

France added, says the news agency, that it could not approve the proposals or see in them a basis for possible settlement.

No Rest for Wicked

With the arrival of Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts in San Francisco headquarters, the drive of the Anti-Saloon League and W. C. T. U. to make that city dry has been opened.

Father Walks With Baby From Vallejo to L. A.

Grieving Over Wife's Death He Pushes Child in Cart Over Long Journey.

Leaving Vallejo more than three weeks ago, J. F Watkins, said by his neighbors to be a man of sound business principles, wheeled a baby buggy southward. The conveyance contained his eleven-months-old baby. He told no one where he was going.

Last night a policeman in Los Angeles saw a baby buggy standing in a vacant lot. By it, lying on the ground, was stretched the form of a man. Approaching, the officer found the man asleep. His head was propped against one wheel of the perambulator, in which peacefully slumbered a baby.

The officer awoke the man and asked for an explanation. The man said he was J. F. Watkins of Vallejo, and that he had pushed the baby buggy all the way from that city, a distance of almost 500 miles

"The baby's mother died when it was only a few months old," Watkins said. "Physicians told me it would be necessary to keep the infant outdoors practically all the time.

FRANTIC TO SAVE LIFE OF INFANT, HE SAYS

"I was frantic to save the child's life, and I was grieving over my wife's death, so I set out aimlessly on foot, wheeling the buggy."

Watkins had only forty cents in his pockets, according to a wire despatch from the southern city today, and declined offers of aid. The despatch added that the baby is in the best of health.

An investigation and inquiry among Watkins' former neighbors in Vallejo, however, brings a different angle into the case. Somewhere in the south, presumably in Los Angeles, is Mrs. Watkins.

According to William Lucas, a neighbor of the Watkins' in Vallejo, who was a friend to both Mr. and Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. Watkins is not dead.

"Mr. and Mrs. Watkins separated several weeks ago after some domestic trouble and since that time I had a letter from Mrs. Watkins in Los Angeles. I would not be surprised to hear that Watkins had gone to Los Angeles, but I am surprised to hear that he wheeled the baby all that distance."

REPORTED TO BE ON WAY BACK TO VALLEJO

Soon after he had been interviewed by the Los Angeles authorities Watkins was allowed to go his way. The officers at the time had not been informed that Mrs. Watkins, too, was in Los Angeles.

Later in the day reports from Los Angeles said, Watkins started forth along the Ventura state highway, declaring he planned to walk back along the coast highway to Vallejo, where Watkins said he was living at the time of his wife's death.

UTILITY ACT IS PASSED BY SENATE

Measure Framed by Eastbay City Attorneys Is Given Approval of Upper House and Goes to the Governor

Would Allow for Formation of Districts, Officers to Serve Without Pay; Opens Way to Solve Water Plans

TRIBUNE BUREAU, SACRAMENTO, April 28—Alameda county's public utilities district bill was passed by the Senate today, and has been sent to the Governor.

The bill, which was drawn by the city attorneys of the Eastbay cities, is designed to change the formation and government of public utility districts. It provides that the officers shall serve without pay, and among other things, would allow for the inclusion in the district of a city not within the county.

As the measure was passed by overwhelming votes both in the Assembly and the Senate, and as there were none to argue against it, it is believed that Governor Stephens will not hesitate in signing. Under the bill, once it becomes a law, the cities of the Eastbay, including Richmond, may unite toward solving water or other problems without any expense for salaries of district officers

Assemblyman Homer S. Spence of Alameda introduced the bill in the Assembly, and Senator Otis of the same city fathered it in the Senate. It received the support of the entire Alameda county delegation.

132 Billions in Gold Marks Is Loss of Allies

Reparations Commission Fixes Damages Inflicted by Germany in War.

By HEBB MILLER.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, April 28.—Germany during the war inflicted damage of 132,000,000,000 gold marks on the Allies and their associates, according to the Allied reparations commission, which completed its task today.

The German offer of 50,000,000,000 gold marks in comparison with these figures, is a proposal to settle her debt for 38 cents on the dollar.

The allied bill of damages was submitted last night to Dr. von Gertzen, German representative to the commission.

The reparations commission, by reporting the total, completed its task three days ahead of schedule. Under the peace treaty, the bill of damages was to be ready May 1, 1921.

The commission explained that the figures do not represent the actual damage inflicted by Germany during the war, but approximate what she is able to pay.

The allied experts cut deeply into the claims of several countries, notably South America, which charged extensive damage to shipping and property. The claims of Peru and Bolivia were rejected entirely, and Brazil's bill was cut three-fourths.

Wenatchee's Trip Across Reported 'Surprisingly Wet'

(By International News Service)

TOKYO, April 28.—The Wenatchee, the new trans-Pacific shipping board liner which encountered pump and engine trouble on her maiden voyage from Seattle to the Orient, arriving six days late, is undergoing repairs at Yokohama preparatory to continuing her Far Eastern schedule, which includes Manila.

Aside from the delay encountered, the chief feature of the vessel's maiden trip, according to passengers arriving here, was the fact that the vessel was surprisingly "wet" by arrangement. Vessels owned by the United States shipping board do not operate bars.

Major-General Leonard Wood, who arrived on the Wenatchee, en route to the Philippines on a mission for President Harding, was scheduled to depart for Manila today from Nagasaki on the United States transport Warren. The general with his party went overland from here. While here General Wood addressed the largest gathering of Americans ever held in Tokyo under the auspices of the American association.

NATION WILL HAVE RIGHTS, SAYS HARDING

President At Review of Fleet Declares America Intends to Preserve That Which Is Ours; Compliments Officers

Pledges Confidence of 110,000,000 Americans in the Navy; Desire of Country for Honorable Peace Told

ABOARD THE U. S. S. PENNSYLVANIA Hampton Roads Va., April 28.—President Harding served notice upon the whole world today that the United States "does not want anything that is not hers by right, but that she does want that which is righteously her own and by the Eternal, we mean to have it."

This ringing declaration was made in a brief speech to the officers of the Atlantic fleet following the presidential review

When the cheers had died away, the president continued in a vibrating voice

"I wish you might never be called upon to fire a gun again.

"If every government was inspired by the same motives as ours is there would always be peace, but I would not have peace without honor and without consciousness that America is right and is protecting its every interest I bid you make ours an efficient, conscientious and effective navy and I pledge you in return the conscience and confidence of 110,000,000 Americans.

"I want to tell you who serve, how deeply interested and thoroughly confident America is in you. America will never ask anything of you that is not in accord with the best conscience of the freest people on earth.

U. S. MEANS TO HAVE THAT WHICH IS OURS

"The United States does not want anything that is not right. It does not want any territory It does not want any tribute, but it does want that which is righteously ours and by the Eternal, we mean to have that."

Admiral Wilson boarded the Mayflower when the review ended

"How's everything, admiral?" the president asked as he shook hands.

"Everything is fine." Wilson responded, "except that the ship named after your state, the Ohio, got into your anchorage berth."

"Well," retorted the President, "Ohio's entitled to a great deal."

The admiral said he was greatly pleased with the maneuvers this year.

Grim and hardy looking from the weeks spent in strenuous war maneuvers in southern waters the great Atlantic fleet swung majestically in review through Hampton Roads before President Harding.

Half a hundred warships, headed by the super-dreadnaught Pennsylvania, one of the greatest of her class afloat, made up the long line of steel which steamed up the roads and slowly passed the trim little Mayflower, from which the President and his party viewed the magnificent spectacle.

VESSELS OF FLEET PASS BEFORE HARDING

Close on the heels of the Pennsylvania came eleven other capital ships, their colors flying, their crews standing smartly at the deck rails in salute as they steamed by. Then came forty other warcraft—pert little destroyers that performed such notable feats in the infested waters of the North Sea—and the snaky-looking submarines that are their natural prey. Supply and fleet auxiliary vessels made up the rest of the long procession.

The President took his first fleet review standing on the bridge of the Mayflower. Just below him on the deck were Mrs. Harding, Senator and Mrs. Wadsworth of New York, Senator and Mrs. McCormick of Illinois, Senator and Mrs Poindexter of Washington, Senator Hale of Maine, Senator Swanson of Virginia, Dr. C. E. Sawyer and George B. Christian Jr. secretary to the president.

PENNSYLVANIA LEADS WARSHIPS IN REVIEW

At 9 o'clock the leading Pennsylvania appeared out of the haze, astern followed at 50-yard intervals by the others. She approached the Mayflower and when about a mile astern wheeled smartly and passed in review on the port side. Over the flagship and extending backward in the pall of smoke hovered a fleet of sea and airplanes, the roar of their motors combining with the saluting guns of the battleships.

The ships that participated in the review today make up the backbone of the Atlantic's defense. They were the battleships Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Michigan, South Carolina and Division Five of Battleship Squadron Three, consisting of the Utah, Florida, Delaware and North Dakota, and Division Seven, made up of the Arizona, Oklahoma and Blackhawk. Division Five is commanded by Vice-Admiral Hilary Jones and Division Seven by Rear-Admiral E. W. Eberle.

BERLIN, April 28. — A semi-official statement was issued here today suggesting that the German government was willing to modify its reparations proposals if asked by Washington to do so, and that by such action a basis of agreement could be reached.

By NEWTON C. PARKE
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, April 28—France remained unshaken today in her demand that the allied armies advance further into Germany on Monday and occupy the Ruhr district. There was every indication that Premier Briand will insist upon further military penalties upon Germany when he goes to London to attend the meeting of the supreme council.

There are some who believe that a new peace conference may result from the present developments and that eventually a round table gathering of international diplomats will be held in Berlin, where a new covenant will be drawn up giving the allies what they hold as theirs according to right and justice.

Premier Briand has instructed Jusserand, the French ambassador to Washington, not to communicate the new German proposals to Paris. The premier, backed up by his cabinet and by parliament, has already decided that the German offer is unacceptable to France and cannot be discussed in its present form.

Marshal Foch has notified his government that he is ready to act on Monday morning. The British, however, have made no extensive preparations to extend their lines from the present zone of occupation on the Rhine

There are more than 100,000 allied troops on the Rhine ready to move forward immediately to throw a ring of bayonets about the Ruhr district, containing Germany's richest mining and industrial district.

The allied troops in the occupied areas are under the direction of Marshal Foch but are under the immediate command of General de Goutte, chief of the French army of occupation with headquarters at Mayence.

Allies Getting Together; Split Danger Averted

THE reparations situation today stood:

England, through Lloyd George, announces that the allies cannot accept the offer, he declaring that the terms are inadequate. But there is a disposition on the part of Britons to further study the proposals.

Four Sinn Fein Chiefs Are Shot At Cork Prison

Men Found Guilty of Levying War On British Empire Go to Death.

DUBLIN, April 28 — Four Sinn Fein leaders, who were found guilty by a British court-martial of levying war against British crown forces from ambush, were executed in the military barracks yard at Cork this morning. They were executed in couples, the first meeting death at 8 o'clock; the second fifteen minutes later.

The four men were Patrick O'Sullivan, Maurice Moore, Thomas Mulcahy and Patrick Ronayne.

O'Sullivan and Ronayne were led before the firing squad at 8 o'clock. When their bodies had been removed, fifteen minutes later the other two faced the riflemen

At the barracks gate a large crowd of sympathizers surrounded relatives of the condemned men, who were being comforted by two priests.

Women in the crowd were much affected when the first volley announced the death of the two men. Most of those at the gate remained kneeling until the second volley was heard and a guard appeared to post a notice that the sentence had been carried out.

The municipal corporation council and the park harbor board adopted resolutions of protest against the executions and announced that copies had been sent to President Harding at Washington and Pope Benedict at Rome. The protest was based upon the contention that the condemned men were not ordinary criminals, but prisoners of war.

Moore and O'Sullivan were convicted of levying war and attacking British crown forces at Clonmult County Court, February 20. Mulcahy and Ronayne were convicted of a similar offense committed near Mounne Abbey, February 15.

This makes a total of eleven men executed here during the last few months. The execution of six men in February had a swift sequel in the shooting and killing of five soldiers stationed at Cork and in the wounding of several others, one of whom later died.

Lloyd George Tells House of Commons That Reparation Terms Submitted by Berlin Are Entirely Inadequate

Announcement Is Made That Great Britain Will Co-operate With France in Plans to Enforce Their Demands

LONDON April 28 (By the Associated Press) —Lloyd George, the prime minister, speaking in the House of Commons today on Germany's reparations proposals, said

"I very much regret to say that they are thoroughly unsatisfactory and I wish it had been possible for me to say that they alter the situation."

Premier Lloyd George declared that the British government was committed to action, so far as the Westphalian coal fields were concerned, if the German reparation proposals were unsatisfactory, he added.

"It is not for me to say whether another opportunity will be given Germany or not.

"The proposals are being examined very carefully, with the other proposals at this moment, by the financial experts of all the Allies who are in London," continued Lloyd George.

Therefore, I would be very sorry to express a definite opinion, but I am afraid there is general unanimity as to the complete inadequacy of the proposals made by the German government."

He said that detailed plans for the occupation of the Westphalian coal fields were being exchanged by the conference of allied experts and that the reports of these experts would be laid before the inter-allied conference to be held Saturday. He added that he doubted that a decision of the supreme council would be taken before Monday or Tuesday.

NEXT MOVE BY SUPREME COUNCIL

PARIS, April 28 (By the Associated Press) —The next development regarding the German reparations is expected to occur in London, according to the best information obtainable here today, no further steps will be taken in this situation until the allied supreme council, which is to meet in London Saturday, has acted.

France will insist that nothing short of a beginning on the actual fulfillment of Germany's obligations should arrest the pressure of the allies The first actual beginning, it is suggested, may be the delivery of 1,000,000,000 marks in gold from the Reichsbank reserve as demanded by the reparations commission.

U. S. INVITED TO SPPREME COUNCIL.

PARIS, April 28. — (Associated Press.)—Application of further powers allies to Germany and the tracing of new boundary lines between Poland and German upper Silescia will be discussed by the supreme allied council at London Saturday, it was learned today.

The United States, it is understood, will be invited to have a representative present. Premier Briand and of France will, it is asserted, not undertake the occupation of the Ruhr district of Germany without the approval of the allies. Despatches are being exchanged between Washington and Berlin, Paris and London and many things may happen before French forces are ordered into Germany proper in default of German payments of reparations.

BERLIN, April 28.—Foreign Minister von Simons today was praying a clarification of his reparations offer.

The French refusal was expected and caused no surprise. Great Britain's request for a clearer statement aroused a belief that some of the allies want to negotiate a settlement.

The British action was believed to have staved off acceptance of Von Simons' resignation.

The most severe criticism of Von Simons' course was that by refusing to accept an American solution of reparations he had injured the national dignity.

Nine Hundred Germans to Be Tried for War Crimes

BERLIN, April 28.—Nine hundred Germans, whose punishment has been demanded by the entente for war crimes, will be tried at Leipsic, beginning May 23. Seven judges will sit as the court and will first hear witnesses against minor offenders.

The trials of Non-Commissioned Officer Heine, charged with abusing prisoners; Captain Mueller, commander at the prison camp at Flavy-Le-Martel, and Private Neuman, who is alleged to have maltreated prisoners at the prison camp at Pommerensorf, will be the first. Forty-seven witnesses have been called from England to testify in the three cases.

The minister of justice yesterday announced:

"Only men charged with the commission of specific crimes will be tried at first. We have made every possible effort to insure fair and impartial hearings. The British, French and Belgian governments will have representatives at the trials, but Germany will conduct the prosecution and the defense. I am able to declare positively that political or other undesirable interests will not be allowed to influence the proceedings."

TWO INJURED WHEN BALLOON AND AUTO MIX

SAN PEDRO, April 28. — Two men are in a hospital here today as a result of an accident in which an army balloon and an automobile figured. The balloon, with a capacity of 19,000 cubic feet of gas and piloted by Cadet M. Rubin of the Arcadia Balloon School, had descended from a height of 1000 feet when it became entangled in wires along Harbor Boulevard.

When Charles Gross, driving an automobile containing his wife and two children, was passing underneath, the huge bag exploded.

Rubin leaped from the pilot's basket and suffered bruises and a fractured hand. The blast set Gross' automobile afire. His wife and children escaped by jumping from the machine, but Gross was severely burned.

FOUND DEAD IN BED

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28. — William M. Hatfield, retired, father of Attorney George Hatfield of this city, was found dead early today in his apartment at the Stanford Hotel. He is supposed to have passed away during the night as a result of heart failure, due to hot weather.

TUBE BORINGS ARE POSTPONED

Postponement of soundings and borings for a $4,000,000 tube connecting Oakland and Alameda at Webster street was ordered by the Alameda county board of supervisors today, when it was determined to dispose of a number of obstacles before ordering the work to proceed.

Chairman W. H. Hamilton brought the matter before the board, and it was estimated that the cost of making the borings would be $5000 or $10,000.

Four main objections to immediate procedure with the tube were made by Supervisor Redmond Staats and Chief Deputy District Attorney Theodore Wittschen. They are:

1. That the county has a contract with the railroad commission, by which it agrees to erect a bascule bridge jointly with the Southern Pacific railroad. This cannot be abrogated out of hand.

2. If the railroad commission does not insist on the Southern Pacific maintaining its service to Alameda, the railroad company may not join in the expense at all. This, in turn, is said to hinge upon the construction of the Fourteenth street depot and the connection of the Webster tracks with those on Seventh street.

3. Much depends on whether the war department would permit a tube in lieu of the old bridge, which it has ordered removed.

4. Will the railroad company insist on the construction of a bridge as per contract with the county or will it join in building the conduit?

That it will be sixty days before these preliminary matters can be disposed of, was the opinion of Wittschen. Deputy County Surveyor George Posey said that the cost of borings may be reduced, if the route is made the same as that of the contemplated bascule bridge. Soundings for this bridge have been completed.

J. C. Holland Back in Office, Gets Raise

J. C. Holland, former deputy county clerk and clerk of the board of supervisors, will return to his old post May 1, according to an announcement made today bp County Clerk George E. Gross. Holland resigned last year because of the insufficient salary and accepted a position with a belting company. The legislature recently raised the salary of the position formerly occupied by Holland to $3000 a year, to take effect in August.

HELD AS BOOTLEGGER

United States Commissioner Albert M. Hardie this morning held Alfred Fantana to answer in the federal court on a charge of violating the national prohibition act. He was arrested last night by Police Officer W. J. Hughes. According to Hughes, he was trying to sell a gallon of jackass brandy which he had in a suitcase. His bail was set at $500.

GAGE FINDS OWN LAW TO DEFEND INSANITY CASE

Mixes With Court, Captain Petersen and Attorney in Examination.

Walter J. Petersen was called to the stand.

After preliminaries Gage addressed him, saying: "You were at one time captain of inspectors in the Oakland police department?"

"I am still in that position."

"I said," reiterated Gage, "you were at one time captain of inspectors."

"And I said that I still am."

"Do you work there?"

"No, I am employed in San Francisco."

"Congratulations," said Gage. "I, too, hold more than one position."

GAGE READS "OWN LAW"

"State what you intend this witness to prove," demanded Judge Trabucco.

"Your honor, I intend to have him prove many things."

There ensued a noisy argument and the defendant turned to grab a book which he held up, reading rapidly as follows:

"Persons in power should be very careful the way in which they deal with persons who do not care for the ritual. They may bind their bodies, but they cannot conquer their souls." He paused, turning to the Judge:

"There, your honor, is an exact extract from the Civil Code."

"What section?" asked the court.

"From MY section, your honor," said the defendant.

J. A. Thompson of the Central Bank was called. It was stipulated by the prosecution that he was an expert banker.

When asked to answer a question, "Yes," or "No," the defendant interrupted, facing the deputy district attorney.

"Leave him alone, you don't have to help him out. He's an expert."

Frank Watson took the stand. After lengthy discussion in which the defendant made a resume of affairs in relation to himself, the judge excused the witness.

CORPORATIONS PICTURED.

Expressing his displeasure of the act the defendant listened to the judge's explanation and then turning away said: "Ah, yes, a difference of opinion makes horse races in some countries."

Arthur G. Tashiera, attorney for a local bank, was called. He related seeing the defendant in the Hotel Oakland in a convict's garb and in the bright red shirt with revolvers in a holster.

The defendant interrupted.

"You are attorney for the Central bank are you not?"

"I am."

"That is a corporation, is it not?"

"It is."

"All corporations are heartless, therefore you must be."

Several times during the morning the defendant would stop to take some medicine he kept on the table, to rub a lotion over his face and to take a sniff of his smelling salts.

Auto Thief Suspect to Be Tried May 4

George Rheiner, charged with stealing an automobile, was arraigned this morning before Police Judge Edward J. Tyrrell and his preliminary examination set for May 2. He was arrested on Tuesday night after his companion, Albert Perry, 19, had been shot while trying to escape from Chief of Police Becker of Piedmont.

The two boys, the police say, were stripping an automobile on the Moraga road near Hampton, which had been stolen from the corner of Seventeenth street and San Pablo avenue. The machine belonged to W. E. Raleigh, 734 Fortieth street. Perry is still in the emergency hospital and if his condition permits he will be arraigned on May 4 before Judge Tyrrell.

REJECTION IS PREDICTED BY GERMAN PRESS

Belief Expressed That Terms of Offer Must Be Further Altered.

BERLIN, April 28. — Possibility that the German reparations proposals may be rejected was reflected in press comment on the situation here yesterday, the Vorwaerts saying that, in all probability, the German government would be called upon to further alter its terms "if it hopes to achieve success with them."

The industrialist organ Der Tag did not share the optimism expressed by Dr. Simons in his address before the Reichstag, during which the minister said Germany would "enter the promised land of freedom when the last annuity was paid."

"This parable," the newspaper added, "is just as faulty as Dr. Simons' reasoning in general. The people of Israel were permitted to take along their silver and gold when starting out on their journey, whereas the Germans are obliged to leave theirs behind. The people of Israel started out on a forty-years' practice march in search of a new country. We are to be locked up for forty years, and have only just started on the first batch of the 200,000,000,000 marks worth of bricks for the Anglo-French world pyramid. Dr. Simons is anything but a Moses; he is not even a gold calf."

LONDON, April 28. — "The supreme council will support the proposal for military occupation of the Ruhr district unless there is an amended indemnity proposal from Germany," the Evening Standard stated this afternoon.

CHARITY PROFITS BY NEW RULING IN PROBATE LAW

The sum of $20,000, left by Auguste Michel, pioneer, who died in Oakland, was distributed among three charitable organizations in accordance with the terms of Michel's will, through a decision by Superior Judge E. C. Robinson, for which there had been no legal precedent. According to law, the testator must make his will leaving money to charitable institutions, thirty days or more before he dies. Michel died within the 30-day limit. But he left no legal heirs to inherit his $150,000, hence Judge Robinson's decision.

The three charitable institutions mentioned in the will and the amounts left them were as follows: Ladies' Aid Society, $10,000; Merrit Hospital, $5000; Providence Hospital $5000.

DRESSES STOLEN

Three dresses valued at $275 were stolen last night from the tailor shop conducted by Mrs. M. R. Feeney, 1510 Franklin street.

SQUARE DEAL IS GIVEN TO PUBLIC SAYS FUEL MAN

Shortweighting Is Practically Eliminated, Speaker At Luncheon Declares.

High lights on the fuel situation in California and throughout the United States were given yesterday by J. B. Muir, principal speaker at the Progressive Business Men's Club luncheon in the Hotel Oakland. Muir returned recently from the California Fuel Dealers' convention in San Diego, the eighth convention of the organization.

He touched upon the work of the fuel dealers in the establishment of a weights and measures bureau and pointed out that, due to the effective work of the fuel dealers along this line, the practice of shortweighting had been practically eliminated. He called the attention of his hearers to the fact that, at the present time in Alameda county at least 2000 pounds, and usually two or three pounds over, are given for a ton, and that in purchasing a cord of wood the consumer may be sure that it has been carefully measured and that he is not being cheated.

He reviewed the history of fuel production and handling during the war and stated that no fuel dealer during the war had made a dollar of profit. He referred to the work of the fuel dealers in striving to avert a fuel famine and said that the railroads charge more to haul coal to California than to Oregon or Washington. The railroads, he declared, gave as their reason the fact that there is not so large a back haul from California. He said that he hoped some arrangement would be made soon whereby the movement of coal to California might commence in order that local fuel dealers could make it possible for their customers to take advantage of the summer storing privilege.

The speaker recounted in highly humorous fashion a trip he and other delegates to the convention took from San Diego across the Mexican border to Tijuana in a special train. There were 234 delegates on the special train. Muir remained for a brief period of sightseeing, returning to San Diego on a later train than the one carrying the other delegates.

What's Happening in the Motor World

by Jim Houlihan

W. L. Webber, local manager for Don Lee, and Mrs. Webber put in the week-end on a fishing trip to the Middle and North Forks of the Mokelumne River.

Webber gives the following account of the road, climatic and fishing conditions in this country:

"On leaving Stockton we proceeded to San Andreas over the Bellita road, which is a combination of highway and good dirt road. From San Andreas through Railroad Flat the roads are of the fair mountain variety, rather slow and rough.

"The Middle Fork can be reached from Stockton in about four hours' run.

"We camped at Shad's Mills Saturday night, and I'll say it was cold. I had a lot of blankets, but I haven't a good word to say for an air mattress during cold weather. The air in the mattress gets just as cold as the surrounding atmosphere, and the sensation is very much like lying on a cake of ice. I mean this literally, because in the morning we found a half-inch of ice in our water bucket. However, I would say that an air mattress, while the most comfortable possible bed for out of doors, is at least as cold as the old camp cot. When the weather is a little warmer they cannot be beat.

"If you should happen to lose your air pump for inflating the mattress, do not be discouraged, as it is possible to pump it up by blowing into it lustily. About the time you have given up ever getting it inflated it will rise up and hit you in the nose. I know, for I did it on this trip.

RIVER IS STILL HIGH.

"The river is still a little high for good fishing in the Middle Fork. We caught a few fish, but they were small. The Licking Fork, which is located three or four miles from Middle Fork, was in better condition for fly fishing. We only fished it for a couple of hours Sunday, however, because the fish run very small in size and not too numerous. Sunday afternoon we drove to Cook's Ranch, about eight miles beyond the town of West Point, over a very good road through a virgin pine forest. This is really a very beautiful drive.

"The next morning we walked to the summit and down to the river, which I presume is about three and one-half miles' hike, and drops about 1800 feet from the summit to the river bottom. The North Fork is entirely too high for fishing now; in fact, it is a raging torrent, but in my opinion it is one of the most beautiful streams coming out of the Sierras.

CAUGHT NICE TROUT.

"We caught a dozen nice trout with bait by hunting the eddies, but it was impossible to find a place to cast a fly. I do not believe there will be good fly fishing in this stream before July. Since Bruces' Camp is closed to the public one cannot get down to the river in a car, but one is lucky to find fishing any place these days.

The Defender road, down into the river from West Point on the return trip, is rough and narrow, and it was necessary for us to back up three times to allow trucks to pass. There are but six miles of this bad road. The Amador highway from Spring Grove to Jackson is a boulevard with a fine even grade. The road from Jackson to Clements is indifferently good and bad, but from Clements on it is all paved. Via Jackson the road from West Point measures 149 miles to Oakland and can be made very nicely in about six hours."

TOM VINCENT PROUD PAPA.

The reason Tom Vincent of the Franklin Motor Car Company has been making a fine sales record during the last three months is now known. The stork called at the Vincent domicile Tuesday morning and left an eight and a half pound girl.

Of course, Tom is all smiles and to best let his friends know how happy he is he has ordered several boxes of cigars which he wants his acquaintances to smoke up.

He has asked us to pass the word along. We have done so.

Mothers Day To Be Publicly Celebrated

By EDNA B. KINARD

When Sunday, May 8, comes it will bring with it a tribute to the Mothers of America. Mothers' Day is to be publicly celebrated throughout the Eastbay cities, not alone by the wearing of the carnation and the gift of flowers to mothers of their own or mothers who are alone but in song and sermon as churches observe the beautiful custom. The Young Woman's Christian Association is sponsoring a "Daughters Go to Church on Mothers' Day" celebration. Miss Amy Gordon is the secretary in charge. Everywhere the priests, rectors and pastors are cooperating Whether hair be golden or white, every woman who holds the thought of her mother dear, is being appealed to to attend service at least once on this particular Sunday.

In honor of Mothers some of the churches next week are extending hospitality to Daughters, who dwell beneath their shadow and as preliminary to the May holy day are inviting them to a specially planned dinner.

Mothers' Day ceremonies will present a corps of white gowned young women in most of the churches who will offer the worshippers carnations, symbolical of the Sunday set apart for the tribute.

He referred to present conditions as constituting a nominal peace, but lacking many benefits of a real peace.

"General Grant's advice, 'Let us have peace,' is a peculiarly proper theme," the president wrote, in taking notice of the fact that the occasion was Grant anniversary observance.

ST. MARY'S PLANS DANTE DRAMA

Wierd lighting effects, brilliant costumes, elaborate scenery and stage settings, designed and prepared by the Rev. Brother Cornelius, head of the art department of St. Mary's college, will add to the brilliancy of the production of "Dante, the Wing-Bearer," a drama in three acts by the Rev. Brother Leo, dean of the department of English at St. Mary's college, which will be staged at the Oakland municipal auditorium on the afternoon and evening of May 6, by the student players of St. Mary's college, as a part of the world-wide observance of the sexcenteneray of the death of Dante, father of Italian literature.

A special program of Italian music has been arranged for the occasion by Professor Thiel, head of the music department of the college.

The leading role will be essayed by Leo Cunningham, graduate of St. Mary's college. James L. Hagerty, graduate of St. Mary's college, where he is now an instructor in history and English, will play the role of Corso Donati. Hagerty, two years ago, scored a triumph as the hunchbacked king in the St. Mary's production of Shakespeare's "Richard III."

All proceeds from the play will be given to the American Quakers now succoring the stricken women and children in Ireland, according to announcement by the Rev. Brother Gregory, president of St Mary's college.

IT KEEPS HIM UP AND GOING AT 71

"I am now seventy-one years of age, but I don't believe you could find a man of my age who is more healthy and active than I," said J. M. Lauterbach, night watchman for the Pacific Spring Bed Co., residing at 2234 Ninth street, Berkeley, Cal., in relating his experience with Tanlac, recently.

"Yes, sir, I never miss a night from work, and always feel good Up until a year ago I always enjoyed good health. But along then I noticed I was off my feed. I felt tired, and it worried me no little to see my usual good health slipping away from me.

"Well, I never was much of a hand to take medicine, but I heard Tanlac praised so much I decided to try it, in the hope that it would build me up and get me to feeling like my old self. Since then I've taken it along as I felt that I needed it, and it keeps me eating well, sleeping soundly and feeling good. I can't claim any wonderful recovery from the use of Tanlac, but it did for me all that I needed, and is still my faithful standby, so I'm more than glad to say a word of praise for it. Tanlac keeps me up and going, and I am more than satisfied with it."

$1,000,000 POOR BAIT TO LURE CHARLIE CHAPLIN

He has turned down an offer, it was announced today, of a salary of $20,000 a week as star and director of a theatrical company. A group of English financiers made the offer.

"Tempting—almost overwhelming" said Chaplin, "but I couldn't accept."

In addition to the staggering salary, Chaplin would have received a bonus of $250,000 if he accepted, it is said.

Civic Pride Begins in the Homes

IF EVERY HOUSE WAS PAINTED AT THE SAME TIME

May 1 is more than moving day. The time was when the paragrapher and the maker of quip and joke could depend upon May 1 as the time for a line of humor about moving vans and beating the parlor carpet before it found its new location on the new floor.

Today May 1 means looking over the old house, inside and out, to see where and what can be done to make the old home more attractive. May 1 means that spring is well on its way toward summer, the weather has become settled, and the house owner and even the home owner who rents his house, takes account of stock, sees where a little paint will add to the outside, a little wall paper or coloring will add to the inside, where the front fence can be fixed or the garden improved, where the kitchen can have a few conveniences added, where, in fact, the home can be made more homey.

The property owner owes it to his home town, to his immediate community, to see that his place is kept up as to garden and exterior of the building, and the home owner owes it to his family and himself to see that his place is kept up as to interior; that this is the time of year to see that both are done. It is the transition period between winter and summer. Winter has done all the damage possible. Whatever weaknesses there are in the building have developed, and now is the time to prepare for the long summer.

Civic pride should begin with one's own home and fireside. The beautification of a city depends upon the beautification of every house within its borders. The effect that a city makes upon the visitor is the effect of the average home, not the park that is cared for by the park commission, but the row after row of homes that are cared for by the owners.

How do the individuals that make up the city live?

That is what the visitor who has an eye toward settling wants to know.

A little paint, a few shingles, a new sidewalk or curbing, a bit of color here, a bit of plaster there, all these trifles go to make up the general effect of the city as a whole. This is where the property owner owes it to his city as a whole to keep his property in proper condition.

And in the interior he owes it to his family and himself to keep that interior in proper condition. A few dollars spent in tinting the rooms or adding a pretty wall paper, in putting a few improvements in the kitchen or laundry will add hundreds of dollars to the comfort and attractiveness of the home.

A very few hundred dollars expended upon a house that is for sale will add a thousand dollars in value to the place.

The banker knows that a few hundred dollars in miscellaneous improvements will make a building upon which he hesitates to make a loan, worth four times the amount expended, in loaning value.

In other words, it pays to paint up and clean up.

This was a popular slogan for many years. The story of "paint up and clean up" has been told many times over, yet it is just as fresh today as it was before.

"Save the Surface" has taken the place of the former slogan, and people are being advised that "save the surface and you save all."

It is not alone a matter of saving something, it is what is added to the community by the appearance, it is what is added to the comfort of the home by the little additions that are made.

Study the effect of having every building in Oakland painted or repainted at one time. The municipal boundaries would be sharply defined by the bright houses upon one side of the street and the dingy ones on the other. What a sensation the repainting of an entire town would make.

The Uptown Association arose to the value of appearances, and the first thing that the organization did was to inaugurate a campaign within their district for tearing down old fences and repainting old structures. The association has made a noticeable improvement in the district it represents by simply following the old slogan, "clean up and paint up," and what has been done in that district can be done in every part of the community which shows the effect of the wear and tear of time and weather.

There is no kind of building that is not affected, from the class A steel structure to the simplest bungalow. All can be improved and benefitted by the practical application of "save the surface" both inside and out.

Nothing would be more effective than for every community improvement club to take action toward an organized "clean up and paint up" campaign in their particular district.

The new city planning commission could do worse than to start a general "clean up and paint up" campaign in the entire Eastbay district, with the good work of the Uptown Association as a model of what can be done.

MAKE OLD HOME NEW; KEEP NEW YOUNG

When anything is finished it stops and when it stops it dies.

This is as true of a house as of anything else, for a house is an organism. It lives, grows, declines and perishes. We often see houses that have window blinds hanging by a single hinge; window glass gone, roof sagging; formerly lovely—now deserted domiciles. Soon that house would have become nothing but a memory. But a hurry call is issued for those expert house physicians, commonly known as architects or builders. Heroic remedies are applied, the house quivers in every beam and rafter and murmuring "Where am I?" comes to life again to enjoy a second youth of indefinite duration.

A nice thing about houses is that they will not die if we only take care of them.

There are two important things to always consider. How to make an old house young and how to keep a new house from growing old.

The day of the sombre, gloomy room, with its drab-colored walls, its dark shadowy corners and depressing atmosphere of middle-aged sobriety has passed. The whole world is eager for laughter, cheer and happiness. Everybody wants to throw up his heels and dance a bit, and remember how it feels to be young and carefree. This desire is finding expression more and more in American homes, where a judicious use of color is marking a new era in interior decoration.

Volumes might be written upon the psychology of color. Startling blues and splashy orange, stimulating greens and warm rose, were the colors that were relied upon to dispel the gloom of war and turn men's thoughts toward happier themes. Likewise these same colors are used to disperse the gloom of sickness and the cares of a business world.

Not every man or woman is trained in color discrimination, but the services of an interior decorator can easily be had, whose ability to follow proper color combinations, in walls, curtains, cushions, rugs and furniture will make the parts a pleasing and harmonious whole.

We should all be proud of our homes.

When passers-by stop to admire a home, the owner has every reason to feel proud. A house can easily be made the envy of a street at a little expense and the proper and regular care.

The largest Atlantic liners carry as many as 150 firemen to keep steam up.

Food Draft Plan to Be Discontinued

Word received here from the New York headquarters of the American relief administration announced the discontinuance on April 30 of food drafts issued by banking institutions in the United States for the delivery of packages of foodstuffs in Austria, Poland, Hungary, Czecho-Slovakia and Germany. Drafts purchased here before Saturday, according to R. B. Breese, in charge of the foreign department of the Central National Bank of Oakland, will be honored at the warehouses of the American relief administration in Vienna, Warsaw, Budapest, Prague and Hamburg until July 30.

The governments of Austria, Poland, Hungary, Czecho-Slovakia and Germany are now dissolving their food controls, according to Herbert Hoover, chairman of the relief federation, and this is the reason for the discontinuance of the food draft plan.

Two hundred and eighty thousand drafts have been sold throughout the United States during the past fourteen months, representing $7,000,000 in foodstuffs. During the past six months, according to Breese, 485 drafts, approximating $6640, have been forwarded from the Central National Bank of Oakland.

FALL SNAPS RIB OF COP-SHOOTING AT AGILE SUSPECT

S. F. Patrolman in Hospital After Chase Making Arrest, and Losing Second Man.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Following a sensational chase last night in which the officer caught one man, and lost another when he fell into a hole, Patrolman Louis Raymond of the southern police station is in the Central emergency hospital today suffering from a broken rib, and John Bowman is being held at the central station on a charge of vagrancy and bail of $1000, pending further investigation.

Raymond caught Bowman, handcuffed him and turned him over to Police Sergeant Mumm, and continued the pursuit after another man. Firing his pistol as he ran, the officer crossed a vacant lot, and fell into a hole. From where he lay with a broken rib, the officer continued firing but apparently the shots were not effective and the man disappeared.

Raymond was sent to the St. Augustine hotel 441 Minna street, last night, in answer to summons of the clerk who said that two men were there trying to sell watches. The clerk told the police he believed they were stolen.

Raymond arrived just in time to see the men run. He gave chase and overtook Bowman, whom he manacled and turned over to Police Sergeant Mumm, who arrived. Continuing his pursuit after the other man, the officer drew his pistol and fired. The chase took the patrolman down Minna street and through a vacant lot where he fell into the hole. Unable to arise, the officer emptied his pistol from the ground at the fleeing figure.

Bowman was taken to the Central station where he was booked on a charge of vagrancy, and Raymond was taken to the Central emergency hospital where it was discovered that he was suffering from a broken rib.

WOMAN'S IDEAL OF WAR DAYS PROVES FAILURE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—When Miss Dorothy Watts of Brisbane, Australia, was driving an ambulance in the Royal English forces on the French front, where she was constantly under shell fire, she decided upon the type of man she would marry. He would be a man of iron, a man afraid of nothing and ready to die at any moment for a just cause—a man like the men she was daily carting from the lines back to the first-aid station.

Then came an end to the war and the war heroine returned to her Australian home, where she met Alexander Allen, a wireless telegrapher, who she believed met the necessary requirements.

Yesterday Mrs. Dorothy Allen stood before Justice Sylvester J. McAtee in San Francisco and told how, after five days of wedded life, her husband set sail as a wireless telegrapher for a port in Java, telling her that he was going to become manager of a rubber plantation and would later send for her. She produced a letter in which Allen told her of his love and of his longing to see her. Then came another letter telling of Allen's love for another girl and begging her to get a divorce.

Allen was arrested upon his arrival in this port on the S. S. Tjikembang of the Java-China Pacific S. S. Line, and later released on bail. Mrs. Allen came all the way from Australia to San Francisco to appear against him. She says she does not want a divorce, but merely asks that her husband support her. The case was continued until Saturday.

NO BAIL INVOLVED

The shifting of a linotype "slug" from one column to another in The TRIBUNE of April 19 thereby robbing one item of a much-needed line and adding it to another, caused John Otterson some embarrassment, he says when his friends read that after he, Otterson, had been accused of smashing his wife in the eye, which she charged in her divorce complaint and "bail was set at $3000." The bail part of the story belonged to the tale of woe in the adjoining column concerning Enrique Pablo, charged with forgery, and had nothing whatever to do with Otterson.

QUITS THINKING IT PRIVILEGE TO FEED 'NOBLITY'

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Too frequent reminders that it was a privilege to hand over a weekly pay check to an English nobleman finally brought Mrs. Ruth Pilley, telephone operator, 266 Dolores street, into court for a divorce, according to her testimony yesterday. She was given a decree against John W. Pilley, alleged man of leisure.

Mrs. Pilley told the court that they were married in Oakland in July, 1915, and immediately after the wedding she was informed by her mate that she would have to provide for his support, as well as her own, because he belonged to the English nobility and could not consent to work at common labor.

She said she did not object to this at first and worked steadily, but that later she rebelled when her husband reminded her often of her low station in life as compared with his noble position.

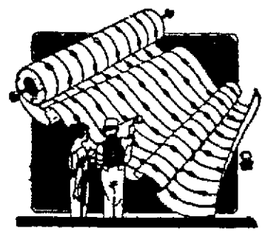

Mrs. Pilley did not ask alimony.

Optimism and Good Times
follow the trail of the Paint Brush

Dark, dreary days depress.

The people in shabby, run-down-at-the-heel communities actually become more sluggish and unenterprising. They reflect their dismal, shabby, unpromising surroundings.

The well-painted buildings of a thrifty, progressive community stimulate optimism. People view with courage and confidence when surrounded with bright, attractive dwellings, stores and factories.

If Alameda County wishes to impress visitors favorably—if she wishes to attract investors—if she wishes to maintain her position in California, she must arouse herself and paint up her property.

She must paint, not only for the purpose of presenting an attractive appearance to those who visit, but for the purpose of creating a stimulating atmosphere and environment for her own people.

Let all shake off lethargy and join with the nation in the "Save the Surface" campaign.

PORT COLLECTOR DAVIS RETURNS FROM ABROAD

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Collector of the Port John O. Davis of Berkeley, who has been on a two months' tour of the Orient returned today on the liner Nanking fortified with a fund of stories of his experiences. By reason of his official position, Davis was unwilling to discuss international politics or touch in any way upon the relations of Japan and the United States or the feeling in the Nipponese empire toward America as the result of recent agitation. He did, however, relate a few of his own experiences, one of which was particularly exciting:

"I was in the barber shop of the Nanking, and we were near the islands on the Chinese coast, where the Chinese steamer Kong Moh recently went down with the loss of 1,300 souls. Suddenly there was a terrible earthquake. The vibration shook our boat from bow to stern. Without hesitation the Chinese barber deserted me. My face was covered with lather and I was prostrate on the chair. When I realized that I was alone, I found that the door had been locked and that I was practically a prisoner. After the terrific shaking and considerable excitement on board, the vessel passed through the danger zone without difficulty. Bodies could still be seen floating on the ocean.

"In this connection I heard much praise of the heroism of Captain Evans of the British steamer Carlisle, who went to the rescue of the Kong Moh. When he reached the scene he found Chinese passengers and crew refusing to leave the fragment of the boat that still floated on the surface of the water. He managed to rescue about 200 of them, swimming to the hulk with a line and having them hauled aboard his own craft. Once when the hawser parted he himself dived into the mountainous seas and repaired it. In order to save some of the unwilling ones, Evans had to throw them from the wreck into the sea, forcing them to grab hold of the line and pulling them to safety."

BRIBE OF 100 MILLION TURNED DOWN BY SCHWAB

By FLOYD MACGRIFF,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 28.—"Germany offered Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate, a $100,000,000 bribe" if he would break his war contracts with Lord Kitchener; England learned of this and countered with an offer of $150,000,000.

"Mr. Schwab laughed and said Germany and England together hadn't enough to make him break with Kitchener."

This startling and heretofore untold episode of the world war was related today by Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the state of New York, at a testimonial "integrity" reception tendered Schwab. The reception, the fourth given by the organization in 153 years, was the outgrowth of allegations, later officially discredited, made before the shipping board congressional investigating committee, that Schwab, when an officer of the shipping board, profited by a $100,000 expense voucher.

GERMANY RESORTED TO BRIBE TACTICS

Detailing how Schwab, "a great executive, a man who could do things," was sought by England to "do the impossible in construction of submarines," Kingsley said that after Schwab had demonstrated he could build submarines in five months, when it previously had required seventeen months, Germany sought to "buy" him.

"Then Germany's chief spy in the United States—called in those days an ambassador—tried to block Schwab and succeeded in embarrassing him," Kingsley stated.

"Realizing what he was doing and could do was likely to be a large factor in the war, Germany sought to buy him, in order to stop him."

Reviewing Schwab's work in speeding up construction of war and merchant vessels, after Schwab had been called in by President Wilson and showing how in eleven months America launched four million tons of ships, Kingsley said with the armistice came men of "the peanut mind" who "publicly tried to show that this colossus amongst men, this gentleman whose sense of duty was so fine he had refused a vast bribe when working for others, had, when in the service of his own country, yielded to petty temptation."

CHARACTER DEFAMERS FLAYED BY SPEAKER

Kingsley said men who attempted such defamation of a man's character—as precious to him as a woman's virtue—were like Shakespeare's "Iachimo, weaving a web of lies" about the virtuous and chaste Imogen.

Kingsley on behalf of the assemblage, presented Schwab with a bronze tablet commemorating Schwab's war service in behalf of the nation. He said the tablet was to be a perpetual "voucher" to attest that the "American heart still drives through American life blood that is red and not yellow."

"We play the game very hard, but as businessmen we never forget that the basis of all commerce is business honor," said Kingsley.

WRITES VERSE THEN ATTEMPTS TO END LIFE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—After writing a half dozen verses in a diary, Eric Hanson, a mechanic, attached a tube to a gas stove and placed it in his mouth early today. He was found in a sinking condition in his room, 319 Sixth street, and is not expected to recover. One of his lines reads:

"Existence lays a load upon my breast,
Life is a curse and death a longed-for rest."

San Francisco News

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Land owners and winemakers have informed S. F. Rutters, acting prohibition director, that 200,000 more acres have been planted to wine grapes in California this year. In explanation the growers say wine grapes bring a better price than they have ever brought in the past. Wineries are not prohibited from making wine, as long as they furnish bonds to cover the amount of the internal revenue tax.

J. SILVA CHASES TWO TO PRISON, INCLUDING SELF

Joe Silva saw a man driving a machine without a license plate. Silva decided he should do his duty as a citizen and arrest the man. He pursued the other automobile several miles about the city. At the corner of Fourteenth and Franklin streets Officer Mike Moore stopped the machine which Silva was chasing and placed the driver, Jack Knight, under arrest for having no plates on his car. Silva drove up while the officer was arresting Knight. The officer looked at Silva's car and placed him under arrest on the same charge.

When both men appeared this morning before Police Judge Edward J. Tyrrell, Silva was advised by the judge to be sure and see that he was not violating any law while pursuing a law-breaker. Both cases were dismissed by the judge.

LABOR CLAIMS ROADS CAN SAVE $3,377,355,000

Board Asked to Let the Wage Question Go Until Rules Are Settled.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Railroad labor today began its reply to the roads' request for lower wages by asking the railroad labor board not to decide the wage question until rules and working conditions are settled, and by presenting figures which, the unions said, proved that the roads could reduce operating expenses annually by $3,377,355,000, or more than 50 per cent, without lowering the rates of pay for employees.

B. M. Jewell, spokesman for labor, contested the roads' statements concerning reductions in the cost of living since July, 1920. He presented the following table:

Fuel savings, if prices continue to decline, $1,000,000,000.

Inadequacies of railroad management, $1,266,500,000.

Savings derived from additional capital investments, $759,855,000.

Savings on apprentices, $22,000,000.

Savings on helpers, $89,000,000.

Total, $3,377,355,000.

Jewell outlined labor's case by announcing that thirty-eight exhibits had been prepared for the board.

SHIPYARD MEN ACCEPT DEFI

Oakland shipyard wrestlers have accepted the challenge of Young Farmer Burns, who is appearing at the big open-air bazaar at the St. Mary's College grounds, and will attempt tonight to win some of the money offered to any amateur who keeps his shoulders off the mat for one minute.

Several of the huskies among the shipyard workers are confident they can prevent the professional from throwing them within that time and some are even confident that they can win from him.

WORKER HURT BY FALLING WALL

Manuel Alfonze, workman, was seriously injured today when a brick wall at Ninth and Franklin street collapsed and partially buried him. Alfonze was working in a trench for the foundation of a new building, when a portion of the old wall, about five feet high and fifty feet in length crumbled and fell. Alfonze was struck by the falling brick which buried him to above the waist line. Workmen went to his rescue and removed the debris from around him. He was loaded into a passing automobile and taken to the receiving hospital where his injuries were found to be bruises and lacerations, with a possible fracture of the right leg.

The contractors in charge of the excavation work are R. W. Bartram, excavating and grading, and G. A. Scott.

Tom Reid, of Berkeley, another workman, had a narrow escape. He saw the wall begin to crumble and jumped just in time. His shovel was caught under the pile of debris. The excavation is being made for the construction of a garage.

GET RID OF THOSE ANTS

In all probability warm days will now become more and more frequent and as the summer season advances, so also will the great army of Argentine Ants advance.

The most successful method of destroying them that we know of, is the use of Argo Ant Poison.

This poison is manufactured according to suggestions from the authorities of the University of California and of the government, both of whom have been studying the Argo Ant problem for many years very carefully.

The theory of the poison, is that it attracts the worker ants, which in turn carry the poison to the queens in the nests, where it is fed to the queens and thus the source of the colony is destroyed. It is purposely made so that it will not kill the worker ants, therefore do not conclude that it is ineffective simply because you see large numbers of ants feeding upon it constantly.

If you keep your feeder cans clean and well supplied with this poison, and do not put the cans inside of your house, but keep them constantly in your garden, you will find in time, that the ants disappear.

A large size bottle of Argo Ant poison, including one feeder can, sells for 35c. Extra cans 5c each.

In an ordinary garden, 8 or 10 cans are all that are needed.

A COLUMN FOR KODAKERS

Do you know that since the war the Eastman Kodak Company has materially reduced the price of Kodaks?

Immediately upon receipt of notice of this reduction from the factory, we cut the prices of all stock on hand.

You can, therefore, expect to purchase a Kodak now for considerably less than you were asked to pay a few months ago.

If you are so unfortunate as not to own a Kodak, or if your instrument is out of date or of a type unsatisfactory to you, be sure to get your new machine early in the season so that you may have the full benefit of it.

Picture taking right now is very successful and hundreds of Kodak enthusiasts are daily taking snap shots that in the years to come will be appreciated more than you can realize at present.

We have all kinds of Kodaks and all kinds of photographic supplies both for the amateur and the professional.

Our printing and developing department is succeeding in doing some of the best work in its history and according to our customers, the best work to be found anywhere around the Bay. In fact, we receive almost daily films by mail from people living in other states and even in other countries. Such customers have evidently found that Bowman's printing and developing work is not to be duplicated anywhere, and are willing to wait sometimes for several weeks for their films to arrive by mail at our store, be developed and printed and returned to them.

Our method of inspection is rigid and assures you of the very best possible results from the exposure.

PICNIC OUTFITS

You have probably often wished you had an automobile picnic case, consisting of a Thermos bottle, knives, forks, cups, spoons, plates, etc.

We have quite a variety of these cases at prices ranging from $3.60 to $42.50 each.

MILK DRIVERS, DEALERS BREAK OFF CONFERENCE

Differences As to Clause in Agreement May Lead to Strike.

Following a break in a conference last night between representatives of the Milk Dealers' Association with those of the Milkwagon Drivers' Union, a situation today developed which may result in a strike of the milk wagon drivers of the Eastbay cities on May 1.

The conference was held last night in the dealers' headquarters in the Bacon Building for the purpose of drawing up an agreement between the association and the union with regard to labor conditions for the coming year. Each year a new agreement is drawn up for the coming year. The present agreement expires May 1.

OBJECT TO CLAUSE

At the conference last night the dealers sought to change the clause of the agreement which has been in use for several years in regard to the discharge of employes. The present clause says: "No member of the union shall be discharged only for good and sufficient reason."

The dealers say that this clause has interfered with the elimination of inefficient workers except where cases amounting to dishonesty were shown. It has resulted, the association says, in forcing the dealers to keep in their employ a number of insufficient workers to the discredit of the others.

UNION TO TAKE VOTE

James Ryan, business agent of the Milk Drivers' Union, left the conference when the change was proposed and no further action has been taken. Ryan says the new clause will have to be voted on by the union before the new agreement can be drawn up.

The clause which the association wants to substitute for the present one reads:

"No employe shall be discharged or discriminated against for upholding union principles, and any member of the union who serves on a committee shall not lose his position or be discriminated against for this reason."

Woman Pilots Her Auto Into Lake Merritt

Piloting her automobile, which she was learning to drive, across the lawn that separated Lake Merritt from the driveway at Twenty-first and Harrison streets, over the three-foot embankment and into Lake Merritt proper without so much as denting a fender of the car or disturbing any of the passengers, aside from letting them down into nearly four feet of water was the experience of Mrs. Dorothy Stososs, wife of Chris Stososs, tailor of 2248 Telegraph avenue.

According to the police report on the accident, Mrs. Stososs lost control of her car. In it with her were her husband, and Mrs. Stososs' sister, Mrs. Mazie Marshall, 8130 Grove street, Berkeley.

After the trio had waded ashore, Stososs summoned a truck and tow chain. The auto was dragged out and allowed to drip, after which Stososs stepped on the self-starter and, to the surprise of all, the motor started.

SAVE-SURFACE JOBS TOO MANY FOR PAINTERS

Scarcity of Paint Spreaders Developed by Alameda Co. Campaign, Claim.

The "save-the-surface" campaign in Alameda county has already resulted in a shortage of painters, according to the statement of J. C. Downey, chairman of the financial committee of the campaign at a committee meeting last night.

The educational campaign has resulted in an unusually large number of painting contracts in the past week and this, in connection with the return to work of the painters, following the strike of two weeks ago, has taxed the master painters to their capacity, Downey stated.

CALL FOR HOME JOBS

According to members of the Master Painters' association of Alameda county, who were represented at the meeting, many contracts for paint work have been received from residential sections, although many of the large manufacturing concerns and office buildings have started "brightening up" through painting and decorating.

Statistics compiled by the master painters during the past two weeks show that at least 80 per cent of the painting contracts, other than new work, is on buildings in the residential sections, according to Harry McManus, president of the Master Painters' association of Alameda county. This, it is believed, bears out the contention of the members of the "save-the-surface" campaign committee that the small property owner has learned the lesson of the value of paint.

ALAMEDA ENDORSEMENT

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Alameda branch of the Master Painters association yesterday the general policy of the "save-the-surface" campaign was heartily endorsed and members of the organization pledged themselves to aid in the campaign in every way possible.

The plan of campaign adopted by the association in the Encinal City is directly in line with that of the general campaign committee and includes, besides an educational campaign to inform the general public of the value and merits of paint, an individual as well as co-operative advertising campaign.

Medical College Bill Put On Table

SACRAMENTO, April 28.—Anderson's bill requiring medical colleges to have property and equipment valued at $100,000 was laid on the table last night by the assembly committee on medical and dental laws. The bill had passed the senate with dissenting votes.

CITY POLITICAL NOTES

Mrs. Georgia C. Ormsby, candidate for school director No. 2, has addressed the following to the city council:

"Gentlemen: I respectfully request at the coming election to be held in Oakland, Cal., May 10, 1921, that all prefixes or any titles designating the business or profession of any candidates for office be eliminated before the names of such candidates, and that the ballots for such election be printed without the appellation of 'Doctor' or 'Dr.' or 'Mrs.' before each name, for the following reasons:

"The word 'Doctor' or 'Dr.' fails to specify to what school of medicine, if any, the candidates belong.

"It is decidedly disadvantageous to other candidates.

"It acts as an advertisement for such candidate's business.

"The ballot should not be used as an advertising medium.

"It gives an unwarranted emphasis to such a candidacy.

"It is discriminatory to opponents who use no titles.

"Every citizen, especially candidates, should stand equal in the eyes of the law.

"It is misleading to voters who do not know whether the candidates are osteopaths, homeopaths, allopaths, dentists, veterinaries, physicians, and surgeons, doctors of divinity, doctors of medicine, chiropractors, mental healers, Christian Science practitioners, and other 'doctors' too numerous to mention.

"I make this appeal to your honorable body only in a spirit of fair play. If it is allowable for some candidates to use 'titles' it is just as right and permissible that I should state that I am a 'Bachelor of Arts,' and that I possess certain honors and degrees conferred upon me from a university of which I am a graduate."

The Hempstead workers are sending out copies of a letter from Representative J. A. Elston congratulating H. T. Hempstead on his success at the nominating primary in qualifying for commissioner No. 1.

The announcement that Eugene A. Young and George W. Hatch have combined forces in the campaign for the positions of school director No. 1 and No. 2 respectively and that they have the backing of many of the civic and commercial organizations who are striving to maintain the present high standards of the public schools of Oakland, promises to make the campaign an interesting one. Last night the Retail Meat Dealers Exchange, with a membership of 170, unanimously endorsed Young's and Hatch's candidacies, in a strong set of resolutions. The resolutions state that the board of education directs the city's biggest business; that business men of the highest standing are needed at this time to handle the expenditure of nearly $4,000,000 yet to be spent for new school buildings. The public schools welfare committee, which is in charge of of campaign for Young and Hatch, announced today that support was being pledged from many of the women's organizations, improvement clubs and other organizations.

H. T. Hempstead, candidate for commissioner No. 1, said yesterday that he will take steps to see that his interests are protected in the recount of the ballots which will begin May 1 in the superior courts. "I am satisfied that I was counted out of many ballots cast for me at the primaries," said Hempstead, "and although my majority was a substantial one it will be interesting to know who is responsible for all the crookedness alleged to be committed, according to the Morse petition for a recount."

MORE SPEED IS AGAIN URGED IN LOWER HOUSE

Assemblymen Warned That Christmas Is Nearer Than Conclusion of Work.

SACRAMENTO, April 28. — The Assembly worked steadily yesterday, but devoted most of its time to the handling of routine matters, such as adopting Senate amendments to Assembly bills and advancing second reading bills to third reading. When adjournment was taken for dinner, 58 bills had been added to the file during the day and 19 disposed of, making a net loss of 39 numbers since morning, and leaving a total of 297 numbers to be disposed of before Friday noon.

In adjourning the Assembly for the evening recess, Speaker Pro Tem Rosenshine, who was in the chair, informed the members that unless they increased the speed with which business was being handled they would "be here until Christmas."

Other than concurring in the Senate amendments to the P. M. Wright prohibition bill, which took the clause out of it that provided for its submission to the voters before it became effective, the assembly did nothing yesterday with relation to bills of general interest. It took up the bill relating to the department of agriculture that is part of the general scheme of state reorganization, amended the department of weights and measures out of it, and then sent it to reprint. The amendment means that the weights and measures work will continue as a separate agency.

BILLS ARE PASSED

Included in ho bills passed and sent to the governor were the following, by the senators named:

Osborne—Requiring the installation of sanitary facilities in the operating rooms of motion picture houses and theaters hereafter constructed.

Boggs—Requiring aliens to register, pay a poll tax at $10 annually and carry a license of inspection.

Duncan — Amending redlight abatement act.

Crowley—Amending the medical practice act to regulate chiropodists.

Sample—Permitting municipalities to relieve street car companies of the requirement that they pave between the rails of their tracks and for two feet on each side.

AT NIGHT SESSION

At the night session the assembly worked rapidly, and in two hours passed as many bills as were disposed of all day. Included were nine amendments to probate practice statutes and some other minor changes in existing laws, as well as the following, all of which were sent to the governor, having already passed the senate:

Rigdon—Amending the free text book law to include the California Polytechnic school, and also to require adult students at night high schools to make a five-dollar deposit for books used, deposit to be returned if books are accounted for.

Harris—Two amendments to the dairy products laws, fixing the moisture content in cheese and making other minor changes.

Rigdon—New act to improve and regulate the number and use of bulls running on open range.

Eden—Two acts, one granting Orange county some lands at Newport harbor, and the other enabling the county to manage the harbor.

Jones—Four acts agreed on by the industrial accident commission, welfare commission, building exchange and building trades councils making minor changes in building laws.

Will Sign No Bills Until Session Ends

SACRAMENTO, April 28.—It was announced at the office of Governor Stephens yesterday that the governor had decided he would sign no bills until after the legislature had finally adjourned.

This step was taken, it was said, because legislators were urging immediate consideration of their measures and the governor wanted all bills relating to various topics before him before he determined which to approve.

Redlight Abatement Amendment Passed

SACRAMENTO, April 28.—Senator Duncan's bill to amend the red light abatement law by preventing extended delays through appeals to higher courts was passed by the assembly yesterday and sent to the governor. The bill was intended to so change the practice in abatement cases that incidents in which bonds may be given, appeals taken and the practices complained of continued for months or years while the appeals are pending, will become impossible.

Grandmother—never know this convenience

Grandmother used to worry about having enough milk on hand for her cooking, and table use. She worried about milk turning sour. She worried about telling the milk man to leave an extra quart when she had lots of cooking to do.

The modern housewife does not do this worrying. In a few seconds, she makes her own skim milk for cooking, as she needs it, by adding water to

Bill Regulating Foreign Language Schools Passed

SACRAMENTO, April 28.—Assemblyman Parker's bill, placing foreign language schools in California under strict regulation of the superintendent of public instruction, passed the senate yesterday and was sent to the governor for signing. It met with no opposition.

Teachers in such schools would be required to satisfy the superintendent of public instruction that they were sufficiently informed as to American history and institutions before permits were issued to them, under the provisions of the bill. The measure further provides for the supervision of textbooks and courses in foreign language schools, and limits the time such schools may be in session to six hours a week. The superintendent of public instruction or his deputies would have the right to inspect the schools at any time. The bill does not mention specifically Japanese language schools.

An applicant for permission to conduct such a school is required to make affidavit that he will observe the provisions of the law and so conduct the school as to make the pupils good and loyal American citizens and will not instruct them, or permit any instruction inconsistent with such a pledge.

Such schools shall not be conducted in the morning before the regular public school hours, nor during such hours. This limits them to afternoons and evenings.

CAN REVOKE PERMITS

The superintendent of public instruction is given power to revoke the permit under which such a school may operate, at any time that the required agreements are broken, or that unsatisfactory teachers are employed.

Violation of the terms of the act by any teacher in such foreign language school is made a misdemeanor, and conviction may be followed by a fine not exceeding $25, which shall be paid into the school funds of the county where conviction is had.

The superintendent of public instruction may delegate his powers of inspection and disciplin to county, city, or city and county superintendents.

DEFER HARBOR ACTION

Most of the 52 bills passed before the evening session began were designed to eliminate minor legal faults in present laws. The bill to transfer control of San Francisco harbor from the state to the city was reached, but action was deferred at the request of Scott.

A technical amendment to the general appropriation bill, which grants funds to take care of state institutions and agencies, was adopted by the senate. The bill will be on final reading today, and Gates, chairman of the finance committee, said it may be made a special order of business for this afternoon.

Two other controversial measures, Assemblyman Graves' bill to grant indeterminiate franchises to public utilities, and Assemblyman West's osteopath standards bill, will be further down on the final reading file and probably will not be reached until tomorrow.

The motion to reconsider the vote by which the senate yesterday passed a bill authorizing counties and cities to acquire and operate cement and rock plants was postponed and made a special order for today.

MEASURES PASSED

Among the measures passed by the senate and sent to the governor were resolutions and bills by the following assemblymen:

Badham—Proposing a constitutional amendment providing that tax payers' statment shall be filed January 1 instead of March 1. Dennett gave notice of motion to reconsider.

Powers—Authorizing payment of actual traveling expenses to members of county boards of education.

Saylor—Extending the minimum term from 160 to 180 days.

Powers—Providing for emergency schools in districts where seasonal workers or other temporary influx greatly increases the school attendance.

Bernard—Providing for a 20 per cent penalty for delinquency in payments of assessments in the Sacramento and San Joaquin reclamation district.

Mitchell—Prohibiting the misuse of labels or insignia of labor organizations.

Bernard—Authorizing the state board of control to sell excess lands acquired in connection with rights of way.

Spence—Providing for organization of municipal utility districts. Otis said the bill was designed particularly to aid territory in Alameda an Contra Costa counties, outside of cities, to handle their water supply problem.

Broughton—Limiting the weight of boxes and receptacles to 75 pounds in establishments where women are employed.

Merriam—Permitting counties to establish farm or road camps for the employment of prisoners.

White—Providing means for abating the nuisance of inflammable vegetable matter near incorporated cities where such may be a fire menace.

Rosenshine—Reparing to the state $100,000 appropriated to the state compensation insurance fund when it was created.

Weber—Granting certain tide lands to the city of Manhattan Beach.

Spence—Repealing the act of 1919 providing for improving streets and public ways.

Lyons—Providing that if the major portions of a street lighting district is within a city its affairs shall be administered by the city, otherwise by the county.

The senate amended Green's constitutional amendment, designed to increase the compensation of legislators from $1000 to $2500, to include in it the hold-over senators who might otherwise be barred from participating in the raise.

Yale, Harvard Will Start Fast Service

Inauguration of a fast passenger service between San Francisco and Los Angeles, with the steamships Yale and Harvard, both capable of a speed of 23 knots an hour, was announced today. The ships will cover the distance between here and San Pedro harbor in 18 hours. Both vessels have a passenger capacity of 500. They will leave both ports five days a week.

The Yale will go into service Tuesday, leaving San Pedro. Heavy passenger bookings indicate that the new service will be a success, according to officials of the line.

During the war both the Yale and Harvard served in British waters, and each wear gold service chevrons on their funnels. Both boats have been thoroughly repaired and overhauled since their return to San Pedro.

TOWN, STIRRED BY 'CRIME WAVE,' EMPLOYS GUARD

Mountain View Heeds Warning of Sheriff Lyle About Cracksmen.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, April 28.—Numerous local merchants have announced the employment of night watchmen for their busines houses as a result of the warning sent out by Sheriff George Lyle recently against the appearance of safe blowers, who last week blew five safes in Santa Clara county.

The local business men feel that the town is not properly safeguarded by street lighting or by protection from the one town officer, their employment of the night watchmen resulting. This community has been undergoing an epidemic of petty thievery and an effort is being made to round up those responsible.

Moose Prepare for Spring Festival

That the Moose intend to leave nothing undone that might help make certain the success of their Spring Festival to be held for six days and nights at Forty-fifth street and San Pablo avenue, from May 10 to 15 inclusive, was stated today, following a special meeting last night. W. J. Hamilton, chairman of the Festival Committee, has appointed sub-committees with the following members as chairmen: Finance committee, W. J. Baccus; special events, Lee Bertillion; parades, A. VanderNailen Jr.; advertising, H. R. Elder; tickets, A. J. Crawford; country store, George Warnock; automobile, W. F. Gibson; children's day, E. D. Sugden.

It is the intention of the Committee to devote one afternoon during the Festival to the free entertainment of all the inmates of the various charitable institutions in Alameda county.

The Clarence A. Wortham World's Best Shows have been engaged to furnish the amusement features of the Festival.

Annette Adams Will Resign, Is Report

Word has reached the bay cities from Washington, D. C., that Mrs. Annette Adams, the first woman to have been appointed an assistant attorney general, will shortly resign her office and return to the practice of law in San Francisco. Mrs. Adams is a graduate of the University of California. She won national recognition when she was chosen to write the major part of the "dry" law opinions for the department of justice. Tax and custom matters came under her legal work.

Cement Plant Bill Is Sent to Governor

SACRAMENTO, April 28.—The senate today refused, 10 to 21, to reconsider the vote by which Beal's bill, permitting cities and counties to own and operate cement and rock plants, was passed. The measure was sent to the governor.

THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 1921

AN UNPLEASANT POSITION.

The State Department at Washington has brought upon itself the necessity for making a decision which it could have easily avoided. The country at large would have been deeply gratified to have seen the issue avoided.

Germany has forwarded to Secretary of State Hughes its counter-proposal to the Allied demands for war reparations made in accordance with the Versailles Treaty. France has officially informed the United States that the German proposals are unsatisfactory and unacceptable. The other European Allies will undoubtedly coincide with France in this matter. Therefore the government at Washington is in the position of about to communicate on behalf of Germany, its technical enemy, proposals to its allies and associates in the war which seem to be foredoomed to rejection.

It would have been much more satisfactory all around if the Secretary of State had declined to act as a go-between in these negotiations. The best thing now to do in view of all these unfavorable circumstances would be to decline to forward the German note. If Mr. Hughes should return to Berlin the proposals of Dr. Simons with the information that this government cannot concern itself with dishonest and frivolous undertakings by Germany he would attain an incomparably strong position in European diplomacy.

The German proposition so far as can be learned from the published resume of the text of the note sent to Washington is not substantially different from the proposition which Dr. Simons presented near the close of the London conference early in March. The Allies rejected that proposal as being absurd, inadequate and intolerable. The United States should not place itself in the position of trying to influence the European Allies to reverse that correct judgment.

AN EXTRA HANDICAP.

It is unfortunate that an amicable agreement has not been reached in the wages controversy between the members of the American Shipowners' Association and the several shipworkers' crafts. With the American merchant marine striving to get firmly established, with the greatest depression of fifty years hanging over the shipping industry throughout the world, and with thirty percent of the American ships tied up in idleness, no interest connected with the shipping business will be benefited by a strike.

The main cause for the threatened walk-out of engineers, firemen and seamen appears to be the disinclination of the employees to accept a wage cut of from twenty to thirty percent. The Shipowners' Association claims that the reduction in operating cost is absolutely necessary in order to enable them to compete with ships operated under a foreign flag. Conferences have been in progress for several weeks but have been futile in reaching a peaceful agreement.

It is not possible to say whether the contention of the shipowners that a reduction in wages is necessary is correct. But it is to be hoped that the suspension of negotiations and the strike-call has not been ordered because certain leaders of the unionized workers consider strikes necessary to the maintenance of their position of power and influence.

If there is a way out of this dispute without tieing up the remainder of American ships in operation it ought to be sought and utilized; otherwise the merchant marine will find itself still more dangerously near the shoals.

NOT ENCOURAGING.

There is no cause for rejoicing on the part of the people of California over the appointment by Governor Stephens of Mr. H. Stanley Benedict to a membership on the State Railroad Commission to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Frank R. Devlin. On the contrary there will be much justified regret that the Governor did not select one for this important position better qualified by experience and demonstrated ability to safeguard the public interest.

Mr. Benedict has been a member of the State Board of Control since the early part of Governor Stephens' administration. He has shown abundant talent as a bureaucrat wedded to the policy of usurping powers lodged with the people and their representatives and transferring them to his own and the numerous other State board's and commissions.

It is a peculiar misfortune that the Governor seems disposed to concern himself first with promoting his political lieutenants to important and more or less permanent public positions. The Railroad Commission in particular should not be used as a reward for political servitors.

CUTTING THE RED TAPE.

Without waiting for new legislation the administration at Washington has found it practicable to take a very important step toward coordinating the various bureaus charged with performing the nation's duty toward disabled war veterans. The first act has been performed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and it followed close upon the heels of President Harding's investigating committee which General Charles G. Hawes headed.

Secretary Mellon a few days ago signed an order transferring to the War Risk Insurance Bureau all the activities of the Public Health Service and the personnel engaged in providing medical service for disabled and sick soldiers with the exception of hospital care. Both these bureaus are under Mr. Mellon's department and therefore it was simple and easy to co-ordinate their work. The surprising thing is that the order for such co-ordination was not issued two years ago.

The first effect of this consolidation will be to set up a single responsibility for such delays in the future as may characterize the government's activities in caring for disabled war veterans. In the past the War Risk Insurance Bureau has alleged that its delay in taking final action on thousands of claims has been due to the absence of any report from the Public Health Service as to the character and degree of disability sustained in line of duty by the soldier claimants.

The Public Health Service, generally encountered by the soldier as the marine hospitals, has been slow and dilatory in its work of examination for no apparent reason than it did not possess sufficient morality or human sympathy to do its work promptly. Many unfortunate gassed and wounded soldiers have had their courage utterly destroyed by their disheartening experience in the marine hospital. There they have gone up against a blank wall of indifference, of lies and of evasion.

Henceforth the War Risk Bureau is charged with the responsibility for adjudging the physical disability of the claimant for benefits and for the payment of those benefits. There can be no passing of the "buck" to another bureau. Action ought to be prompt and wholly in conformity with the merits of each case considered.

In the house appropriation bill, passed early in this session and without any debate whatsoever, appeared an item providing for forty-two pages "including two riding pages." Many decades ago riding pages were employed by Congress to gallop down Washington streets, which frequently were ankle deep in mud, to call absent members to the chamber upon the raising of a question of "no quorum." The obsolete language has never been changed. There is no abuse of it because the "riding pages" are employed in the same manner as other pages, without the use of ponies. But it is a curious survival of the days before paved streets, the automobile and the telephone; a picturesque reminder of times when lawmakers had to endure hardships which they would regard today as indefensible and intolerable.

Mr. Harding has demonstrated that he stands right as a fisherman, golfer, pipe-smoker, baseball fan, dog fancier, and lover of swimming holes. These are important American issues and a President who is right concerning them will be right concerning most other issues, because he is sound at heart and clear of mind.

CAPITAL'S CLOVEN HOOF.

If Mr. W. Jett Lauck, labor expert, should happen to pick up and glance through his own 125,000 word expose of the great capitalist conspiracy against the people his dominant sensation would be one of astonishment at his own moderation. He has demonstrated that a plot engineered by a small capitalist group has precipitated industrial stagnation in order "to deflate labor." But Mr. Lauck will reproach himself for omitting to mention that three years ago, with perfectly diabolical cunning, these same capitalist conspirators managed to inflate labor, no doubt as a device for diverting suspicion from their ultimate purpose. The conspirators have deflated the farmer to the wheat level of pre-war times; and here again they laid their lines far in advance by inflating the farmer, three years ago, up to $2.20 a bushel.

Nor is Mr Lauck likely to feel that he has done full justice to the sinister geographical sweep of this nefarious plot by the capitalists. In order to cover their tracks in the United States they have managed to stage quite an impressive deflationary spectacle in Argentina, in China, in Australia, and in the Norwegian herring fisheries in the Arctic Circle. To that purpose they have flooded all of Central Europe with paper money, and are probably the hidden force behind the British coal strike and behind the Sinn Fein movement in Ireland.

But unquestionably the most extraordinary feature in this world wide conspiracy of the capitalists against the American people is the extent to which said capitalists have ventured to cut off their own noses to spite the masses. They have forced down the earnings of their own railroads to the verge of bankruptcy, they have set a good many people wondering whether the roads ought not to be taken over by the government. In other words, they have not hesitated, in their sinister schemes for deflating the public, to deflate themselves into a hole.

About the only thing that has escaped this conspiracy for deflation would seem to be the rhetoric of the labor expert in question.—New York Evening Post.

NOTES and COMMENT

The announcement that the Assembly had passed 28 measures on Monday serves to remind of the difference between feeding bills into the hopper, and taking laws out. Members of the Legislature were blithely active as to the former process till upwards of 1300 were in the chute; but the mills are very slow in delivery and a meagre dribbling is being realized. At that, there may be some to feel a satisfaction that it is that way.

When sugar went to three pounds for a dollar about a year ago it looked as though somebody was getting rich quick. But the widespread moans from substantial sources in this country, not to mention the unanimous cry of distress from Cuba, is evidence that all was not as it seemed. If there is such a thing as commercial retribution it may be that that is what is happening; for the sugar deal was not defensible by any straightforward commercial ethics.

It is not a matter of absolute satisfaction that one of the ships built under the body that was created to revive shipping, and having aboard a distinguished envoy from this nation, should break down on her first voyage and limp into a foreign port long after the scheduled time of arrival and too late for the festivities.

Germany is still busily engaged in fixing her reparations liabilities and perfecting her plan to pay. It is not impossible that from the haggling she will gain an advantage. If the Allied nations are like humans they may become tired after a while and accept what they can get without further trouble, rather than to be insistent on their own terms.

Recently the fact that Senator Shortridge presided over a session of the Senate was the substance of a despatch. His maiden speech was in favor of the Colombian measure; and now it is wired out that he gets the chairmanship of a committee. That about hiding one's light under a bushel is not applicable here.

The olive industry met with an unmerited setback in the botulism scare, but it is overcoming that and has resumed its way to become one of the more exclusive industries of California. Ripe olives are an extremely healthful and nourishing food, as well as a palatable relish, and their more extensive consumption is gradually being induced by legitimate propaganda.

General Dawes' outspokenness doesn't seem to be held against him at promotion time—at least, he was confirmed as a brigadier at the recent general "raising" in the Senate. Some who had suffered from political opposition — Edwards, for instance—were decisively vindicated. He was made a Major-General by a vote of 55 to 5. The five were all Democrats, consistent to the last.

* * *

It would seem that the ingenuity displayed in efforts to get around the Volstead Act, exercised in lawful directions, would fetch returns in excess of any profits that may be realized from bootlegging. A Marysville genius has hit upon the device of selling hootch in rubber balls, such as children bounce on the sidewalk.

* * *

Another legacy from the adminis trative predecessors is now manifest. An appropriation in the sum of half a billion will be necessary, in the opinion of Senator Smoot, to meet deficiencies. It might be said that the late lamented administration spent all the money there was, and then some.

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS.

The purpose of having grand opera is not, of course, primarily to advertise the community patronizing the opera, nor even to bring money into the tills of the merchants. But San Francisco has achieved both these ends through the two weeks of the Chicago grand opera season. San Francisco has not been blind to nor unconscious of the nation-wide advertising that the tremendous attendance has yielded. There could be worse advertising. Eighty-five thousand person attended the fourteen performances. Of these thirty-five thousand were from outside the city.—Palo Alto Times.

One thing about it, there isn't any controversy as to whether the new dreadnaught at Mare Island is to be called Alta California, Superior California, Upper California, Northern California, Southern California or Lower California. She will be plain California, a grand old unhyphenated name without any need of prefix or explanation and so known wherever the English language is spoken.—Stockton Record.

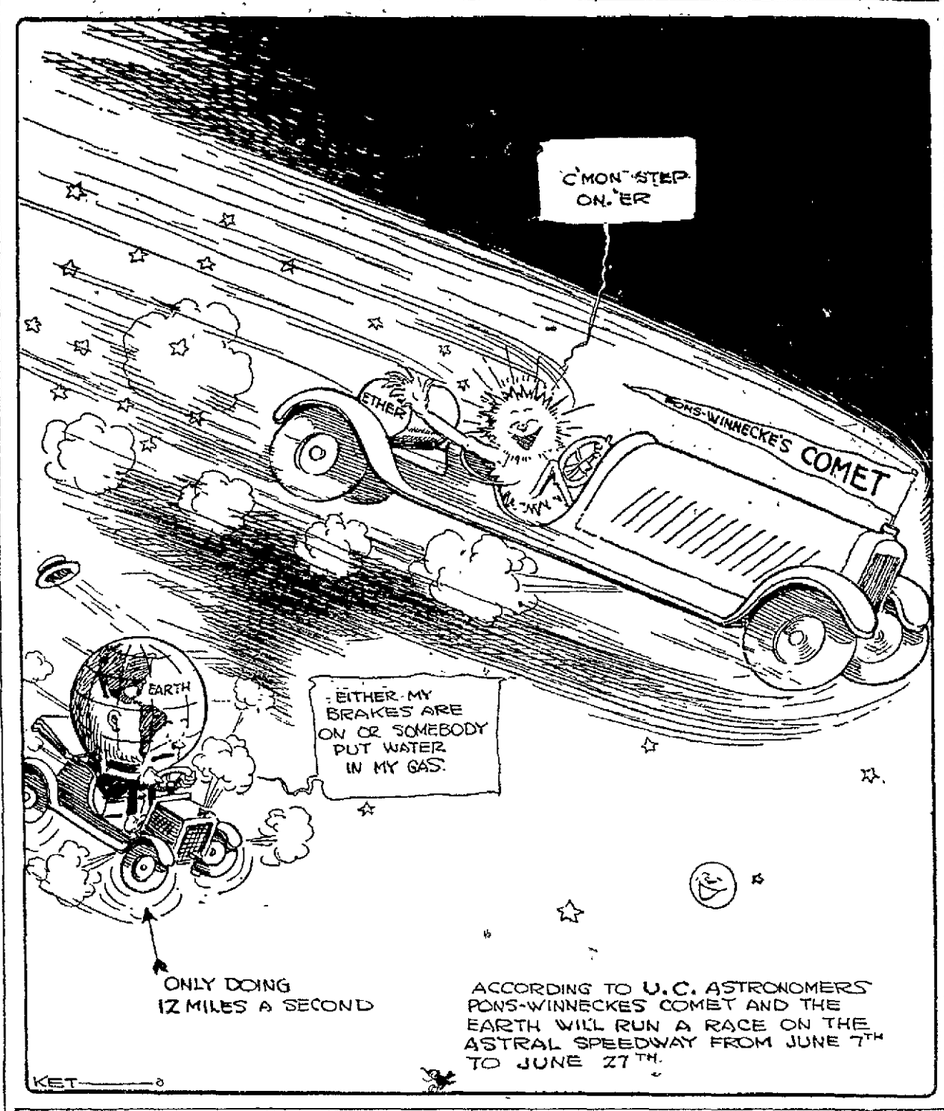

After this date the Republican will charge the usual advertising rates for all news notices of dances, parties, shows, entertainments and meetings of whatever nature where an admission charge is to be made or where any article is to be sold for the purpose of making money for any individual, lodge, church, school, club, class or party, whether or not the price to be charged is stated in the news matter.—Solano Republican.

It has taken a long time to dig up an alibi for Mooney, the convicted murderer of the Preparedness day parade in San Francisco, but Attorney Byron Parker says he has five affidavits to prove Mooney was somewhere else.—Calaveras Prospect.

Judge Shelley of Sacramento recently tried a case in which the decision hinged upon whether or not chickens can talk. Assistant Appraiser Whitthorne says all the chickens he knows can.—Woodland Democrat.

In declining to turn the entire authority of the courts as to length of terms of convicts over to the prison board the legislature shows a gleam of almost human intelligence.—Chico Enterprise.

KRONSTADT

Kronstadt, famous Russian fortress, where the revolt against Bolshevism started early in March, and where a committee formed "the Kronstadt government," is the subject of the following bulletin issued from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society:

"What Gibraltar is to the entrance to the Mediterranean, and what Heligoland before the fortunes of war caused its dismantling was to the entrance to the Kiel Canal, Kronstadt has been for more than 200 years to the eastern end of the Gulf of Finland, the northeastern arm of the Baltic. One of the most heavily fortified islands in the world, it was considered the impregnable guardian of the mouth of the Neva and of Petrograd—then St. Petersburg—capital of the Russian Empire.

"Kotlin, the island on which Kronstadt is situated, lies about sixteen miles west of Petrograd with no land intervening. About twelve to fifteen miles from the city the north and south shores of the Gulf of Finland approach each other most closely, being less than ten miles apart. Within these points the waters of the Gulf of Finland are called Neva Bay. Marking the outer extremity of the bay in the middle rise the guns of Kronstadt.

"Some of the forts are built on the tip of the island nearest Petrograd, while others, built on piles, flank them. On the closest point of the north mainland are the batteries of Lisi Nos. Six or seven miles north of Lisi Nos is the eastern border of Finland, and just short of it are other powerful batteries. These are known both by the Swedish name, Systerbak, and the Russian name, Sestroryetzk. Closer still to Kronstadt, a bare three miles away on the south mainland, is the town of Oranienbaum where there are more guns and in addition barracks.

"This chain of forts hems Petrograd in and protects it on the sea side. But it is obvious that they can with equal ease be used against the city or against each other if they fall into opposing hands.

"Neva Bay is very shallow, and in the early years of the existence of St. Petersburg Kronstadt was its port. The cargoes were transported to and from the island in lighter draft boats. In 1883 a deep canal or narrow channel was completed, extending through the bay from one of the mouths of the Neva river to the roads of Kronstadt. This made it possible for most of the ships trading with Petrograd to go directly to wharves in the city. Since the completion of the canal the commercial importance of Kronstadt has not been great.

"Though Peter the Great, creator of St. Petersburg, founded Kronstadt to protect that city of his dreams, and though the czars that came after him added to its strength with the same end in view, the fortress has been the scene before this of movements against the city and the government. During the unrest in Russia in 1905 and 1906 which was really the forerunner of the revolution that finally dethroned the czar in 1917, one of the most dramatic incidents was the rising of the garrison of Kronstadt in August, 1906. The notorious secret police were aware of the plot, and the mutineers found themselves without arms facing loyal troops brought in from a distance the day before the uprising. The unarmed rioters were shot down by the hundreds in the courtyards of their barracks.

About YOUR HEALTH

Why You Should Guard Elimination For Efficiency

By ROYAD S. COPELAND, M. D., Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Almost every function or activity of the body and all its organs results in the formation of waste products which are more or less poisonous. The air we expel from our lungs is filled with poison. The blood as it circulates picks up many poisons. The kidneys throw off poisons. The excretions from the skin are poisonous.

Were there some method of disposing of these poisons as soon as they are formed, the span of life would be materially increased.

When there is sudden failure of elimination, there may be serious immediate effects. For instance, if the kidney flow is stopped, the effects are startling. There may be severe convulsions, followed by profound unconsciousness.

A person who has been seemingly perfectly well is seized with an attack of dizziness. His face is ashen in color. He has nausea and vomiting, and suddenly develops high fever.

We are all familiar with the uncomfortable effects of bad air. Confinement in a close room, where the expelled air of human occupants is breathed over and over, is followed by headache, loss of mental alertness and lessened efficiency.

Soap and water are of the greatest value aside from their moral effect. Cleanliness of the skin is essential to its proper action. It cannot eliminate the poisons given it to dispose of unless it is kept clean.

Headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, sadness and depression of spirits, tearfulness, ill humor and lack of concentration are often due to failure of elimination. The blood is not properly aerated, or it is not otherwise purified by proper activity of all the organs.

The intestines must do their part effectively and speedily or the wasted products handled by them will be absorbed by the body.

The average person does not drink enough water. Unless enough fluid is taken into the stomach to satisfy the requirements of the body it will be extracted from the tissues and from the organs of elimination. Whenever this happens, poisons are absorbed, with the fluid and the system suffers as a result.

For the good of all concerned every place of employment should be well lighted, well ventilated, open to the sunlight part of each day, furnished with an abundance of water for drinking and washing purposes, well supplied with good soap and clean towels, and every convenience for creature comfort.

No better investment can be made from the commercial standpoint. For the worker, no form of life insurance is so certain in its results. Elimination and efficiency are twin brothers.

Filial Gratitude.

"My son," said the retired merchant, "when I was your age, instead of idling away my time and smoking cigarettes, I was laboring ten hours a day building rail fences."

"I'm proud of you, dad," retorted the modern youth. "Had it not been for your pluck and perseverance I might be forced to do the same sort of work today."—Boston Transcript.

'NO WAR BETWEEN U. S. AND JAPAN,' ASSERTS RUSSELL

Tokyo Is Fearful of Loss of Trade From Hostilities, Declares Writer.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—"I do not think there will be war between Japan and the United States, despite the efforts of Great Britain and the Japanese militarists," Chas. Edward Russell, American writer, said today on his arrival from the Orient on the China Mail steamer Nanking.

Russell and Witter Bynner, a poet, formerly connected with the University of California, have been in the Orient during the past year doing special work involving investigation of the economic and political situation in Japan, China and the Philippines.

Russell said:

"Japanese leaders admitted to me very plainly that to become involved in a war with us is commercial suicide for their country. They said that in the matter of silk alone they would lose virtually their entire market and this would mean bankruptcy; that more than one-half of their present trading is with the United States and under these conditions there is certainly not the slightest danger of any real trouble.

CHINESE PROBLEM GROWS

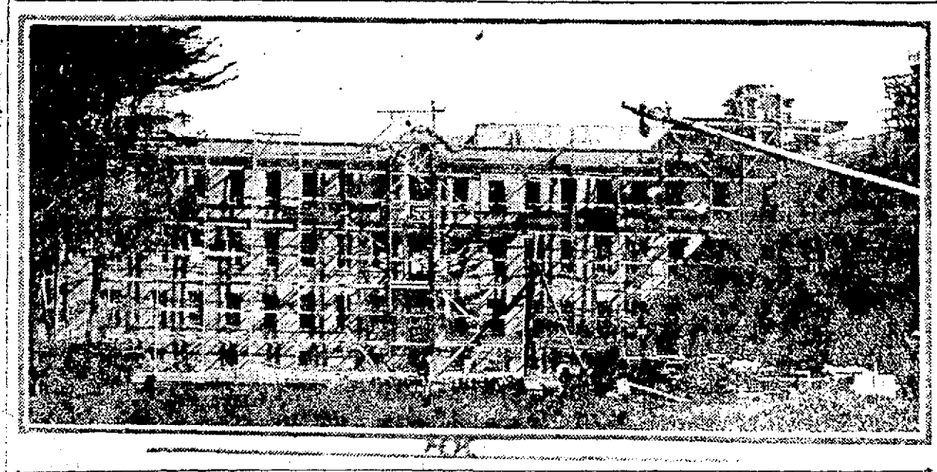

"The real trouble cannot be found in the Japanese land or exclusion problem, isle of Yap question, but rather in China. All of the rest is camouflage. Japan has made strenuous effort to penetrate as far as possible into China, but the situation there has changed greatly in the last three years. The Chinese as a race are becoming unified and nationalized. The flag of the empire, which was formerly observed over an occasional ship or at a few of the leading ports, is now found in all parts of the empire, even in the smallest villages. It appears to me that within a reasonable time the factional differences between North and South China will be bridged and that the entire country will present solid opposition to any program of the Japanese or Europeans that may tend to dismember the country.

"OPEN DOOR" URGED

"The great opportunity presented to the United States government is to bring North and South China together, make them forget their differences, then with united China it would be impossible for the Japanese or any other country to inflict their will on them. This could be accomplished because we are disinterested and we have the further advantage of securing for all nations an open door for extension of trade."

Bynner said that Great Britain has a scheme to promote discontent between the various provinces of China, hoping thereby to create a condition bordering on civil war through which she will be enabled ultimately to extend her possessions through China.

County May Be Asked for $500,000 to Increase Highland Hospital Capacity

Present Arrangement Makes Opening Impractical Due to Great Operating Expense

That the Board of Supervisors may be asked to appropriate $500,000 in order to bring the construction of the Highland Hospital to a point where it can be opened with a capacity of 300 beds, was the statement made today by Joseph H. King, president of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the County Institutions Commission, which will meet next Wednesday.

When the commission meets Wednesday it will take under consideration not only the construction of the $125,000 service building at the San Leandro infirmary, but also the erection of two more wards, making a total of four, at the $2,000,000 Highland Hospital at Fourteenth avenue and Vallecito place.

"If enough money was available we could complete the structure in eighteen months," declared President King, "but as we have to depend upon small appropriations, it will require two years to finish the additional two wards and put the hospital in operation."

PROVIDES FOR 1000

This will place the Highland Hospital with 300 rooms, the County Infirmary with a capacity of 500 patients and the Arroyo Sanitarium with a capacity of 160 patients all under the direction of the Director of Hospitals Dr. R. G. Broderick, and provide for the care of nearly 1000 sick and infirm at one time.

That the infirmary is now so overtaxed that there is an immediate need for the completion of the Highland Hospital and that this condition will be even more aggravated two years from now due to the rapid increase in the population of Alameda county, is the declaration of Dr. Broderick.

Contracts for the erection of the first portion of the Fourteenth avenue hospital at a cost of $546,000 were let in 1919 and at this time the three-story service building with two flanking ward buildings have been finished. About $88,000 has been used in grading the 9.52-acre hill which is the hospital site and the additional half million dollars will be utilized for the construction of two more ward structures, a power plant and quarters for the nurses, doctors and other employees.

NEED TWO WARDS

The hospital cannot be opened now with the two-ward buildings because the Board of Supervisors has estimated that the cost of operating a hospital with so few beds would be exorbitant. When two additional wards are completed, however, the structure will be opened for service.

According to Dr. Brodrick, it is planned to devote the infirmary near San Leandro to chronic and incurable cases and place other cases in the new hospital when it is opened.

Great credit is given to the County Institution Commission, a body of citizens serving without pay, which was appointed in 1916 and which has recommended much of the work that has been done to the supervisors. The commission is composed of Joseph H. King, chairman; Harrison S. Robinson; Dr. Aurelia Reinhardt, president of Mills College; Dr. Robert T. Legge, head of the University of California infirmary; Dr. O. D. Hamlin, prominent physician, and Samuel Donohue, president of the Oakland Building Trades Council.

$2,000,000 STRUCTURE

Measures approved and provided for by the commission are:

Construction of $2,000,000 Highland Hospital.

Improvement of Infirmary at San Leandro to a point where it is approved by the American College of Surgeons as one of 377 best hospitals in the United States and to enable it to receive $9000 annually from the State.

Bids just advertised for $125,000 service building at San Leandro.

At the time the county institutions commission was appointed, the infirmary located on Foothoil boulevard three miles from San Leandro, consisted of a group of obsolete buildings, both insufficient in size and equipment to handle the sick and infirm of the county. There was no adequate means for the care of the tubercular.

THREE IMPROVEMENTS

The institutions commission planned improvements along three lines: First the construction of a modern hospital, secondly the improvement of the San Leandro hospital to fulfill requirements until the new structure could be erected, and thirdly the building of Arroyo sanitarium.

Plans for work on the San Leandro hospital were made by County Surveyor Percy A. Haviland and Architect Henry H. Meyers. Old structures were removed and in a short time the place had been put in such shape, under the direction of Dr. R. G. Broderick that it passed the tests of the State Board of Health and received $9000 annually from the state. The Innes ranch was then bought and added to the 156 acres of farm land already owned by the county and the milk and egg production was increased sufficiently to supply not only the infirmary but Arroyo as well.

Forty-one storerooms scattered over the grounds were consolidated, a recreation center or plaza was erected, the library building was remodeled, trees were planted, hot houses were built and arrangements made for a visiting staff of twenty physicians. A social service department was established for welfare work, a trained technician from the University of California was placed in charge of the laboratories and friendly personal visits to patients were stimulated.

40 PER CENT EMPLOYED

About 2000 patients are admitted annually to the infirmary. Approximately 40 per cent of the inmates are employed at some useful occupation.

The Arroyo Sanitarium, located on a 100-acre site five miles south of Livermore in the foothills, was also constructed in such a way as to receive a state subsidy, was enlarged to a capacity of 160 patients, 35 of whom are children, and new buildings added from time to time. Motion picture shows and other amusements were provided for the patients. The sanitarium consists of a group of ten buildings.

The $2,000,000 Highland Hospital will be one of the most modern institutions of its kind in the United States when it is completed, according to members of the Board of Supervisors.

Council Considers Street Improvements

Protests against patches of street improvement occupied most of the time of the city council this morning. Protests against the sewering of the north side of Fifty-ninth street were postponed until May 5. Protests against the improvement of Todd street from Church to Seventy-third avenue, were overruled, as were protests against the improvement of D street from Ninety-second to Jones avenues.

Improvements were ordered for Birch street from Ninety-second to Ninty-fourth avenue, and portions of Fruitvale avenue were ordered sewered.

Bids were taken at noon for the improvement of Davis street, C street and Eighty-ninth avenue. Bids were also taken for furnishing two autos to the city.

The request of Georgia C. Ormsby that the prefix "Dr." do not appear on the ballots, was answered by City Attorney Hagan, who asserted that the name of Tisdale corresponds to the name he used in filing nomination papers, and therefore it stands, title and all.

Concert Planned by Choir At Fruitvale

A concert and musical review for the benefit of the choir fund at St. Philip's Episcopal church, Fruitvale, will be held tomorrow evening under the direction of William D. Kelley, choir director.

The first part of the program will furnish varied entertainment featuring recitations, vocal solos and fancy dancing, with the last number the chorus "Farewell to the Forest" by Mendelssohn. Following a short intermission the second half of the program will be given, consisting of a "Mikado Musical Revue," featured by selections from the famous light opera "The Mikado."

MASKED BANDITS HOLD UP STREET CAR AND ESCAPE

Hayward Line Conductor Is Robbed of $25; Guns Keep Motorman Back.

Boarding a Hayward street car shortly after midnight last as it was about to leave that city on its return trip to Oakland, two masked bandits, armed with automatic pistols, forced the motorman to stop at one end of the car while they searched P. O. Krahenenuhl of 1012 Chester street, the conductor, and robbed him of about $25 which was in his cash carrier. Disappointed that their loot was not more, both highwaymen cursed the tram crew and, threatening to return and shoot them if they cried for help, jumped from the rear platform and escaped in the darkness.

There were no passengers on the car at the time of the hold-up.

After the gunmen disappeared Krahenenuhl and J. A. Frusetti, 1420 Ninety-ninth avenue, the motorman, notified the Hayward police department. A posse of officers and citizens was quickly formed and for several hours scoured the surrounding country in an effort to capture the two men.

MOTORMAN HELD BACK

The street car, No. 423, which plies between Oakland and Hayward, had just reached the end of the line at the Hayward eastern city limits. All passengers had been discharged and Krahenenuhl had reset his register and signaled to the motorman to begin the return trip.

He had just finishing pulling two bells when two men, their faces hidden beneath black masks, sprang on the rear platform. One of the men seized the bell cord and gave the stop signal. Then they covered the conductor with their pistols and forced him into the car with the motorman.

"If you make a move we'll fill you full of lead," threatened one of the gunmen. "Give us your money."

While one of the bandits forced the motorman to stand at one end of the car his companion thoroughly searched the conductor. He took his cash carrier and emptied it, obtaining about $25. He also searched the slot at the rear of the car, but found no money.

SEARCH NEAR SCENE

After the conductor had been searched both highwaymen went to the rear platform.

"If you yell for fifteen minutes we'll be back and start shootin'," one of the men said.

Both robbers jumped from the platform and disappeared in the darkness.

The crew started the car and kept it going until they reached the Hayward downtown section, where they notified the police of the holdup. Several officers and citizens returned to the scene, but a thorough search failed to reveal the whereabouts of the two bandits.

School children are competing in a special division. Prizes will be awarded for excellence in each department, as well as for the best products of the community.

Heat Is General Over State; Due to Continue Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—California today was well into the first "hot spell" of the year.

Weather bureau reports showed it was general throughout the state and the prediction was that it would continue tomorrow.

In San Francisco its chief effect was to bring out a few more straw hats and to send thousands to the beach last night to cool off.

Yesterday's temperature ranged from 96 at Pomona and Riverside to 80 at San Diego and Bakersfield, the weather bureau said. San Francisco registered 86 and Los Angeles 92.

PASADENA, April 28.—Pasadena's first hot spell started yesterday with the temperature at 95 degrees and indications today are it will be higher, the thermometer reading 93 degrees at 11 o'clock. The April record is 101 degrees, made in 1910.

RIVERSIDE, April 28.—Maximum temperature in Riverside Wednesday was 97, the highest April record for ten years. It is a shade warmer today and the mercury will climb close to 100. A hot north wind adds to discomfort.

SAN DIEGO, April 28.—With a temperature of 88 degrees at 10:30 today, San Diegans were experiencing one of the warmest days of the season. The maximum yesterday was 84 degrees.

SACRAMENTO, April 28. — Charlie Paddock isn't going to do all the record-breaking in California, according to Weatherman Taylor. Old Sol came within two degrees yesterday of breaking a 13-year record for April heat when the thermometers here registered 87. Today, says Taylor, this mark may be surpassed, with hot weather in store for tomorrow.

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—Highest temperature of the year was recorded here today when the mercury rose to 94 degrees at noon. Yesterday at mid-day it was 94.

LOST BABY HAS TWO MAMAS, ONE PAPA AT JAIL

Many Would Adopt Child, Who, Police Believe, Was Abandoned.

The three-year-old baby girl who has been in the city prison since Tuesday afternoon has learned to like her new home. The parents have not yet called for the baby and the police believe that she was abandoned. She was found at the corner of Twelfth and Washington streets.

Yesterday the youngster was sick, but today she is full of life. She says she has two mamas and one papa. The mamas are the matrons, Mrs. C. F. Boyer and Nora Callahan. The papa is Desk Sergeant Jack Thornbury, who is the only man that the little girl has taken a liking to.

Sergeant Thornbury has received several offers from residents who want to adopt the child. They have all refused to give their names at the present time. One man from New York told Thornbury that he would be back tomorrow morning and make formal application to adopt the child. He says he had a daughter about the same age who died two months ago.

The little youngster has the entire freedom of the women's ward. Her nurses are the women inmates, who all want to take care of her at the same time. A number of the police officers brought the youngster toys, candy and fruit.

Sergeant Thornbury says that if the parents do not call for the child she will become a ward of the juvenile court. Applications may be then put in for adoption.

DON'T BLAME KIDNEYS FOR ALL ACHES

A General Run Down Condition is Often the True Cause

Have you been treating your kidneys for months with only temporary relief? It is high time to wonder if the fundamental weakness really lies in the kidneys. Often by stimulating the kidneys and making them work harder, temporary relief from other troubles is obtained. The deceptive result makes many people sure that their trouble is a very bad condition of the kidneys.

Tired, achy people, who lack endurance and spend restless nights, those afflicted with nervousness, sallow complexion, should give the super-tonic Neal-Tone the opportunity of enriching the blood and strengthening the nerves. Holding a Husband

THE QUESTION ABOUT DICKY THAT WORRIED MADGE

All the strengtht left me went into the rush of thankfulness which swept over me as I heard Mother Graham's voice and realized that despite the angry scene in which we had been opponents but a few moments before she had come to take care of me. My mother-in-law is like some husbands—and wives. You can neither live with her nor without her. This was distinctly one of the times I felt that I could not live without her.

She closed the door upon the people whom she had shooed away from the door, came over to the berth, and stood looking down at me. She had seen me in two or three similar attacks, knew exactly what I needed, and knew that there was no necessity for her to feel my forehead or pulse something for which I was grateful.

"We'll get one thing over with first, Margaret," she said in as matter-of-fact tones as if she had been proffering me a drink of water. "You know I didn't mean a word I said a little while ago, and I know you aren't angry any longer. So, that's over with and I can take care of you. Now you don't need to speak or listen again. Just lie perfectly still and I'll attend to everything."

I felt a lessening of my nervous tension just at the very timbre of her voice. Weakly I reflected upon the anomaly of my mother-in-law being able to help me best of any one in this crisis when she so often drives me almost mad with her exactions. But help me she did from the first second of her entrance.

SWEPT BY A CHILL

My father had taken Junior with him. I had heard the baby's prattle as he was carried through the door, so that we were alone in the drawing room, another thing which gave my overstrained nerves relief. I was fanciful enough to feel oppressed even by the sound of my little child's voice, usually the sweetest music in the world to me.

But my mother-in-law's movement were almost soundless. I knew by a sort of instinct that she went through my bag with deft fingers and took therefrom the loose gown for which my body constrained in a traveling suit longed intensely. A moment later I felt her astonishingly tender fingers remove my shoes stockings and loosen my garments.

"There, now, just turn over this once," she said softly after a little, "and you can be comfortable."

I drew a sigh of relief as the soft folds of my loose dressing gown settled around me. I stretched luxuriously once, then fell to shivering violently as a sudden chill seized me. I felt I never would be warm again.

My mother-in-law wasted no time in words. She huddled the blankets around me, piled my cloak and her own on top of them, then as I still shivered, she opened the door into the corridor and spoke sharply:

"Where is that hot water bag you spoke of getting filled?"

Little Mrs. Durkee's indignant voice replied:

"There's something gone wrong with the hot water pipes, and the porter says we can't get a drop until the diner comes on. But Maj. Grantland has a spirit lamp in his kit and he is heating some. Here he comes now."

"I hope I have not delayed you." The deep voice of the army officer sounded clearly in my ears. "Here is the hot water. Is there anything else I can do?"

"Fill that bag, Mrs. Durkee," my mother-in-law commanded, laconically, then she paused for an instant before answering the major's query.

"Nothing, unless you can get me something with some warmth in it to put around Mrs. Graham," she said tartly at last. "She has a severe chill, and these car blankets are like so much paper."

There was another pause, then Hugh Grantland's voice sounded again, this time with a metallic ring in it.

"Miss Brown, may I trouble you for that cloak?"

I could visualize the scene as well as if I were on the other side of the door—could see Rita Brown, haughty, selfish, inconsiderate, making no move to relinquish the cloak which she was wearing because of a skilfully planned manoeuver—could see also the chagrin which must have been hers at Maj. Grantland's terse command.

LOST IN DOUBT

But she was clever enough to meet the situation—to "save her face," in Chinese parlance.

"Oh, I beg your pardon!" she said sweetly. "I really didn't hear what you were talking about. This will be the very thing for Mrs. Graham. I'll defy any col to come through that fur."

"This is something like," my mother-in-law commented grimly. "Thank you, Maj. Grantland. Now I shan't need any of you any longer. Richard, you can stay outside, if I want anything."

"Very well," Dicky replied dolefully.

Through my inert weakness flashed an intolerable pain of doubht. Had my husband accepted that dictum either because he did not care about my illness, or because he was still angry about the cloak which Maj. Grantland had brought to protect me during the motor ride from Marvin to New York?

Lucrezia Bori on Beauty

WHAT OLIVE OIL WILL DO

There is a tendency with most persons to believe in the efficacy of elaborate treatments or expensive formulas for enhancing the beauty of their hands. Too often they ignore the value of the simple aids that are within the reach of every one. Yet there are many excellent beauty aids that require little if any preparation, and when cost is practically negligible.

LUCREZIA BORI

One of the most valuable is pure oil, whose merits for internal use are recognized. For outward application it is equally good, and is a splendid emollient for your skin.

In olden days its healing qualities were recognized, for in the literature of these times you frequently read about anointing the body with oil. Famous beauties knew that it was also an ideal beautifier of the skin, and were lavish in its use.

Care must be exercised when you buy olive oil. You must secure oil that is absolutely pure, otherwise you will not reap the benefits you expect from its use. It must be kept cool and in the dark, with airtight cork or cover, otherwise it will become rancid and unfit for application to your hands.

If the skin on your hands is rough you will find that an application of olive oil is particularly soothing. It nourishes the skin, and instead of closing the pores, forms a barrier to the cold which contracts them. In applying the oil do not smear it on so that your hands are disagreeably greasy. As a rule you will get the best results by applying it warm.

Take about a teaspoonful and pour it into a clean teacup, then heat it until it is pleasantly warm to your touch. Apply it with the tips of your fingers. If, however, your fingers are disagreeably rough or hard you should use a bit of old linen. Dip this in the oil and rub gently but firmly over your hands. The massaging motion of your finger-tips will also aid the circulation in your hands. After rubbing your hands lightly for about five minutes, carefully wipe off any surplus oil.

This treatment may be repeated night after night until your skin is once more smooth and white. If you do your own housework, which, of course, necessitates having your hands in the dishpan or scrubpail quite often, you should keep a small bottle of olive oil near the sink. Every time you take your hands out of the water you should rub a little of the oil into the skin. This will do much to keep your skin soft and smooth, for many of the coaring soaps and powders are decidedly alkaline which is very bad for your hands, as it tends to make your skin dry and hard.

If your hands are already marred by hacks and cracks that refuse to heal, you may overcome the condition by adopting the following treatment:

Make a thick lither of pure soap. Add to it a few drops of olive oil. The quantity will depend on the condition of your hands. If you are badly chapped and the rough condition also extends up your arms, you will naturally need a greater amount of the oily lather.

Once it is all well mixed and is about the consistency of th. stiffly beaten white of eggs apply generously to your hands. Be particular to see that all the cracks are well filled with this preparation, as it will relieve the inflammation that makes your hands so painful, and also detracts so much from their appearance.

If your hands ever get deeply ingrained with dustand this may happen when you are engaged in certain household duties, or even when you are straightening up the books in your office rub them well with olive oil. The oil will loosen the dirt, and when you wash your hands with warm water you will find that your skin will not lose its natural softness as it is liable to when other means of cleansing are used.

By adopting olive oil as one of your beauty aids you will be greatly pleased with the improved appearance of your hands if you use it wisely.

ARTISTS AND ART

We got to talking art one day, discussing in a general way
How some can match with brush and paint the glory of a tree.
And some in stone can catch the things of which the dreamy poet sings
While others seem to have no way to tell the joys they see.

Old Blake had sat in silence there and let each one of us declare
Our notions of what's known as art, until he'd heard us through;
And then said he: "It seems to me that any man, whoe'er he be,
Becomes an artist by the good he daily tries to do.

He need not write the books men read to be an artist. No, indeed!
He need not work with paint and brush to show his love of art;
Who does a kindly deed today and helps another on his way,
Has painted beauty on a face and played the poet's part.

Though some of us cannot express our inmost thoughts of loveliness,
We prove we love the beautiful by how we act and live;
The poet singing of a tree no greater poet is than he
Who finds it in his heart some care unto a tree to give.

Though he who works in marble stone the name of artist here may own.
No less an artist is the man who guards his children well;
'Tis art to love the fine and true, by what we are and what we do:
How much we love life's nobler things to all the world we tell."

Cry on Geraldine's Shoulder

Here is a cure for lizzards that is every bit as good as a hatpin if you don't believe it—try it out.

Dear Jerry:

I would like to tell you a few of my experiences with the so-called "Lizzards." Now Jerry I don't dress to attract attention, and when I have an artistic feeling I put it on paper, and not on my face, so I know it wasn't war paint, nor lack of clothes, although I don't year "red flannel" I keep covered.

What I am about to tell happened on the street car. I was sitting next to the window, reading, when a man or rather a "Lizzard" sat down by me. Jerry he sat so close to me there was enough room on the other end of the seat for another person. I wondered what I should do. I hate to attract attention in public, but for once I put my meekness behind me, and in a voice so the other passengers near could hear, I said:

"Now look here! I paid my fare, and I think I am entitled to half of this seat, but if you want all of it, from your actions you surely do, I will gladly change my seat."

Jerry, if you want to get the best of them show them up to the public—his face was so red and he sure did beat it. Never again will I hesitate to get even with them. The ones that ask you to ride with them—if the girls don't want to be bothered and would turn their back on them they would drive on. Oh! how I hate to have one of them call me "girlie." If I ever get close enough to him he will sure have to put a chunk of beefsteak on his eye. How about it, Jerry? I am not a man hater, only a "Lizzard" hater.

Men Make Her Sick

Dear Geraldine—This is in answer to "Me—4—U" and "Truth Seeker No 2." I am a woman 27 years of age and have associated with a great many men. I had been taught by my mother, who laid great stress on being chaste, that the world demanded such. And, believe me, Jerry, I lived up to it.

But I have my doubts as to whether my mother really knew or was telling the truth. It is only hand-me-down" talk about "Seeker No. 2" being willing to be a slave and lay down his life if he found such a woman. On the quiet, Jerry, don't the men make you sick!

In my experiences, I have found the boys of today would rather have the loose girls and don't give a "rap" about virtue. I believe every girl becomes disgusted with herself for having been so pure, when marriage brings the rude awakening that her husband cannot come up to her equal.

Even after a man is married to a good woman he shows his colors by stepping out with an affinity because he will find his level.

"ONE WHO IS MARRIED AND PICKED UP A 'CULL.'"

About "Pure" Husbands

Nope, girl, men don't make me sick, or women either—at least none but the "whiney" ones do.

Do you know, you have raised a very interesting problem. Are your virtues precious for your own sake, or are they only valuable when appreciated by someone else? You say that every girl who has been "pure" is disgusted with herself when she finds that her husband has—what shall we say—"chased" quite a bit.

Now I know quite a bit on how engaged couples act, I know how they talk. This isn't criticising them. It's a fact that life, love, passion, marriage, children are discussed, and discussed very freely, for they are the most absorbing questions of the moment. Also I think it is right that they should be talked over and that couples planning marriage, should know the points of view of the other. And because of the intimacies exchanged, I think most women know before marriage whether their future husbands have been "pure" or not.

Sometimes it may be a rude awakening after marriage, but not in most cases. It's harked back to, though, as an added grief when other things go wrong.

But the question is, IS IT THE WORLD THAT DEMANDS CHASTITY OR YOURSELF? In spite of the grudge against the man, for the "better" time he has had, isn't your soul more contented, better able to make the fight than it would be if you had lowered your standards and CHEAPENED YOURSELF?

Holding Hands

Mr. P. Harvey, WELCOME. Folks, meet a man who is telling you how to "hold a husband."

Dear Geraldine: I did not call to place my silvery head on your broad and noble shoulders, weep and tell cock and bull stories. No, Jerry, my mission is very simple (like myself).

It is with deep interest I daily read your columns, more expressly your answers on different cases. I cannot help noticing how gentle, kind and sympathetic, you dish it out and then laugh how well you did it. You certainly are deserving of no small amount of credit for the noble way you defend your convictions—fearless, brave and true.

Relative to a hubby holding a friend's hand in company and a friend making choice salads for hubby and how he enjoyed the same. I consider the same a very small offense to even cause a thought, much less jealousy. Jealousy is a dreadful disease, more expressly without evidence, or even a just cause. It is a foundation for misery, grief and discontentment, which will sooner or later be instrumental in separating and breaking up a once happy home.

If our dear little wives, God bless them, who are gifted with such a disposition, would make a study of human nature—switch the disposition to the other side and see if she could not see bright sunshine where she left dark clouds behind—she would also learn what would please hubby best—some of which I will mention.

To have dinner ready about the time he arrives home each evening; be cheerful and pleasant; greet him on his arrival home—it will have a tendency to make hubby forget his troubles after his day's work, be it laboring or office work, as the case may be. By such practice you will rarely see or hear hubby seeking other amusements, pleasures or pastime with other women.

Petty jealousies, or nagging or losing temper is the wrong way to handle hubby, as he will always find a way to get out from such treatment. It is exceptionally good practice to try and make home pleasant and attractive and try to retain hubby's love and affection, by so doing you will enjoy life much better. Above all, do not drive him to seek other company and places of amusement on the outside. It will eventually change him to forsake and grow cold to you, who will pine for his love and affections too late.

I am married twenty-eight summers—have a companion who is all a loving, kind, true woman can be. Although quite large and husky, there is not a single ounce of jealous flesh on her. While I am not a Kissing Bug, I do admit I have kissed many married and single women in her presence, but they were all friends. My wife took it as a great joke and enjoyed it very much—although she does not care for kissing herself, even from very intimate friends. We are parents of a happy family which are all raised.

If you choose to use this little reminder you may do so. And if you want some more, Jerry, I am at your command—just so as you do not tell my wife.

Best wishes, Jerry.

P. HARVEY.

Her Idea of Marriage

Dearest Geraldine:

After reading Sunday's paper,

Listen, World!

The Irate Lover has been telling me his tale of woe. She is, of course, "the sweetest little thing on earth," utterly outclassing all other saccharine products. But, as is the way with lovers, he desires to keep her sweetness for himself alone.

Not so thinks the little lady. She arrays herself for the dance with all the frosting exposed, as it were. A twist of satin, a rosebud, an exceedingly economical outlay of jeweled lace—there you have the lady's dress.

Volumes, however, could not describe her lover's feelings. He raved—he howled—he quoted his grandmother. In reply she calmly assured him that she "derssed that way to hold his love." "All women dress but to please their men," he was informed. Love, pure, unselfish love underlies every wardrobe. According to her, no sacrifice was too great to hold her adored one's admiration—although at the present showing the sacrifice would seem to include her winter underwear, most of her eyebrows, half her stockings and all the bodice except the belt. But she would do that, or even more than that, to hold his love, she cooed.

At which point he came raving to me. Whereupon I delivered my sagest advice—"Perhaps she's right, Brother. But if that's the way to hold love you surely oughta fall in line. Array yourself according. Why this needless outlay for vest, collars and XYZs? Why this squandering of trouser material below the knees? No longer let your beauty 'blush unseen' Take off your haberdashery and let the whole world see it blush. Don't let her do all the sacrificing for love ——".

But I was wasting my words. He had raced to the nearest department store to select a nice, warm, Eskimo winter sport suit for his lady to wear in the evenings.

April 10, about the POOR man that was bullied by his wife, I disagree with you absolutely. To my opinion it is the men that bully their wives. Believe me, I wouldn't live with a man very long if he threw gas ranges at me or anything else, and I surely wouldn't bow down and adore him—I WOULD SIMPLY WALK OUT—as there's many a fish in the sea that would be a little considerate and know how to act as a gentleman. Of course, there is a limit to everything. I would not want to have a saphead for a husband, but a man with plenty of backbone and will-power and also PLENTY of respect for a woman.

I AGREE WITH YOU when it comes to the woman exceeding her rights in the line of extravagance. He should have enough backbone to tell her, in a respectable way, his means and how much she has to spend and she in turn should do her duties as a wife, and not make a slave out of him. But Jerry I fail to see or know of any woman that can make a slave out of her husband. It seems that after a man works 8 hours, his day's work is done, but a woman can work from morning till night and get no credit for it, BUT if they both worked on a fifty-fifty basis there would be no need of any bullying from either side.

JERRY—please don't think I'm a crab, a married woman, or an old maid, for in reality I haven't reached my 20th birthday; as this was not given from experience but is just what I have learned from the cases I know of, and they aren't a few by any means—but when I read what you had to say in answer to that man's letter, especially that most women make slaves of their husbands, I simply flew up in the air and when I came down to earth again thought there would be no harm done if I sent you my opinion, but I LOVE you just the same Jerry, and think you are doing splendid work—

alas, I have a sneaky feeling that you side in with the men and am real disappointed.

NOT a man hater.

M. T.

The Wife's Side

My dear little girl, I'm mighty glad that you "spoke right up in meeting" and told Jerry all you felt, even if you didn't quite approve of Jerry's remarks. It may interest you to know that I'm going to give the WIFE'S SIDE OF THE CASE on Sunday, May 1, so watch for it. Life is going to teach you many things you do not know now, dear, and if you are wise and sane the teaching, however sad, will help you. Let me tell you a few truths just now.

This business of "women working from morn until night" is largely BOSH. Jerry knows as much about housework, HARD housework, as any woman in Oakland town. And she knows that most women work from morn until night because they don't use any system, brain work, discipline or "gumption" in their work. There ARE some domestic slaves, but the ordinary woman with a small home and a baby or two has no earthly need for slaving if she will apply average intelligence to her job.

Also, why in the world should a woman consider herself terribly misused if she does have to work hard for eight or nine consecutive hours—which very, very few of them ever do? Why should she call it "being a slave to her husband?" Why shouldn't she regard it as a man regards his life—as a way of making a living? That is the way our grandmothers regarded it and perhaps that accounts for the low divorce rate in those days. But the average young wife does not so regard it now. She considers all work done in the home as a huge favor to her husband. And if she had to stay cooped up at her sewing machine and sink all day as her husband has to stay cooped up at his desk or bench, what would she do? Little girl, she'd howl like a coyote—that's what she'd do.

Women aren't essentially any lazier or more selfish than men. Women are a mighty fine lot and JERRY IS FOR 'EM EVERY TIME! But they have received the wrong social training. They have never been taught that it's up to them to earn their own living in the home, just as their husbands earn their livings down at the factory. They do not realize that they're not conferring any great favor on their husbands by working hard all day, but are simply doing what is fair and right by themselves. Also—but I'm not going to tell you all I think on this subject now. If you want to find out, just read the Jerry page on May 1.

Uncle Wiggily Stories

by Howard R. Garis

"Oh, that's fine!" chattered Johnnie

UNCLE WIGGILY AND JOHNNIE'S GUN.

"What's the matter, Johnnie?" asked Uncle Wiggily one day, as, hopping through the woods, he met Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel chap. "Why do you look so sad and unhappy?" the bunny gentleman inquired.

"Because I haven't a water pistol," chattered Johnnie, flipping his big tail from side to side careless like.

"Well, why should you be sad just because you haven't a water pistol?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "If you had had one, and lost it, or if you owned one and had taken it out in school, so that the lady mouse teacher took it from you, then you might be sad. But, as it is—"

"Bully and Bawley No-Tail, the frog boys—they have water pistols," interrupted Johnnie, not very politely, I'm afraid. For he should have waited for Uncle Wiggily to finish talking. But the rabbit gentleman knew Johnnie was not quite himself, so he made excuses

"Well, it is quite proper for frog boys, who live in the pond, to have water pistols," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I should think you would want a nut pop gun."

"I'd like anything that would shoot!" exclaimed the squirrel boy, "but a water gun is best of all."

"Perhaps your daddy hasn't money to spend on such toys," spoke the bunny gentleman. "You know money is scarce and there isn't work for every one."

"But a water gun doesn't cost much," objected the squirrel boy, "and I want one a lot!"

"Well, perhaps instead of buying one I can make one for you," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, can you!" cried Johnnie. "I'll be awful good if you will!"

"Come along to the woods," invited Mr. Longears. "I may want you to help me."

Together the bunny rabbit and the squirrel boy went over the fields and into the woods. On the bank of a little brook were growing some cider bushes—a kind of shrub that has branches filled with soft, white pith, like the inside of a cornstalk.

"Bring me an elder branch," said Uncle Wiggily to the squirrel boy.

Johnnie gladly did as he was told, and when he had gnawed off a stalk with his sharp teeth, Uncle Wiggily took a small, slender stick and with this he pushed out the pith, or soft middle of the elder stalk, leaving a hollow wooden tube, like a bean blower, only a bean blower is made of tin.

"Is that going to be my water gun?" asked the little squirrel boy, frisking around quite happy now.

"This is part of it," said Uncle Wiggily. "I must now make a thing to go up and down inside, so that when you pull it out it will suck water up into the hollow elder stalk. And when you push down the water will squirt out."

"That's almost like a water pistol," chattered Johnnie, "'ceptin' that a water pistol has a rubber ball."

"Well, as we haven't a rubber plant here I can't make a rubber ball," said Uncle Wiggily, his pink nose twinkling extra fast because he enjoyed making a water gun. "But I think this will be what you want."

The bunny gnawed out a smooth stick, with a handle on one end, that moved up and down inside the hollow elder stalk. Then, dipping the open end of the stalk in a nearby spring, the bunny pulled up on the handle. There was a sucking sound as the water filled the hollow tube.

"Now watch!" cried the bunny uncle.

He suddenly pushed on the handle, shoving the stick down inside the stalk, and out came the water!

"Oh, that's fine!" chattered Johnnie. "It's a handy water pistol, and I like it better because you made it, Uncle Wiggily!"

"That's good!" said the bunny. "But it is not quite finished." He gnawed out a plug of wood, with a tiny hole in, and fitted this in the end of the elder stick. This little hole let only a fine stream of water come out, instead of a lot at once. And now Johnnie's gun was really like the frog boys' pistols.

"Oh, what fun I'll have!" cried the squirrel chap as he sucked up some water in his new gun.

"Yes, and I'll have fun, too!" suddenly growled a most unpleasant voice, and there stood the Fuzzy Fox, who had hopped out from behind a mulberry bush. "I'm going to have fun nibbling Uncle Wiggily's ears!" howled the Fox.

"Are you? Well, I'm going to have fun this way!" laughed Johnnie. Then before the Fox could stop him, the squirrel chap squirted a whole gun full of water right in the face of the bad chap.

"Oh, wow! Oh, ouch! Oh, this isn't my day for a bath!" howled the Fox, and away he ran, not hurting the bunny's ears at all.

"I'm glad I made you a water gun, Johnnie," said Mrs. Longears, as he and the squirrel boy hopped away. And if the little ant lady doesn't crawl up the leg of the table and tickle it so it shivers and spills the coffee, why next you shall hear about Uncle Wiggily and Billie's top.

Letters of Tessie & Joe.

DEAR TESSIE—

I hope you're not too disappointed at the news from Washington that there's not going to be any League of Nations after all, but I don't think it will make much difference in your daily life, because even if your butcher happened to be a German and your baker an Italian and your grocer a poor Swede you could not have gone up to them and said: "Well, there's a League of Nations now, so I guess you won't object to letting my bill run for another month or so."

They'd only have told you, "Nothing doing—there may be a League of Nations, but disarmament hasn't taken place yet, so you can't expect us to stop gunning for your money."

However, Tessie, the fact that disarmament hasn't been adopted throughout the world don't necessarily mean you're to unsling all your heavy batteries every time you write for extra money. Business is so poor I'm thinking of carrying a side-line of antidotes to go with Daisy Canned Soups, maybe some nifty brand of indigestion tablets. Not that I'd like to be quoted as saying indigestion tablets ought to be taken as a chaser with a can of Daisy Soup, but it might be a good selling argument to give away a tablet with each can, especially with people that have tried the soup before.

I've been reconsidering my advice about teaching the baby to swim when you give him his bath. Perhaps you'd better start him with a little cork jacket or a pair of water wings, because, after all he's only six months old and we'd better work gradually with him.

The crime wave seems to be diminishing, but don't get too trusting and start leaving the silver on the doorstep over night, and above all guard my private stock as you would your life.

Lovingly, JOE.

SHE WASN'T SICK, BUT HER CHILDREN WERE

Six Months of Care and Worry Were Too Much for Her

GOT THIN, NERVOUS, TIRED

Her Brother-in-Law, a Doctor, Said She Was Anemic, and Advised Pepto-Mangan

Here is a story of a strong, vigorous mother who never knew what ill-health was. But three years ago her two little boys got into the habit of being sick.

Six months of care and worry were too much for her and brought to light the fact that, with all her apparent vigor, she really was anemic. She lost flesh, couldn't sleep well and got nervous.

Then the doctor (her brother-in-law) prescribed Pepto-Mangan.

She said: "Fred explained a lot about the special sort of iron-content in Pepto-Mangan, and a lot of other things I don't understand, but what I do understand is that a bottle of Pepto-Mangan is always going to be in my medicine closet as long as I live. Whatever it contains, I don't know or care, but I do know that it builds me up when I get run down, and that's enough for me."

Gude's Pepto-Mangan is an absolutely dependable red-blood builder in all conditions of lowered vitality not due to serious disease of the vital organs. It improves the appetite, imparts color to the cheeks, and creates new hope and ambition in those who have become pale, weak and listless. Physicians recommend Gude's Pepto-Mangan. When you order, be sure the word "Gude's" is on the package. Without "Gude's" it is not Pepto-Mangan. Furnished in both liquid and tablet form. For sale by all druggists.—Advertisement.

What America Did and Failed to Do at Paris

by ROBERT LANSING
FORMER SECRETARY of STATE

CHAPTER XIII

Wilson Leaves Paris For the United States

Robert Lansing writes a third communication to President Wilson in Paris, and, failing for the third time to get an acknowledgment, concludes that Wilson does not desire voluntary advice. Today Lansing leads interestingly up to the day Wilson, in February, 1919, departed for the United States with the first draft of the covenant, confidently believing he would win popular support for it.

On the day that the Commission on the League of Nations held its first meeting and before I had reason to suspect that Mr. Wilson intended to ignore the letter which I had sent him with the suggested resolution enclosed, I determined to appeal to him in behalf of international arbitration. I decided to do this on the assumption that, even if the plan for a resolution was approved, the Commission would continue its sessions in preparation for the subsequent negotiation of an agreement of some sort providing for world organization. The provision as to arbitration in the President's original draft of a Covenant was so wrong from my point of view and showed such a lack of knowledge of the practical side of the subject that I was impelled to make an effort to induce the President to change the provision.

Except for the fact that the matter was wholly legal in character and invited an opinion based on technical knowledge, I would have remained silent in accordance with my feeling that it would be inadvisable for me to have anything to do with drafting the Covenant. I felt, however, that the constitution and procedure of international courts were subjects which did not affect the general theory of organization and concerning which my views might influence the President and be of aid to him in the formulation of the judicial feature of any plan adopted.

TEXT OF LETTER WITH JUDICIAL INFORMATION

With this object in view I wrote to him the following letter:

"Hotel Crillon, Paris,
February 3, 1919.

"My dear Mr. President:

"I am deeply interested, as you know, in the constitution and procedure of international courts of arbitration, and having participated in five proceedings of this sort I feel that I can speak with a measure of authority.

"In the first place let me say that a tribunal, on which representatives of the litigants sit as judges, has not proved satisfactory even though the majority of the tribunal are nationals of other countries. However well prepared from experience on the bench to render strict justice, the litigants' arbitrators act in fact as advocates. As a consequence the neutral arbitrators are decidedly hampered in giving full and free expression to their views, and there is not that frank exchange of opinion which should characterize the conference of judges. It has generally resulted in a compromise, in which the nation in the wrong gains a measure of benefit and the nation in the right is deprived of a part of the remedy to which it is entitled. In fact an arbitration award is more of a political and diplomatic arrangement than it is a judicial determination. I believe that this undesirable result can be in large measure avoided by eliminating arbitrators of the litigant nations. It is only in the case of monetary claims that these observations do not apply.

METHOD OF PROCEDURE ANOTHER DIFFICULTY

"Another difficulty has been the method of procedure before international tribunals. This does not apply to monetary claims, but to disputes arising out of boundaries, interpretation of treaties, national rights, etc. The present method of an exchange of cases and of counter-cases is more diplomatic than judicial, since it does not put the parties in the relation of complainant and defendant. This relation can in every case be established, if not by mutual agreement, then by some agency of the League of Nations charged with that duty. Until this reform of procedure takes place there will be no definition of issues; and arbitration will continue to be the long and elaborate proceeding it has been in the past.

"There is another practical obstacle to international arbitration as now conducted which ought to be considered, and that is the cost. This obstacle does not affect wealthy nations, but it does prevent small and poor nations from resorting to it as a means of settling disputes. Just how this can be remedied I am not prepared to say, although possibly the international support of all arbitral tribunals might be provided. At any rate, I feel that something should be done to relieve the great expense which now prevents many of the smaller nations from resorting to arbitration.

"I would suggest, therefore, that the Peace Treaty contain a provision directing the League of Nations to hold a conference or to summon a conference to take up this whole matter and draft an international treaty dealing with the constitution of arbitral tribunals and radically revising the procedure.

WOULD HAVE DELAYED ARBITRAL TRIBUNALS

"On account of the difficulties of the subject, which do not appear on the surface, but which experience has shown to be very real, I feel that it would be impracticable to provide in the Peace Treaty too definitely the method of constituting arbitral tribunals. It will require considerable thought and discussion to make arbitration available to the poor as well as the rich, to make an award a judicial settlement rather than a diplomatic compromise and to supersede the cumbersome and prolonged procedure with its duplication of documents and maps by a simple method which will settle the issues and materially shorten the proceedings which now unavoidably drag along for months, if not for years. Faithfully yours,

ROBERT LANSING."

At the time that I sent this letter to Mr. Wilson I had not seen the revised draft of the Covenant which he laid before the Commission on the League of Nations. The probability is that, if I had seen it, the letter would not have been written, for in the revision of the original draft the objectionable Article V, relating to arbitration and appeals from arbitral awards, was omitted. In place of it there were substituted two articles, 11 and 12, the first being an agreement to arbitrate under certain conditions and the other providing that "the Executive Council will formulate plans for the establishment of a Permanent Court of International Justice, and this Court will be competent to head and determine any matter which the parties recognize as suitable for submission to it for arbitration."

Unadvised as to this change, which promised a careful consideration of the method of applying legal principles of justice to international disputes, I did not feel that I could let pass without challenge the unsatisfactory provisions of the President's original draft. Knowing the contempt which Mr. Wilson felt for The Hague Tribunal and his general suspicion of the justice of decisions which it might render, it seemed to me inexpedient to suggest that it should form the basis of a newly constituted judiciary, a suggestion which I should have made had I been dealing with any one other than President Wilson.

INTENSITY OF WILSON'S PREJUDICES RECALLED

In view of the intensity of the President's prejudices and of the uselessness of attempting to remove them, my letter was intended to induce him to postpone a determination of the subject until the problems which it presented could be thoroughly studied and a judicial system developed by an international body of representatives more expert in juridical matters than the Commission on the League of Nations, the American members of which were wholly incompetent by training, knowledge and practical experience to consider the subject.

No acknowledgment, either written or oral, was ever made of my letter of February 3. Possibly President Wilson considered it unnecessary to do so in view of the provision in his revised Covenant postponing discussion of the subject. At the time, however, I naturally assumed that my voluntary advice was unwelcome to him. His silence as to my communications, which seemed to be intended to discourage a continuance of them, gave the impression that he considered an uninvited opinion on any subject connected with the League of Nations an unwarranted interference with a phase of the negotiations which he looked upon as his own special province, and that comment or suggestion, which did not conform wholly to his views, was interpreted into opposition and possibly into criticism of him personally.

This judgment of the President's mental attitude, which was formed at the time, may have been too harsh. It is possible that the shortness of time in which to complete the drafting of the report of the Commission on the League of Nations, upon which he had set his heart, caused him to be impatient of any criticism or suggestion which tended to interrupt his work or that of the Commission. It may have been that pressure for time prevented him from answering letters of the character of the one of February 3. Whatever the real reason was, the fact remains that the letter went unnoticed and the impression was made that it was futile to try to divert the President from the single purpose which he had in mind. His fidelity to his own convictions and his unswerving determination to attain what he sought are characteristics of Mr. Wilson which are sources of weakness as well as of strength. Through them success has generally crowned his efforts, success which in some instances has been more disastrous than failure would have been.

SAYS HOUSE ALSO HELD HAGUE TRIBUNAL POORLY

By what means the change of Article V of the original draft of the Covenant took place, I cannot say. In the memorandum of Messrs. Miller and Auchincloss no suggestion of a Court of International Justice appears, which seems to indicate that the provision in the revised draft did not originate with them or with Colonel House. In fact on more than one occasion I had mentioned arbitration to the Colonel and found his views on the subject extremely vague, though I concluded that he had almost as poor an opinion of The Hague Tribunal as did the President. The probability is that the change was suggested to Mr. Wilson by one of the foreign statesmen in personal interview during January and that upon sounding others he found that they were practically unanimous in favor of a Permanent Court of Justice. As a matter of policy it seemed wise to forestall amendment by providing for its future establishment. If this is the true explanation, Article 12 was not of American origin, though it appears in the President's revised draft.

To be entirely frank in stating my views in regard to Mr. Wilson's attitude toward international arbitration and its importance in a plan of world organization, I have always been and still am skeptical of the sincerity of the apparent willingness of the President to accept the change which was inserted in his revised draft. It is difficult to avoid the belief that Article V of the original draft indicated his true opinion of the application of legal principles to controversies between nations. That article, by depriving an arbitral award of finality and conferring the power of review on a political body with authority to order a rehearing, shows that the President believed that more complete justice would be rendered if the precepts and rules of international law were in a measure subordinated to political expediency and if the judges were not permitted to view the questions solely from the standpoint of legal justice. There is nothing that occurred, to my knowledge, between the printing of the original draft of the Covenant and the printing of the revised draft, which indicated a change of opinion by the President. It may be that this is a misinterpretation of Mr. Wilson's attitude, and that the change toward international arbitration was due to conviction rather than to expediency; but my belief is that expediency was the sole cause.

WILSON'S ADDRESS WINS ADMIRATION

The Commission on the League of Nations, over which President Wilson presided, held ten meetings between February 3 and February 14, on which latter day it submitted a report at a plenary session of the Conference on the Preliminaries of Peace. The report was presented by the President in an address of exceptional excellence which made a deep impression on his hearers. His dignity of manner, his earnestness, and his logical presentation of the subject, clothed as it was in well-chosen phrases, unquestionably won the admiration of all, even of those who could not reconcile their personal views with the Covenant as reported by the Commission. It was a masterly effort, an example of literary rather than emotional oratory, peculiarly fitting to the occasion and to the temper and intellectual character of the audience.

Considering the brief time given to its discussion in the Commission and the necessary haste required to complete the document before the President's departure, the Covenant as reported to the Conference was a creditable piece of work. Many of the more glaring errors of expression and some of the especially objectionable features of the President's revised draft were eliminated. There were others which persisted, but the improvement was so marked that the gross defects in word and phrase largely disappeared. If one accepted the President's theory of organization, there was little to criticize in the report, except a certain inexactness of expression which indicated a lack of technical knowledge on the part of those who put the Covenant into final form. But these crudities and ambiguities of language would, it was fair to presume, disappear if the articles passed through the hands of drafting experts.

Fundamentally, however, the Covenant as reported was as wrong as the President's original draft, since it contained the affirmative guaranty of political independence and territorial integrity, the primacy of the Five Great Powers on the Executive Council, and the perplexing and unsound system of mandates. In this I could not willingly follow President Wilson, but I felt that I had done all that I could properly do in opposition to his theory. The responsibility of decision rested with him and he had made his decision. There was nothing more to be said.

On the evening of the day of the plenary session at which the report of the League of Nations was submitted, the President left Paris for Brest where the George Washington was waiting to convey him to the United States. He carried with him the report of the Commission, whose deliberations and decisions he had so manifestly dominated. He went prepared to meet his political antagonists and the enemies of the League, confidently believing that he could win a popular support that would silence the opposition which had been unmistakably manifest in the Halls of Congress and in some of the Republican newspapers which declined to follow Mr. Taft, Mr. Wickersham, Mr. Straus and other influential Republican members of the League to Enforce Peace.

(Lansing, continuing his narrative of events in Paris, explains in the next installment how little he and White and General Bliss knew of what transpired at the League of Nations conferences.)

Woman Threatens to Kill Him, Man Says

SACRAMENTO, April 28.—Declaring that his life is in danger so long as Adele Verge, who, he says, made an attempt to kill him by shooting in San Francisco in 1911, is permitted to be at large, C. Frederick Kohl of San Francisco, through District Attorney Matthew Brady, petitioned Governor W. D. Stephens to requisition the governor general of Canada for the extradition of the woman.

The woman was apprehended recently at Vancouver, B. C., as she was about to board a ship for the orient. Miss Verge, according to District Attorney Brady, is under indictment in San Francisco on the charge of assault with intent to kill, which followed her shooting of Kohl several years ago.

SIMPSON PROTESTS DECISION GIVEN AGAINST "BAT" ORTEGA

MALONE DID NOT SHOW EVIDENCE OF A FOUL PUNCH, SAYS SIMPSON

Members of the Local Moose Lodge Witness Some Real B oxing Bouts.

By BOB SHAND

Battling Ortega lost on a foul to Jock Malone at New Orleans last night, but according to a telegram received from Manager Tommy Simpson this morning, the verdict was all wrong. Simpson claims that the fight was awarded to Malone on the showing his protective gear was dented and not because there were any physical signs of a foul punch. As Tommy paid for the telegram he naturally did not go into details about the well-known "dented cup" trick, but it is a well-known fact that nine out of every ten are dented in the gymnasium or in some previous bout. Boxers who wanted to be real smart have been known to use a hammer on the gear in order to have something to hang a claim of foul on.

The Associated Press account of the fight follows:

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 28.—Jock Malone of St Paul was awarded the decision over Battling Ortega in the twelfth round of a scheduled fifteen-round fight here last night. While Malone was apparently knocked out, the boxing commission ruled that Ortega had struck low and gave Malone the decision. Malone weighed 150 pounds and Ortega 151.

Here is Simpson's telegram:

"New Orleans, April 27.

"Sporting Editor Oakland TRIBUNE, Oakland, Cal.: Malone claims foul in the twelfth round and Referee allow it on strength of his cup being bent. Ortega had Malone in a bad way in the ninth, tenth, eleventh and what was fought of twelfth round. Malone showed no marks of foul.

"TOMMY SIMPSON."

Simpson, Ortega and Broom left for home this morning and should be there Sunday night or Monday morning at the latest. Then when Tommy gets the Battler into a back room they will talk over their differences—if they really have any. Rumors have been flying thick and fast about the Battler being ready to sign with another manager, but there is nothing definite in any of the stories.

Mel Moffitt gave the members of the local Moose lodge some real scrapping last night when he matched up a flock of classy amateurs. The fact that half a dozen of the scraps terminated in the first round didn't hurt the entertainment any as the customers were promised action—and got it. The best fight of the night was between Young Willie Meehan of the Moore shipyard and Arthur Rivers of the Parkside club. It was Meehan's second appearance during the evening as he had just got through knocking out a kid named McGuire in fifty seconds. Meehan won the second fight after three of the fastest amateur rounds ever seen here. The boys let go with everything they had and had the members on their feet yelling their heads off.

A misguided lad named Mike O'Day was encouraged by a flock of seconds to keep his nose right in the path of Larry Lamont's left hand, and poor Mike's proboscis is listed badly to starboard today. Mike was game and kept on bumping his nose into Larry's glove, although the referee kindly offered to stop the thing whenever Mike said the word.

Vernon Nolan of the Union Construction Company lasted all of fifty seconds with Johnny Mullins. Vernon landed in Billy Brackett's lap and the captain of the guard gave him first aid. Gus Gerson knocked Johnny Bish down for "nine" in the first, but Johnny was game and started fighting again. He lasted the three rounds, but Gerson won by a mile or two. Jimmy Burke was so skinny that the judges gave him the decision over Mike O'Dowd. An extra round was called for, but Burke said he couldn't go another round for a million dollars, while poor Mike was too winded to do anything but take off his gloves.

Bobby Dunne stepped around Jack Rael for a minute and a half and then hung a mean one on Jack's talking apparatus that ended the festivities. Jackey Miller gave Eddie Stewart a neat lacing. Johnny Avalon, of the Union Construction Company was too heavy for Bill Crilling and the bout was stopped in the first round after poor Bill started inquiring about the price of violets.

Dempsey Taking Life Easy at Eastern Camp

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
United States Staff Correspondent.

The writer spent the day over at Freddie Welsh's health farm at Summit, N. J., with the big husky boy, who is to meet Georges Carpentier July 2 for the heavyweight crowd.

Dempsey was willing to play pinochle, throw nickels at a line, run a foot race or experiment with a headlock on the muscle of a huge hog. He wanted to do anything but talk fight.

"I'm just resting, eating and having a good time," he said.

The champion got up at 6:30, put on white flannels and a low-necked white shirt and jogged a couple of miles over the hills, returning with an appetite that ruined a platter of ham and eggs and three or four quarts of fresh milk.

At 9 o'clock, he was out on the road with Freddie Welsh, Joe Benjamin and Teddy Hayes. It was just a stroll along a little stream where the champion exercised his back grabbing frogs out of the water to take home to frighten his pet monkey.

Lettuce salad, a big piece of tenderloin steak, several bottles of milk and two cups of tea occupied his attention for an hour at noon.

Followed then a couple of pinochle games, a profitable 30-minutes at nickel tossing and a wrestling match all over the front yard with a gang of friends. He laid round for the rest of the afternoon and then got ready for dinner.

"I'm not going to do any work until we get to our Atlantic City training camp," he said.

"I'm feeling as good as I ever did and I can get in shape with six weeks' work. I over-trained for Bill Brennan and I'm not going to make the same mistake this time."

Berkeley High Wins Triangular Track Meet by Close Score

Berkeley High School captured the triangular track meet yesterday afternoon on the California Oval against Oakland Tech and Polytechnic by scoring 52¼ points. Polytechnic nosed out Tech for second place with a score of 44½ to 43¼ for Oakland Tech. It was the tightest high school meet ever seen on the Berkeley track as the three schools each held the lead in the point column at different times during the afternoon and the final outcome was in doubt up to the last event.

Boone, the Berkeley High star of the distances, was a bright light for the afternoon, winning the mile in 4:50 which is fast time for high school runners in these parts. Goertz was the bright star of the day when he won the 100, 220 and 440-yard events while Francis won the shotput and discus events for the two first places.

Boxing Matches Are Legal in Colorado

DENVER, Col., April 27.—Boxing matches for which an admission fee is charged, and in which the boxers receive compensation for boxing, are legal in Colorado, according to the decision of a jury in criminal court here today.

The verdict was rendered in a test case, brought after the March 10 bout between Young Fitzsimmons and Bud Clancy in Denver. Johnny Corbett and Jack Kanner, promoters, were arrested by direction of District Attorney Van Cise.

Corbett and Kanner announced after the verdict that boxing matches, suspended in Denver for several weeks, would be resumed in May.

GOLF BY W. D. McNICOLL

Mrs W. Stadfeld (4) and Mrs. C. Waterman (9) played off the final for the trophy presented by Mrs Buck, over the Sequoyah course. Mrs. Stadfeld caught up on her less experienced opponent and won on the fourteenth green. Discussing results with the losers reveal the fact that they do not feel discouraged but are anxious to try again and use to advantage the experience gained in the previous contest. A putting and approaching contest for women will take place on an early date for a trophy donated by Mrs O. Ellinghouse.

Yesterday's matches at Beresford in the women's state championship were all comparatively easy sailing for the favorites but today's matches will be much closer and interesting. Mrs C. F. Ford who defeated her club mate from Claremont, Mrs H. A. Prole, has to meet Mrs Robert A. Roos of the local club while Miss Kavanaugh has to tackle Mrs. T. S. Baker who defeated Miss Parks in the previous round. The results were as follows:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT.

Mrs T. S. Baker defeated Miss Gwen Parks, 7 and 5.

Mrs. C. F. Ford defeated Mrs. H. A. Prole, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Robert A. Roos defeated Mrs. L. Strassburger, 5 and 3.

DEFEATED EIGHT.

In the second flight both Claremonters won their matches with comparative ease. Should they win their matches today the second flight will be a Claremont affair. The second flight results were as follows:

SECOND FLIGHT

Mrs. Margaret Von Schrader (2) defeated Miss Edith Corey (1), 1 up.

Miss Alice Knowles (2) defeated Mrs. J. A. Reiners (4), 4 and 3.

Mrs. Max Rothschild (0) defeated Miss Josephine Moore (1), 7 and 5.

Mrs. George Field (2) defeated Mrs. S. Frankenheimer (3), 7 and 6.

DEFEATED EIGHT.

Mrs. Leon Roos (5) defeated Mrs. H. F. Anderson (0), 2 and 1.

Mrs. W. Waldeyer (3) defeated Mrs Alfred Meyer (3), 1 up.

Mrs. M. A. Hirschman (2) defeated Mrs. D. P. Fredericks (3), on the nineteenth.

Mrs. Henry Lund (1) won from Mrs. Charles Lathrop (3) by default.

Galmarino and Butler did the chucking for the winners, being received by Cowes in masterly style. For the losing Boulevardiers Wilson, Holdrich and Grismore pitched and were caught by Quirk. Rogers, Cowes and Merritt each collected two hits apiece. The summary:

Chess Experts Busy Dividing the Dough

HAVANA, April 28.—The tournament committee which had in charge the international chess championship match between Dr. Emanuel Lasker of Germany and Jose R. Capablanca, the Cuban expert, decided yesterday to grant Dr. Lasker's request to resign the series and concede Capablanca, the world championship chess title. Dr. Lasker gave illness as the reason for his desire to cease playing.

The $25,000 involved in the match is being divided between the players as though the full twenty-four games of the series had been played.

In addition to pleading illness, the German master today said he was convinced he could not have beaten Capablanca.

Capablanca said that, while he would have preferred to win the title over the board, the action of the committee in giving him the championship was satisfactory.

Eddie Loos Unable to Go to England

CHICAGO, April 28.—Eddie Loos, golf professional at the Ravisloe Country Club, Chicago, announced today that he would be unable to go to Europe this spring with the team of 12 professional golfers recently selected to represent the United States in the British open championship.

HIS NAME IS "PIG-IRON"

Here is young Gorman, the sensational kid second-sacker of the Vernon Tigers. He is robbing the Oaks of hits every day and starting a lot of double plays to save the Tiger pitchers.

WALTER CHRISTIE CAN TAKE MEN HE WANTS TO CONFERENCE IN EAST

Coach Expected to Pic k a Dozen Bruin Athe-letes to Compete A gainst East Champ

By DOUG MONTELL

California's last chance to obtain a dual track meet for the "wonder track team" of Coach Walt Christie was declared to be off last night by Graduate Manager Nichols, who stated that the Bears had been unable to arrange such a contest with any of the eastern colleges prior to the I. C. A. A. A. A. meet in the Harvard Stadium on May 27-28. It had been previously known that neither Yale nor Harvard had an open date on which they might be able to meet the Bruins, but despite these failures the powers that be at the State University held out hopes that one of the other of the larger universities of the east might be in a position to accept such a proposition.

Cornell was understood to be the last of the big institutions with which the Blue and Gold were negotiating and up to last night things appeared favorable to the chances of arranging such a meet. It would undoubtedly have suited the far famed Bruins well had they been able to secure additional competition while in the East, not that the I. C. A. A. A. A. was not deemed sufficient in the way of competition, but the dual meet idea would have enabled Coach Christie to take a team of fifteen men East and would have given the Bears an opportunity to try conclusions with a strong University of that section in their home territory.

Too Short Notice to Get Bears a Date.

It would appear to be the logical move for California to resume negotiations while in the East to bring about a dual meet in the 1922 season such as the Blue and Gold sought this spring without success. The Eastern schedules are made out at an early date and while California undoubtedly possesses class enough to warrant being given a date, the Bears cannot hope to secure one on such short notice. In as much as the California track team of this year will be practically intact, save for the loss of three members, the Bruins can well figure ahead for their competition next season.

The final decision regarding the number of men to be taken on the trip to the I. C. A. A. A. A. has been withheld, for the present, by the executive committee of the Associated Students, which met last night. In fact, it was intimated that the ultimate decision will rest with Walt Christie alone. As Graduate Manager Nichols said following the meeting, if Christie figures that he has ten or twelve men who will be needed and can be of use in such a meet it is entirely probable that he will be given a free hand in making the selection of the men to make the trip. It will be between ten and twelve of the husky Bruins who spend a portion of their summer vacation in eastern climes and those who have seen the California tracksters in action this season are quite ready to believe that it will be the larger number of men used.

May Not Send Team to the Northwest.

Nothing has been decided about California's plans to enter a second string team in the Pacific Coast Conference meet at Eugene, Ore., on May 21. Word from the north received at California early in the week indicated that the Oregon track might not be ready for the Conference meet at that date and if twelve men are taken East there is a great probability that the California coach will not deem it advisable to start his left-behinds against the rest of the teams of the Pacific coast organization of colleges.

Pacific Association officials have taken heed of the fact that the Blue and Gold team is leaving these parts during the early part of May and, according to word received from P. A. A. officials the annual track and field championships of the local association will be held on the California Oval on Saturday, May 14. This would give the California athletes their first competition since the Stanford meet and after a month's layoff the Blue and Gold men will be in need of just such a meet to restore the edge before taking the trans-continental tour. The holding of the P. A. meet at that time would enable such track stars as Kirksey, Sudden, Newhoff and Hutchison to clash in the dash events and would resolve itself into a triangular meet between the Olympic Club, Stanford and California, with a little outside competition thrown in for good measure.

Olympic Club Would Be a Cinch to Win.

Had the P. A. meet not been held until after the departure of the Bears for the East, the local championships would have been of little interest, for the Olympic Club athletes would have swept the field of all honors without sufficient competition to bring out the best results. Coach Frank Foster has a galaxy of champs in his stable at the present time and the results of the dual meets of the Olympic Club against Stanford and California in early season is not indicative of the full strength of the clubmen. In fact, the Winged "O" were in a very crippled condition at the time that they met California and an opportunity to see the athletes of Stanford, California and Olympic Club in action on the same track is looked forward to by local enthusiasts as one of the best bits of competition of the present season.

Subscription Plan Announced for Stadium.

California is allowing no grass to grow under her feet as regards the plans for the new Blue and Gold stadium. Yesterday the stadium committee announced definite plans for the erection of the new structure, which it is estimated will cost in the neighborhood of $800,000. Plans for the stadium, as given out, have it that the edifice will seat 75,000 people and this would provide ample seating capacity for all who hope to see the Stanford-California fracas in the fall of 1922. Such a stadium has become a necessity for of late the people of the State of California have not had a fair opportunity to see important collegiate football contests with the inadequate seating capacity of California Field.

A state wide project is under way to finance the new stadium at Berkeley and the committee proposes a brief subscription campaign to be carried on among the people to raise funds for the construction of the new plant for inter-collegiate athletics. Subscriptions of $100 will be issued which will entitle the holder to the right to two reserved seats at the Stanford-California game for the first five years and would extend the right to the holder to purchase two of the choice seats for the next five years at the prevailing price at that time. Plans are also included which would provide, once the stadium is fully paid for, to increase the athletic facilities in the way of tennis and handball courts, which would be in keeping with the policy at California urging general participation in athletics of some sort or other.

Norman Ross Loses the 150-Yard Race

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—Defeating Norman Ross, of the Illinois A. C., Ray Kegeris, L. A. A. C., last night won the national A. A. U. 150-yard back stroke swimming championship. Kegeris' time—1 minute, 49 4-5 seconds—was within one second of the world's record.

In the 50-yard dash for high school boys, Walter Ran of Venice High won in 27 seconds. Ed Rawling of San Diego High was second. Thelma Finn made the best time in the girl's 100-yard handicap.

Baseball Gossip

Bill Essick certainly has a dandy pair of youngsters around the second bag in French at short and Gorman at second. Their work robbed the Oaks of several hits. French was as spry as a young colt, but he wouldn't last very long in baseball if he kept up that pace all the time. He was dashing on and off the field, and over to the bench when retired at first.

In the fourth inning Hack Miller broke his favorite bat and half of it flew nearly as far as third where Red Smith fielded the ball and threw him out.

Umpire Mal Eason put Wilie and Brubaker in tight places in the sixth by calling strikes on them when they let bad pitches go by.

McGrew was also off form and called Brubaker out at first base to complete a double play in the eighth, when it appeared like the Oaks shortstop beat Gorman's throw by a full step. He called the play before the ball reached the bag.

The bucket moochers were fooled yesterday because they didn't know what Herbie McFarlin looked like. Herbie was all dressed up in a new suit and a Panama hat. George Alfey Putnam, of the Seals, is no longer the beau brummel of the secretaries.

Ray French tried to catch Denny Wilie napping in the third inning, but Denny was wide awake and French paid the penalty. Ray got a single and tried to stretch it to a double, figuring that Wilie would just toss the ball to second, but Denny cut it to White, and White shot it to Brubaker to get French sliding into the bag.

Rain played havoc with yesterday's Coast League baseball. Only two games were played and San Francisco and Vernon were the winners.

San Francisco beat the Angels 9 to 6.

Fifteen Seal hits were responsible. Doc Crandall was the leading victim but Rheinhart, who relieved him, didn't fare too well.

In the Big Leagues

Carl Holling, former Oak, and "Suds" Sutherland, formerly of the Portland Beavers, were the shining lights yesterday when the Detroit Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians 5 to 2 and put an end to their string of wins which had reached six. Holling pitched a little over seven innings and allowed but five hits. Sutherland, who finished the mound work and got credit for the win, cinched the game for the Tigers by getting a hit that scored the winning run in the tenth.

It was a big day for all the former Coasters with the Tigers, as Bobby Jones, Harry Heilman, Lou Blue and Johnny Young got two hits each, and Johnny Bassler got one. One of Jones' went for a double. Coveleskie did the mound honors for the Indians.

Duffy Lewis beat his old teammates, the New York Yankees, when he doubled in the ninth inning to score two runners and give Washington a 5 to 3 win. It was the fifth straight beating for the Yanks.

Babe Ruth went hitless for the Yanks.

George Kelly hit his fifth homer for the New York Giants who lost to Brooklyn 5 to 4. Bancroft went hitless with the Giants.

Jimmy Johnston hit a double and two singles for the Dodgers.

Bernie Neis' pinch single helped the Dodgers tie up the score again the Giants and Bernie then came home with the winning run on Johnston's single.

Cecil Causey weakened in the seventh inning long enough to permit Boston to score four runs, which defeated the Phillies.

SEALS HAMMER ON ANGELS FOR 2D VICTORY.

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—The Seals pulled a game out of the fire here yesterday to defeat the Angels 9 to 6. They were trailing 6 to 4 in the seventh when they got one run, and then they came back in the eighth with two more, and another pair in the ninth. Justin Fitzgerald batted for Lewis in the eighth and hit a double which scored Kamm with the tying run. He advanced on Crawford's error and scored the winning run on Schick's single. Hits by Caveney and Kamm and an error counted the other two in the ninth.

Stockton Athletes Coming to Berkeley

STOCKTON, April 28.—Five members of the high school track team will be sent to Berkeley by Coach Jim Cave next Saturday, to compete in the California Interscholastic Federation state championship. Bob Hammond, team captain, will enter the 440-yard run. George Badger is the broad jump artist. Cy Seifert is believed to stand a good chance in the low hurdles and Eric Kenz expects to make a showing in the discus throw. Roy Farnsworth is entered in the high jump.

Vallejo Shooters to Compete in South

VALLEJO, April 28.—The Vallejo Gun Club will be represented at Los Angeles next week by James V. O'Hara and Andy Flickinger, two of the best shots in this section of the state. The two scattergun experts are to leave here on Sunday for the southern metropolis.

BUZ ARLETT WILL NOT PITCH FOR THE OAKS FOR A LONG TIME NOW

Harry Krause Wastes a Perfectly Good Ball Game by Startin g With Handicap.

By EDDIE MURPHY

Chalk up another defeat against Russell (Buz) Arlett; the big fellow who was the best bet of the Oaks last year and the hardest worked pitcher in the Pacific Coast league. Yesterday noon, before crossing the bay to San Francisco, Foreman Honus Mitze of the Oaks spent a half hour discussing the troubles of the big Oakland pitcher, and said that it was his discovery of a sore arm that caused him to act sulky at times on the field. Mitze didn't intend to pitch Arlett yesterday unless he wanted to go in himself, and Buz made the request to the Oakland foreman as soon as he hit Recreation park. So yesterday Arlett was out there trying his best to get the pill over the platter, but after pitching to five batters, allowing two of them free trips to first base, and Edington a single and Hyatt a homer, he decided to give up and let Krause finish the job.

Arlett's desire to try and pitch a win for the Oaks on a hot day, just cost the local club the ball game, for those four men who got on base at Arlett's expense all scored, to give the Tigers their only runs of the game.

Couldn't Put Anything On His Waste Ball.

The chances are that it will be some little while before Arlett will appear on the hill for the Oaks again, as he certainly showed yesterday that he cannot go the route without taking a good rest. "Arlett's arm has been sore ever since we hit Salt Lake, and I think that is why he is acting so queerly these days. A good rest might do him some good, and he won't be worked this week, unless he wants to," chirped Mitze yesterday.

Arlett started out in yesterday's contest by giving a walk to Chadbourne. Wilie took care of High's fly. Buz tried to throw a fast one on the outside to help Koehler in getting Chadbourne going to second, but his arm didn't have the right zipp and Edington was able to reach his bat over the plate and shove the ball through short, as Brubaker went to cover second. That was enough to show that Buz didn't have his old stuff with him. Next was Ham Hyatt, and he planted the ball over the right field wall for a homer, which meant three runs. After Smith was given a free trip to first, Arlett trotted from the box toward the clubhouse and was like a fellow who had lost his best friend. Looks like Arlett will have to be an everyday visitor at Trainer "Scotty" Finlay's headquarters for the next couple of weeks.

Howard Has Good Laugh On Chas. (Doc) Strub.

Until Arlett is right again, Howard and Mitze will feel that they are being cheated out of several wins, and from a little chat with Superintendent Howard and Charles (Doc) Strub, had over at Recreation park yesterday, it was learned that the Oakland owners are out after help for their pitching staff.

The conversation which Howard had with Strub afforded the Oakland superintendent a good laugh and made "Doc" Strub feel foolish. The two gents started out discussing their pitching staffs, and Strub said to Howard, with a big smile, "I was offered Cunningham, by the Detroit club, but I can't use him right now." "Is that so? Did you see him work, and what kind of a pitcher is he?" inquired Howard. "Yes, I saw him work when I was back east the last time, and he is a left-hander who looks like a wonder," was Strub's answer. "Are you sure that he was with the Detroit club and that Navin offered him to you?" Howard further inquired. "Of course he is, and it was only the other day that Navin sent the wire," again answered Strub. This was too rich, and Howard informed Strub that Cunningham is a right-handed pitcher, and also advised him that there wasn't much chance of the Seals getting him. And Howard immediately got busy and wired Navin to find out if Cunningham was offered the Seals, and Navin's reply was that no such thing ever happened. So it looks like Strub was just trying to talk Del out of going after Cunningham, so that the Seals could have him.

Double Plays Kill Off Runs for the Oaks.

The hot sun seemed to do Harry Krause a lot of good yesterday, for the Tigers were practically shutout by him. A single by French and a sacrifice fly by Gorman, in the first, scored Smith, who had been walked by Arlett. Krause never looked better on the hill than he did yesterday, even if he did get into a couple of tight places. In the seventh he filled the bags with one out, and pulled out without a score against him. Hyatt forced Chadbourne at the plate on a bounder to Krause, and Smith popped to White. Five hits were all that was made off Krause. Four times Hyatt faced Krause and only once could he get the ball out of the infield.

Art Fromme pitched some high-class ball himself, and had the Oaks almost helpless until the ninth, when they threatened to pull the game from the fire. Koehler's double and an infield hit by Krause, which was followed by a double play, was the closest that the Oaks came to scoring before Babe Pinelli hit a homer into the bleachers, in the fifth. Double plays were the Oaks' downfall, for the Tigers turned in five of them. The most disastrous to the locals was in the ninth, when with one runner already over the pan, Knight and Miller were on the bags, and White in an attempt to sacrifice popped to Fromme, who doubled Miller off second. Then Pinelli forced Knight at second for the last out. Cooper had started the inning with a single, went to second when Miller walked, and scored on Knight's hit past third.

Outlaws Of High Schools Have Team

The ineligible players of Tech and Oakland High have formed a newly organized baseball team, known as the High School Outlaws. In their first game they defeated Oakland High Varsity by a score of 1 to 0. In the rest of the games they will be greatly strengthened with the addition of "Babe" Keller, Abe Rubin and "Scotty" Tait, all former Technites. Besides these three, there are "Husky" Ingram, Jimmy Lund, Martin Rotke and others of well known high school caliber. The last three named are Oakland High stars and were declared ineligible for the reason of playing of Sunday ball. Games will be scheduled with the different high schools around Oakland and San Francisco.

LODI DEFEATS TRACY

TRACY, April 27.—The Tracy Tigers lost to the Lodi Superiors, 7 to 4. Many errors by both teams, due to a high north wind blowing, took all the pep out of the game. Three fluke hits, that took peculiar bounds, let in the winning runs for Lodi.

The score:

Lodi	7	8	6

Batteries—Mello and G. Wittmayer; Kemp and Harder.

TOO HOT TO PLAY

The Berkeley Warriors, managed by T. Flynn, failed to put in an appearance for their scheduled game with the Piedmont Scout baseball team at Fortieth and San Pablo yesterday afternoon, so the latter team won the game by forfeit, 9-0.

The Berkeley team challenged the scout team several times, explaining how easy it would be to beat them, and when the game was arranged finally, the warriors complained that it was "too hot," according to their manager. The Piedmont boys say they can make it hot for the warriors any time.

Spring Is the Time to Purify Your Blood

Most people stay indoors and eat so heavily in winter their systems get clogged with impurities—real poisons—that should have been cast off.

This is why itching, torturous outbreaks of the skin are common in spring. The blood, which normally disposes of these impurities, gets so overloaded it cannot work properly and is trying to get rid of them by extraordinary means.

You should regard these spring outbreaks as signals to look to your blood at once, for they are sure signs something is wrong within. The poisonous impurities have collected in your circulation until the danger point has been reached.

For this cleansing thousands rely on S.S.S., a remedy made of herbs which the Indians discovered centuries ago would purify the blood. It has been serving the white man now for fifty years in a better form than the Indians had it.

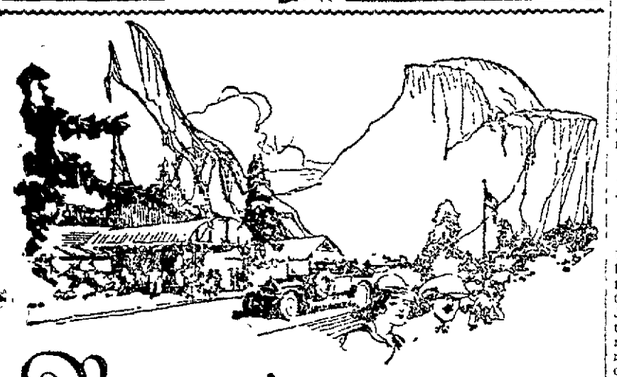

Don't delay a day longer, but get a bottle of S.S.S. and start right now to free your blood of the winter accumulation of impurities.

Your druggist can supply you with S.S.S., and if you want individual medical advice free, write about your condition to Chief Medical Advisor, 853 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Georgia.

Theaters

ORPHEUM

Two acts of unusual interest and importance will headline the new program that will be presented at the Oakland Orpheum next week.

Alan Brooks, with his playlet "Dollars and Sense," has set a new high standard for vaudeville entertainment.

Loyla Adler comes to vaudeville in a colorful playlet entitled "The Beautiful Lady" directed by Holbrook Blinn.

Jack Dunham and Andy Williams will be seen in a comedy "Happiness," and Larry Comer will offer his newest song routine. Something new in musical acts is promised by "The Four Gossips." Prosper & Maret will present their novel acrobatic act and Lalla Selbini and Bert Nagle will be seen in "The Butterfly and the Cat."

MacARTHUR

"Outcast" is proving a drawing card at the MacArthur Theater this week where Jane Urban is using it as the opening attraction for her return engagement at the theater.

Miss Urban is giving a splendid performance of "Miriam," and Walter P. Richardson is gathering new laurels for his excellent work in the role of Geoffrey. The support is a well-balanced company including Auda Due, John G. Fee, Jerome Sheldon, Hugh Metcalfe, Lucille Dexter and Florence Hutchinson.

On Sunday afternoon a new play will be produced "The Blindness of Virtue," one in which Miss Urban will have opportunity to show a new side to her character.

LOEW'S STATE

Miss Doris Keane appears in "Romance" at Loew's State Theater for the balance of this week. The most minute care has been taken to faithfully represent the environments of New York in which the production is laid.

"Bob White," an overseas veteran, was given this name because of his unusual whistling talents. Cowboy Williams and Daiswy prove their versatility with songs, juggling, gun spinning and cannon ball tossing.

FULTON

Next Sunday Nana Bryant and Oakland's favorite juvenile Cliff Thompson returns to the Fulton for a limited season in Jane Cowle's masterpiece "Smilin' Through."

"Smilin' Through" deals with young people who are in love with one another. The boy is about to join his regiment. When the girl's guardian objects to their marriage they part; then there in his garden he see the folly of his past and learns that happiness comes from giving happiness. The youthful lovers are reunited the older man finds happiness he never knew before.

"The Nut" Douglas Fairbanks current starring vehicle at the T. and D. Theater is probably the most original and novel of all of the famous screen funmaker's creations. While "The Nut" carries a pretty love story it is the inimitable "Dug's" stunts that hold attention.

In addition to "The Nut" Jack London's "The Little Fool" makes a cap tivating screen story. Prince Lei Lani is singing "Aloha" to repeated encores.

Moving pictures of the Hawthorne school festivities will be taken tomorrow and shown next Sunday.

GREEK THEATER

Interest is being manifested in the concert of the Adolph Bolm Russian ballet and the Little Symphony, with George Barrere as conducted, next Saturday night at the Greek Theater of the University of California.

The first part of the program will include numbers by the Little Symphony. A feature is a flute solo "Allegretto" by George Barrere the conductor. Part two of the program will be taken over by the ballet assisted by the Little Symphony. Dancers will include Ruth Page, Amata Grassi, Caird Leslie, Margit Leeraas, Senia Gluckow and Adolph Bolm. Bolm himself appears in two numbers.

CHIMES

Charles Chaplin in "The Kid," the $1,000,000 picture which took a year to make, is being presented at the Chimes theater till Saturday. The production is about three times the length of the comedian's previous pictures and is considerably more than three times funnier than anything he has done. The story has a real plot and the humor is caused by situations in a real story. Charlie is a wandering glazier, and while the Kid went ahead breaking windows Charlie was always at hand to get the job of mending them.

KINEMA

"Straight is the Way," a comedy of two crooks who prove to be "heroes" after playing the parts of ghosts and tampering with a ouija board, concludes its week's run at the Kinema Theater Friday night and will be followed Saturday by the favorite Wallace Reid, in "The Love Special."

"The Love Special," which follows Saturday, is played by a brilliant cast, including Agnes Ayres, Theodore Roberts and Clarence Burton. It tells the story of a young woman-hater whose business in life is building railroads. When he provokes one of the fair sex and she sets a trap to humiliate him, he perks up and begins to take an interests in women folks.

NEW FRANKLIN

Anna Sewell's "Black Beauty," translated to the screen, with an "inside" story of the people who owned the famous horse, will be held for a second week at the New Franklin Theater, as a part of the same big bill which includes Clyde Cook's first comedy, "The Jockey", "The Adventures of Bob and Bill," pictures of the San Francisco fire and the old Oakland views.

The other features of the bill have been picked especially to fit with the big picture and include two screen innovations in the Clyde Cook comedy in which a trained horse furnishes most of the laughs and a "boy's" reel, in which two youngsters meet and conquer a real, live wildcat.

PANTAGES

The House of David band, 20 in number, comes to Pantages next Sunday from the famous colony at Benton Harbor, Mich. It is a quaint cult, this House of David, for the members believe in the ancient legent that no man should crop his hair or beard. There are stalwart and talented men in the colony including the famous Hanneford Brothers to whom the major leagues made flattering offers to appear in baseball.

Another special feature of next week's Pantages bill will be the Capps family, the greatest family in vaudeville.

AMERICAN

"Ducks and Drakes" is furnishing laughs at the American, and on the same bill Pearl White is starring in a distinct triumph. Henri Bernstein's celebrated play "The Thief."

Pearl White's offerings is adapted from one of the biggest stage plays of the season. Her clever acting is enhanced by a score of recognized stars of the photoplay world who appear in the cast with her.

IDORA

The stage is all set for the first bathing girl's revue of the season to be staged at Idora Park next Saturday, when scores of pretty girls, in the latest bath suits of the season, abbreviated and otherwise, will appear to try to win the coveted $100 prize and the week's enagagement at the G. and D. Theater.

The exhibition will be free to Idora visitors and the girls in their suits will pass in revue where they can be seen at close range.

On Saturday there will be a big May Day pageant for children under the direction of Mrs. A. N. Hines of the Santa Fe Improvement club.

BROADWAY

William Faversham is appearing in "The Sin That Was His" at the Broadway theater today and tomorrow. The same program offers Olive Thomas in "Darling Mine" the final picture made by the star before she sailed for Paris and her death.

"The Sin That Was His" is a story of a gambler who has become so aesthetic through his mistrust in mankind that he becomes a pagan. An event in his life, however, brings about a transformation in his thoughts and he becomes a true believer. The reclamation of a soul is depicted in a series of scenes that are unlike anything ever shown on the screen.

NEPTUNE

Bobby Beck, who scored a sensational hit at Neptune Beach last week in his high diving act, will stage a second week of aerial plunging from the sixty-foot diving tower at the Alameda bathing resort next Sunday afternoon. The Captive Airplanes, Scenic Railway, Climbing Monkeys, Whip, and Tea Gardens are meeting with unusual success this season. The monster seaboat "Neptune" will carry passengers out over San Francisco Bay, and Professor Schultz will play a concert from the bandstand.

Leader of Veterans Will Arrive Monday

Captain R. A. Woodside, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will arrive in Oakland next Monday to inspect the Col. John J. Astor post, V. F. W. He will have luncheon with a number of the members and officers of the local post after which he will go to San Francisco, where he will address an Americanization mass meeting at the municipal auditorium.

Captain Woodside wears the D. S. C. (Distinguished Service Cross), awarded him by General Pershing for an act of heroism performed during the Aisne-Marne offensive when he risked his life to save a man from his company who had been wounded. He too, was wounded.

SPECIAL TARIFF LEGISLATION FOR PROTECTION, PLEA

American Business Problems Discussed At U. S. Commerce Convention.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 28.—Problems of taxation and tariff facing American business were discussed today by leading business men and financiers in the annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Special tariff legislation to assure the United States "commercial prosperity" was urged by Judge Marion Deveries of the United States Custom Courts of Appeals. "The government must arm and equip its administrative forces," he said. "With every possible instrumentality of commercial defense and exchange. We should not be misled by sentiments of brotherly love and international liberality."

Tariff protection for agriculture was demanded by Harvey J. Sconce, agriculturist of Sidell, Ills.

"The greatest help that can be given to agricultural industry," said Sconce, "is the building of the deep waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic, enabling the farmer to market his products in foreign countries and also along our own seaboards at a much lower freight rate than at present."

RETAILERS GIVEN TABLOID COURSE IN SALESMANSHIP

A complete, instructive and beneficial tabloid course in salesmanship and business development was offered yesterday at the Merchandizing Conference under the auspices of the Pacific States Electric Company at the Municipal Auditorium theater.

Designed by the General Electric Company to improve electrical merchandizing which has suffered more or less heavily with slack building activity, the conference was broad enough in its scope to be interesting to the merchant in almost any retail line and the sessions, afternoon and evening, were attended by hundreds of interested employers, managers, salesmen and clerks, including many women.

Fourteen spakers in the General Electric party augmented their talks with elaborate paraphernalia and many lantern slides, a miniature stage having been rigged to disclose shop, office and home under conditions of correct and incorrect lighting.

ADVICE TO RETAILERS

The advice given the retailers was much broader than any immediate attempt at promotion of General Electric goods, although these were the basis of all demonstrations.

Thomas Casey, official and sales expert of the Hurley Machine Company of Chicago, attacked the sale by retailers of inferior goods under the guise of being the best products. He also laid down principles of advertising, advocating use of newspapers, the telephone and the mails.

"Never yet was a successful retail business built up without newspaper advertising," he asserted. "It is absolutely1 necessary. Your problem is to get buyers into your store and ther isn't any better way to do it."

In addition he argued for the personal touch in merchandizing, declaring that the retailer could do no better than use the telephone to call attention to his wares and, by judicious short telephone conversations with possible customers.

CALIFORNIA BOOSTED

All of the speakers paid particular attention to California as one of the leading states in electrical development, John A. Britton, general manager of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company, speaking in the evening on the "Power Company's Relation to Merchandizing," in the course of which he described the dependence of the electrical energy producer upon those widening his market.

Other speakers were Harry B. Kirkland of the Sprague Electric Works; J. M. Shute, J. T. McManis, A. L. Powell and R. E. Harrington of the Edison Lamp Works; J. M. Smith of the Ivanhoe-Regent Works; Kolin Hager and Y. D. Yates of departments of the General Electric; A. C. Nodine of the Electric Vacuum Cleaner Company; H. H. Russell of the Edison Electrical Appliance Company; H. Q. Beven of the Trumbull Electrical Mfg. Co., and Guy P. Norton of the Duplex Lighting Works.

A. D. Page, salesmanager of the Edison Lamp Works, was chairman of both afternoon and evening conferences.

State Manufacturers Elect New Directors

Election of a new member, R. V. Morris of the Spreckels Savage Tire Company of San Diego, to the directorate of the California Manufacturers' Association, is announced. The directorate now consists of thirteen. Oakland has three directors on the board and Berkeley one. The directorate beside Morris includes now: George A. Armes, Moore Shipbuilding Company, Oakland; F. L. Burrell, Anderson Barngrover Mfg. Company, San Jose; George D. Clark, N. Clark and Sons, San Francisco; C. Parker Holt, The Holt Manufacturing Company, Stockton; Julius A. Landsberger, Hunt Brothers Packing Co., San Francisco; Constant Meese, Meese & Gottfried Co., San Francisco; John R. SENATOR FOR TARIFF WALL.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 28.—Tariff protection for American products and the removal of taxes from business enterprises was urged by Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, at the Grant Day dinner of the American Republican Club last night.

The questions of tariff and taxation are of almost equal importance to establishing peace with Germany and having a settled foreign policy, he declared.

First Cherries Sold Here Are Soon Snapped Up

FIRST cherries in marketable quantity, a total of about nine pounds, were offered on the Oakland market today, and at $3 for the lot were snapped up before they had more than been unloaded. The cherries were from the river area. The beginning will pave the way to early and considerable deliveries, it is expected.

Louisiana Rice Growers Recovering from Bungle

Special to OAKLAND TRIBUNE
By CONSOLIDATED PRESS

By I. V. SHANNON.

NEW ORLEANS, April 28.—Evidence that the price recession movement has about run its course here is furnished by a hardening of merchandise values. Jobbers now are refusing to shade prices to effect sales.

One of the most encouraging signs is the ease with which high-grade bonds and mortgage paper is absorbed. One issue of $2,500,000 of bonds on local real estate recently was sold three times over within a few hours without advertisement.

Members of organized labor unions have notified the receivers of the Texas & Pacific Railroad, acting under authority of the United States court, that they will strike rather than accept the reduction in wages posted for May 1.

Rice producers, hit by the collapse of their co-operative marketing plan, are beginning to get on their feet again. Their plan proved one of the most disastrous ever attempted to relieve poor marketing conditions.

The farmers have been feeding the rice to their stock, instead of buying corn in the west, as they have done heretofore. This scheme proved beneficial to the stock and materially reduced overproduction.

Announced intention of the Japanese government to buy and store the surplus eastern rice crop will help Louisiana planters dispose of their surplus from last year. This year's crop will be much smaller and is being produced at such a low cost that the grower can make a profit out of it at comparatively low prices.

Philadelphia

By FRANK D. McLAIN.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—May is likely to prove the crucial month in this district and business affairs in the area are shaping with that idea in view. A leading department store has given notice of a large reduction of its force, to take effect May 1, and others are likely to follow with a purpose of curtailing expenses through the summer.

Railroads having their general offices here also are gradually reducing their office payrolls.

While living costs are estimated to be about 22 per cent lower than a year ago, recent declines are almost nominal, which is emphasized by the organized trades in support of their efforts to retain the high wage schedules now in operation. Bricklayers, well organized, have taken the position that they are ready to increase production per man, but will not yield as to wages demanded. A large employer says there is great improvement in efficiency in this particular trade, as workmen who in recent years would lay 1000 or less bricks a day now are laying 2000. Employing painters, decorators and paper hangers have announced a cut of 20 cents an hour, effective May 1, making the pay 80 cents an hour, and the organized workers have declared that they will strike unless they obtain the customary $1. Other workers in the building trades are quite as firm, making it very probable that contractors on May 1 will declare for the open shop and endeavor to obtain workers at prices they are willing to pay regardless of union rules.

One large distributing house representing southern cotton mills is receiving favorable reports from its salesmen who are traveling not only in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, but in the west, demand from retail merchants for the fall trade being especially good.

Anthracite is dull, as consumers expected a substantial reduction April 1 from the high post-war prices and were disappointed. Production is well maintained.

Business Miscellany

U. S. STEEL WAGES

PITTSBURGH, April 28.—The United States Steel Corporation soon will announce a new wage policy, according to definite report here. Radical changes are expected, judging from recent utterances of Judge E. H. Gary. Perhaps an entirely new scale basis, incorporating the eight-hour day, will be the result. In any event, it is expected here that the new policy will be revolutionary and of far-reaching importance. A definite announcement of the corporation's wage policy would have a wholesome effect on business in general.

WOULD IMPROVE BUYING

NEW YORK, April 28.—A movement is reported among merchants throughout the country to join in a campaign to stimulate buying by convincing the general public that retail prices have receded just about as far as they will go. It is explained that no further serious drop in prices is expected or can occur. This movement is said to have had its inception in Baltimore and will be brought up at the convention of the National Chamber of Commerce at Atlantic City, now in session. The chamber will be asked to appoint a central committee to investigate the situation. Merchants generally realize there is plenty of purchasing power in the United States. This was evidenced most strikingly in the remarkable Easter trade all over the country. The public, however, is holding back for still lower prices and not until they can be convinced that a stable level has been reached will normalcy in buying be attained.

For Clothing Buyers

NEW YORK, April 28.—Interest as to the gowns to be worn by Ethel Barrymore in the new production at the Empire, with her brother John as co-star, has been satisfied. A wonderful white pearl-embroidered gown, with white ostrich-trimmed hat, worn as the court costume of the queen, was distinctly a stage creation, so for general purposes there was greater note taken of a striking negligee worn in a boudoir scene. It was of ruby velvet, banded to the length of its considerable train with kolinsky. Bell-shaped sleeves, also fur-banded, had streamers of velvet, which lent both grace and majesty to the robe. A floor length of deep cream lace was visible from the knee down.

The vogue for laces is evidenced by drawings received here of some of the latest Paris creations. One is an evening frock of mauve cire lace with a silver ribbon as belt. The entire gown, with extreme decolletage and just a strand of beads for shoulder straps, is of lace. In the second model allover figured lace is employed, both for the skirt and for a graceful shawl draping which is an essential part of the costume. Both frocks are simply designed, depending upon the material for the effectiveness.

MEXICAN PETROL MADE CENTER OF CONCERTED DRIVE

Oil Stock Reacts 3½ Points Causing Sharp Reversals Elsewhere.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Selling of railroad shares was resumed at the opening of today's stock market as a result of yesterday's cut in Pennsylvania's dividend.

Pressure against rails eased after the opening. Royal Dutch, Shell Trading, General Asphalt, Studebaker, Pierce Arrow and Chandler showed extreme gains of 1 to 2¾ points, and Bethlehem, and Republic steels rose 1 to 1½. Baldwin Locomotive, American Woolen, United Fruit and Sears-Roebuck made similar additions to the advance.

Before noon, however, Mexican Petroleum became the center of a concerted drive, reacting 3½ points to an actual overnight loss of 2½ and causing sharp reversals elsewhere.

British exchange was more responsive to the lower bank rate, but the local money market held firm with call loans at 6½ per cent.

Bull pools became aggressively active in Studebaker and International Paper at midday. Studebaker rose nearly six points to 92¼, the highest price of the year, and International Paper rose nearly four points. Rails threw off their early apathy. Pacifics and coalers rose 1 to 1½ points.

Oils, chemicals and equipments at gains of 1 to 3 points were prominent features of the final hour, but prices eased before the end on call money's rise to 7 per cent. Sales approximated 850,000 shares.

SHIPPING, FOOD PRICES AND WORLD'S COMMERCE

FREIGHT RATES' DECISION WILL BE BENEFICIAL

Change That Would Affect West Coast Industries Is Denied.

Important and favorable effects were seen here today following announcement of the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday denying a change of freight rates from points east of the Rocky Mountains to inter-mountain territory and dismissing complaints of shippers and others who contended that the rates were unreasonable and prejudicial.

The vital point of the decision for the Pacific Coast and particularly California is seen in the emphasis laid by the commission on the development of west coast industries as a result of the high freight rates.

DESIRABLE PUBLIC INTEREST

This paragraph in the decision of the Commission is held particularly noteworthy:

The rate situation is having a tendency to compel the eastern industries to erect manufacturing plants and branch houses in the coast states. While this trend is naturally objectionable to established eastern manufacturers the building up of the west as a manufacturing and primary distributing territory is not undesirable from the standpoint of public interest. We have little, if any, power and no inclination to adjust rates for the purpose of retarding or promoting progress and development of a particular section, but aside from any indicated considerations if water competition is to be disregarded, there is much to be said in favor of increasing the differentials against freight-association, eastern trunk line and New England territories.

AIDS OAKLAND DISTRICT

No area on the Pacific coast has felt the result of this industrial development or will feel it more than Oakland district, it is pointed out by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce officials and by shipping men.

The complaint was against the maintenance of rates nearly the same between Eastern points and inter-mountain territory and between Eastern points and the Pacific Coast, the complainants seeking to have rates to the mountain points revised with the distance compared with the distance to the coast as a working basis.

Before the war rates to the coast were below those to mountain territory because of Panama Canal competition. When the war eliminated this competition the commission, in 1918, increased some coast rates and lowered some intermediate rates which practically equalized the rates to the two territories.

Gold Flood To U. S. Not Held Peril

By HOLLAND

Exclusive to OAKLAND TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, April 28.—About twenty years ago one hundred millions in gold, approximately, were sent in a few weeks to the United States from other countries, principally Great Britain. It established a new record. The amount was so large that the clearing-house authorities were much concerned, for they were apprehensive that the vaults of this association were incapable of storing it. In fact, shelves were built which occupied the aisles that separated the vaults and upon them was placed much of the gold and the association sent its chairman, the late Frederick D. Tappan, to Pittsburgh to negotiate for the construction of larger vaults.

That import of gold has passed into the traditions of the financial district. No one at that date would have ventured to say that within twenty years the imports of gold in a few months would be so great as completely to dwarf the amount then received. This amazing import of gold is one of the phenomena that were suddenly developed by the exigencies of the war. The clearing-house vaults, enlarged as they have been, would be of insufficient capacity for the storage of this gold. But now we have Federal Reserve vaults and they are ample to take care of all gold that may be brought into the United States in addition to the enormous amount already imported.

SIZE OF GROWTH

On April 1 the gold now in this country which came from abroad was $354,000,000 in excess of the gold which was held here a year ago. Much more is coming. Almost every steamer brings gold and in one day recently gold of the value of $9,000,000 was taken from the steamships just arrived from Europe. These were the imports for a single day. It would not astonish the banking authorities if by July 1 $500,000,000 in gold in excess of the amount held on July 1 of last year were in the vaults of the Federal Reserve Bank or in the vaults of the banks.

Occasionally the remark has been made that we do not need this gold and from one point of view that statement is accurate. Sometimes it is said that the accumulation of the enormous deposit, unprecedented in the world's history, may be of dangerous tendency because it may stimulate unreasonable speculation. But the ablest bankers say that this apprehension is unfounded.

This gold has come not because we need it or have demanded it, but because those in foreign lands who have bought American commodities have discovered that it is cheaper to use gold in payment for these commodities than to buy exchange. That is nothing new. It has often happened that foreign exchange has been quoted at such high figures that it has been found advantageous to use gold in payment of obligations instead of purchasing exchange.

The fact that these shipments of gold from other lands to the United States are so heavy is of itself sufficient proof that we are maintaining our foreign trade, although in March of this year the money value of that trade was less by $750,000,000 than was the like value of the trade in March of last year. The exports in March of last year were caused by special demands. Yet gold continues to come and very likely this movement will be in progress for several months. There is no other explanation for these imports of gold than the use of it by our debtors in other lands so that in this way they can pay for the commodities which they are buying.

PUZZLING FEATURE.

One of the features associated with this movement of gold to the United States which is puzzling some of our bankers refers to the sources from which this gold comes. It certainly does not come from the vaults of the banks of Europe. Our own bankers have been instructed by their correspondents on the ground in Europe that the central banks of Europe do not permit anyone to draw gold from the reserves of these banks for the purpose of exporting it. There must, then, have been a far greater amount of loose gold, so to call it, in European countries than was believed at one time to be possible. Presumably it comes from hoardings and from stocks of gold which were not placed in the banks.

A year or two hence perhaps a considerable part of this gold will be drawn from this country to other lands when trade conditions become normal. If there had not been depression in our gold mining industry and if the Alaska yield had been maintained at the high figure of several years ago, we should have from our own mines this year probably not less than $100,000,000 of newly mined gold. If we get as much as $60,000,000 we shall do fairly well.

Maurice L. Muhleman, assistant treasurer of the United States at the New York Sub-Treasury, is recognized as our best authority upon gold production and the influence of gold upon finance, trade and industry. He was always of the opinion that no danger could be discovered in the increase of the gold supplies of the United States no matter how large that might be. Muhleman was certain that the more gold we had the greater would be the development of our natural resources because it would be the more easy to obtain the funds with which to utilize these resources. The development of these natural resources meant increased national wealth. Gold in plenty might to some extent stimulate speculation of a kind which is not healthful, but the Federal Reserve System possesses power enough to check undue speculation.

That Great Britain is not apprehensive lest the gold mines in her colonies especially South Africa yield so greatly as to cause serious difficulties to arise was evident during the war and is now evident. Her South African mines whose yield continues to be greater than that of the gold mines of any other country were of much avail in aiding England to handle her difficult financial problems when the war was in progress and now almost all of the gold which is coming to the United States from Great Britain, a year ago was in the mines of South Africa.

PAY OF 30,000 CANNERY HANDS CUT BY BOARD

State Industrial Commission Issues Order Following S. F. Hearing.

Wages of approximately 30,000 cannery works, chiefly women, in California were reduced today by the Industrial Welfare Commission.

The new scale is designed to put fruit and vegetable canners on the same footing with spinach and asparagus canners whose wages were reduced in a previous order two months ago.

The schedule issued is for piece work and reduces all but one item, cherries.

The real reduction, however, is found in the lowering from 66 to 50 per cent of the number of workers who must, under the piece rates, receive at least 23 1-3 cents an hour. In other words the canneries now may employ a half instead of a third of workers classed as apprentices.

MINIMUM PAY RULING.

The commission in its award did not reduce the minimum wage stipulation of $16 a week. The new piece work schedule compared to old rates stands:

	Old Rate	New Rate
Cherries, cwt	75c	75c
Apricots, cwt.	50c	18c
Free peaches, cwt.	22c	18c
Cling peaches, cwt.	37c	30c
Pears, cwt.	62c	55c
Tomatoes (finished product) 12 quarts	5½c	5c

A wage board composed of representatives of both workers and employers in the industry, met in San Francisco last week and was composed of the following representing the workers:

WAGE BOARD HEARING.

Mrs. Isabel Schmidt, Berkeley; Miss Christine Smith, Selma Fruit Workers' Union; Mrs. F. M. Keister, Pomona, and Miss Frances Zicovich, Santa Clara.

Representing the employers were: Leonard Wood, California Packing Corporation; E. E. Chase, Richmond-Chase Canning Company, San Jose; W. St. B. Eustis, Libby-McNeill and Libby; W. S. Mudd, Golden State Cannery, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Catherine Phillips Edson, of the Industrial Welfare Commission, acted as chairman.

Following this hearing the commission considered the facts presented executively and then made the award announced today. The award is binding. A reduction had not been opposed by the workers and it was believed today that the cuts would be accepted without comment.

Preston McKinney, secretary of the Canners' League, representing all the important canners north of the Tehachapi, said that the league considered that the commission had acted fairly in meeting the situation in which canners found wage scales more than they could pay at a profit. No estimate could be made as to the actual savings to the canners, it was stated.

It was the unanimous recommendation of the wage board accepted by the commission that there be no change in the minimum of $16 a week. Minimum time rates are established and provide that the piece rates paid for the cutting and canning of fruit and vegetables shall yield to not less than 50 per cent of the women working upon them, not less than 33 1-3 cents an hour. If the piece rates do not yield to this per cent of the women workers, a percentage of increase, sufficient to make the piece rate yield as required is to be added to the payroll. The commission will make weekly payroll inspection in canneries to insure the proper yielding of the piece rates paid.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 28.—The cotton market opened 7 to 10 points higher today on the reduction in the Bank of England rate and improvement in the British coal situation and stronger cables from Liverpool, which led to fair buying here. At the end of the first twenty minutes the list was steady at about six points over last night's close.

The market closed quiet and featureless today, with prices five points higher to three points lower.

Option—	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.
January	13.80	14.06	13.82	13.84
March	14.21	14.21	14.11	14.13

December	13.81	13.81	13.68	13.70

Spots unchanged. Middling 12.30.

LIVERPOOL, April 28.—Spot cotton was in moderate inquiry at the beginning of business today with prices steady. Sales 5000 bales. American middling, fair, 10.88; good middling, 8.33; full middling, 8.28; middling, 7.63; low, 6.58; good ordinary, 5.33; ordinary, 4.58. Futures opened quiet.

Local Market Notes

String beans brought up to 25 cents a pound in Oakland today. Offerings were not extensive but the early beans were of good quality. At the price there was no very active group of takers.

Strawberries continued their decline with the advance of the crop, drawers selling down to 75 cents on offerings of 260 chests. The market has not yet hit its best stride on strawberries but there is a good demand.

Shipments expect to be among the last of importance from Mexico, are reported by tomato handlers. The advance of the Imperial Valley crop is expected, within the next ten days, to have crowded most of the Mexican offerings from the stalls. The Imperial tomatoes are expected to be shipped in large quantities. In the face of the California tomatoes, the Mexicans declined to $2.50 on the box today.

Cauliflower which sold at $2.40 a dozen and were grown in the Alum Rock district were to be had today. There have been practically none of these vegetables for two weeks and the offering was expected to be about the last.

Some apprehension for the country districts is noted in marketing circles as a result of the warm weather, fear being expressed that too rapid drying out of some of the important crops may be the result.

OAKLAND TAKES FRONT RANK IN DISTRICT CITIES

Retail Trade Here Increases 26.6 Per Cent in March Over February.

Oakland once more takes front rank among the cities of the Twelfth Federal Reserve District in the monthly summary of the affairs of the district, industrial and financial, compiled by the Reserve bank, covering March and released today.

Retail trade of this city increased 26.6 per cent in March over February, a record only exceeded in Seattle, where the figure was 33.4 per cent. In San Francisco the increase was 21.6 per cent and in Los Angeles 19.2. Oakland trade in March was 9 per cent greater than in March, 1920.

For the first quarter of this year Oakland retail trade gained 5.8 per cent over the same period in 1920, while Oakland retail stocks at the close of March had been reduced 27.2 per cent from March, 1920, a reduction only exceeded again in Seattle. Oakland merchants reduced their stocks 7.7 per cent in March from the February figure.

GROWTH IS COMPARED

A comparison of the growth of business retail lines for the whole district for March over February is summarized by per centage as follows: Hardware, 23.9; dry goods, 28.5; groceries, 20.9; drugs, 11.3; shoes, 68.4, stationery, 1.3; furniture, 19.7; automobile tires, 46.7.

Again in building activity Oakland ranks second on comparative increases as between March this year and March last. This city showed a gain of 51.2 per cent for March, 1921, over March, 1920, a percentage exceeded only in Los Angeles, which made a gain of 124.8 per cent. Oakland's nearest competitor was Portland, which noted a gain of only 80.4 per cent.

A graphic chart of the district on material costs shows the following reductions comparing March, 1920, and 1921: Lumber, 33 per cent; structural steel, 21; nails and hardware, 20; paint, 9; white lead, 15; oil, 50; plate glass, 35; pressed brick, 8; plumbing goods, 35; and electrical material, 18.

In bank clearings, Oakland also made a favorable showing, being one of six cities out of nineteen reporting in the district to record an increase in March, 1921, over March, 1920. The Oakland increase was 2.6 per cent.

BUSINESS REVIVAL

Of the general situation in the district the Reserve Bank says in part:

"Definite signs of business revival in certain industries of this district appeared during the month, during which period also spring activity in agricultural operations began. Lumber production, which has been at the lowest point in two years, was 17.3 per cent greater than in February and approximately 65 per cent of the mills are today in operation — some on part time — as against less than 50 per cent on March 1st of this year.

"In the shipbuilding industry two new contracts of record size were announced by one yard, although others are nearing the end of the construction for which they have contracts." (The record contracts are for two 20,000-ton ore carriers to be built at the Bethlehem yards in Alameda.)

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 28.—Wheat followed a downward slant today, influenced somewhat by the fact that weather and crop reports were considered favorable on the whole.

Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to ¾c lower, with May $1.25 to $1.25½ and July $1.01¼ to $1.01½ were followed by downturns all around and by minor transient rallies.

Subsequently the market took an upward swing as a result of some revival of export demand and because of progress of the emergency tariff bill. The close was strong at the same as yesterday's finish to 1¼c higher, with May $1.27 to $1.27¼ and July $1.05 to $1.05¼.

Corn, after opening 1-8 to 5-8c lower, including July at 61¼ to 61⅜, underwent a general setback.

Oats started unchanged to ⅛c off, July 37 3-8 to 37⅝c, and later descended a little more.

Provisions went lower as well as grain, despite an upturn in the hog market.

The close.

Wheat—May, $1.27; July, $1.05.
Corn—May, 57⅛c; July, 60⅞c.
Oats—May, 35⅞c; July, 37⅝c.
Pork—May, $15.50; July, $15.90.
Lard—May, $9.47; July, $9.90.
Ribs—May, $8.20; July $9.52.

The Waterfront

Matson's new steamship Manulani left Oakland harbor at 7 o'clock this morning and went direct to pier 32, where she began loading her first cargo. She will sail for Honolulu in a few days on her maiden voyage, returning here with products of the Hawaiian islands. The Manulani will carry 13,000 tons dead weight. She was built at the Moore shipyard, Oakland, and was launched February 20 with her sister craft, the Manukai, now being completed at the Oakland plant. The Manulani has been having her dock trial for several days, and her official trial trip will be held when she leaves for the islands. The Manukai will be completed within a few weeks.

Six steam schooners arrived here during the past twelve hours with a total of 2,870,000 feet of lumber. Several steam schooners are loading on the Columbia river and should have been here some days ago, but the work of loading is going on very slowly on account of the longshoremen's strike in that vicinity.

John O. Davis, Collector of Port, arrived home this morning on the steamship Nanking from Honolulu, where he has been on business for the government for the past six weeks.

Lloyds have posted the Italian steamship Monte San Michele as lost. She left New York February 2 for Genoa with a cargo of nearly 8000 tons of grain. She carried a crew of 45 men, all of whom shipped on the vessel at her home port in Italy.

The schooner Harvester is also given up as lost. She is out 175 days from the South Sea Islands, with a cargo of copra for this port, and has never been reported. Her crew was shipped at this port, and the vessel is owned by the Charles Nelson Company, also of this port.

The schooner Fanny Dutard is outfitting on Puget Sound for a codfishing voyage to Bering Sea. J. A. Matheson, owner of the vessel, has reached an agreement with the deep sea fishermen. This is the third codfishing vessel to leave Puget Sound for Bering Sea this year, but none will leave this port.

All the ice is now clear on the upper Yukon river and everything is ready for the river craft to start. It will be about June 1 before the ice is completely out of the Yukon on the lower end toward Bering Sea, and the steamers from Dawson are following the ice down the river. The first steamer to leave St. Michaels for Dawson sails about June 10.

The steamer Albertolite will be launched tomorrow at the Standifer plant at Vancouver and Mrs. Miles Poindexter, wife of United States Senator Poindexter, has been appointed sponsor.

Oakland harbor is being thinned of idle vessels since the salmon fleet began to move, and only a few now remain. They soon will leave their winter quarters and proceed to Alaska. The shipping board fleet is still taking up a large portion of Alameda shores, and very little business is being done with them. They will soon have to be taken to the drydock for cleaning and painting.

Changes of Masters registered at the United States Custom House: Captain L. H. West, steamer West Hixton; Captain Edw. Peterson, steamer Hyades; Captain Waldemar Marzen, ship Star of France; Captain T. G. Agren, gas tug Pico.

WOMAN, ON NIGHT AUTO RIDE, FALLS FROM MOVING CAR

Five Persons Arrested After Patrolman Witnesses Auto Mishap.

Midnight joyriding in an Alameda county automobile with a white woman and a bottle of whisky landed four colored men in the city jail at 1:45 a. m. today. They were held "for investigation."

The party was arrested at Seventh and Peralta streets by Patrolman J. Roderick, aided by Corporal James Fleming and two other patrolmen. Roderick's attention was called to the party when the woman fell from the automobile to the street.

Those arrested are:

Georgia Thirmati, a white woman; Ralph Allen, Otis Allen, Elmer Hyatt and Ross Whitman, all colored. Otis Allen is said to be night watchman at the Alameda county garage.

The woman was uninjured by the fall from the machine, as it was going quite slowly.

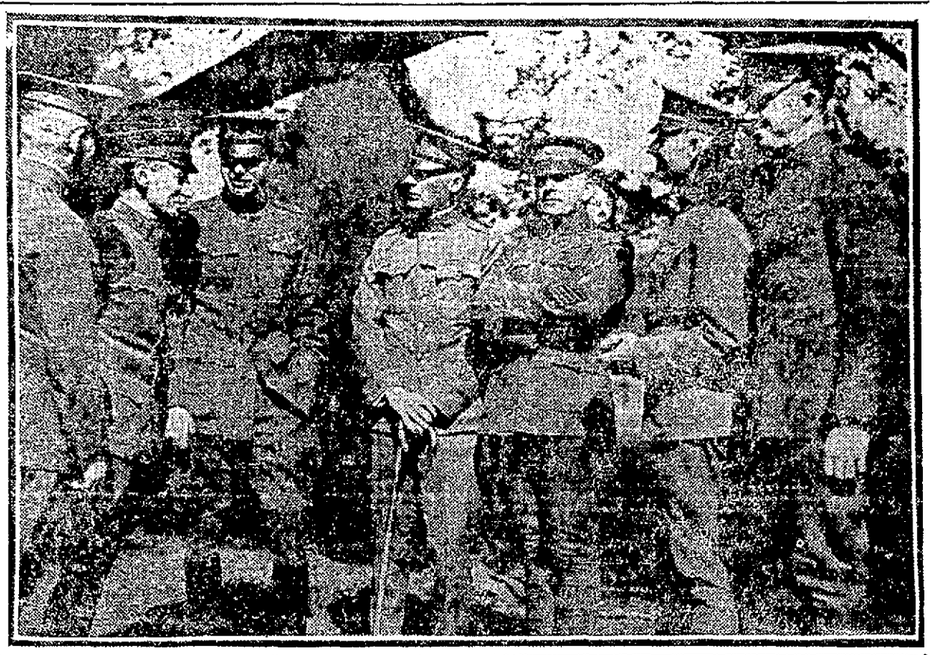

After she fell, Roderick jumped on the running board of the automobile and commanded the party to stop. According to his report, Otis Allen swore at him and tried to push him from the machine.

Roderick drew his revolver and threatened the party with it, blowing his police whistle at the same time.

According to police reports, a pint bottle of whisky was found in the automobile.

The car, it was said at the county garage today, was the one used by Deputy Sheriff Bert Brown. No permission had been given Allen to use it.

Suspect Identified As Fugitive Slayer

George ("Lefty") Lewis, alias Rogers, said to be a member of the gang that accompanied N. C. Brown when he shot Sam Misovich, a cook in a Market street restaurant, last October, and captured by officers in Detroit yesterday, was postively identified today as a convict who escaped from jail No. 1 on Washington street, San Francisco, more than a year ago after his conviction on a murder charge, according to word received here today.

The identification was made by Police Chief O'Brien and Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson of San Francisco, who said Lewis was sentenced to life imprisonment after being convicted of killing a bartender during a hold-up in 1918. He escaped from jail after being sentenced to the penitentiary. Lewis is believed by the police to have been responsible also for the $1,000,000 postoffice robbery at Toledo.

CHURCHES HOLD SPECIAL PARTIES FOR CHILDREN

First Community Affair Held At First Congregational in Alameda.

Working in conjunction with the Alameda County Sunday School association, practically all Protestant churches of the Eastbay district are observing nation-wide children's week with festivals and parties. Special emphasis has been made of community festivals for children on the cradle rolls on the various Sunday schools.

The first community party to be held during the week took place at the First Congregational church, Alameda, last Monday, and was arranged for children of the cradle roll age. On Wednesday afternoon the primary departments of the various Alameda Sunday schools held a community party. The Rialto theater, Alameda, will be the scene of a party for the junior department on Saturday afternoon.

Calvary Presbyterian church, Bonita and Cedar streets, Berkeley, was the scene of a community children's festival yesterday afternoon. Over 300 boys and girls ranging in age from 2 to 12 years were present. A program in which members of the primary and junior departments took part was given, and later in the afternoon refreshments were served. The First Christian church, Oakland, entertained the children of the beginners' and cradle roll departments this afternoon. A short program was given, after which balloons were distributed and refreshments served.

South Berkeley will observe the week with an elaborate festival, to be held tomorrow afternoon in Westminster Presbyterian church.

East Oakland churches have treated the week as a community affair and will unite Sunday in a special union service. The congregations of the Eighth Avenue M. E., Brooklyn Presbyterian, Church of the Advent (Episcopal) and Tenth Avenue Baptist churches will meet in the Eighth Avenue church on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Professor C. E. Rugh of the University of California, will speak on "The Right of the Child." A community party for children will be held at the church on Saturday.

At Plymouth Congregational church a reception and tea for mothers will be held tomorrow afternoon from 2:30 to 4 o'clock. The affair will be held under the auspices of the Woman's club. On Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock children's parties for beginners, primary and sub-junior departments will be held in the Center auditorium and Mayflower hall. The First M. E. church will have its children's festival in Mosswood park on May 7.

OAKLAND LIONS HEAR ADVICE OF NOTED EDUCATOR

President of Colegate Says Foch War Rules Applicable To Oakland Battles.

"I dare say this is the first opportunity you have ever had to look upon a man by the name of Bryan who is actually president of something!"

This was the declaration of Elmer Burritt Bryan, L.L.D., president of Colegate University, who spoke on "The Game of Life" before the members of the Oakland Lions club at luncheon at the Hotel Oakland yesterday. He was introduced by President David P. Barrows of the University of California.

Bryan, one of the foremost educators of America, proved himself an excellent story teller, as well as a profound speaker by relating some of the episodes of his association with Barrows in the Philippine insurrection, when he met the gigantic task of establishing an educational system in that country, which was later directed by Barrows.

URGES FOCH STRATEGY

Under the subject, "The Game of Life," President Bryan chose as his theme, "The Strategy of Foch," in which he declared there were three points of military strategy which could be applied at all times to the game of life. They were:

1. Concerted action under unified leadership.
2. When outnumbered by the enemy and borne back, attack.
3. You're never defeated until you surrender.

"Concerted action under unified leadership is the only way to successfully manage and conduct the affairs of life," said Bryan. "There is no other way to develop Northern California. There is no other way to make a greater Oakland, and there is no other way to bring the business to Oakland. You must work under unified leadership.

"Ignorance is running rampant in your midst, and so is superstition. Envy is also abroad in the form of one of the most dangerous enemies to the welfare of the community. We have overcome in a slight measure the enemy known as disease, yet there is much to be done under unified leadership to stamp it out.

INDICATES DANGERS

"Ignorance, envy, superstition and mistrust are threatening your community. They must be stamped out, and this task may be accomplished only under unified leadership.

"You are never defeated until you surrender. Remember that. We all know that when we have the enemy on the run it is time to attack. We knew enough before we ever heard of Foch to strike when we detected a weak place in the enemy's lines, yet it took Foch to tell us that the time to attack is when you're outnumbered by the enemy and borne back. You are outnumbered every day by the enemy, who is running rampant throughout your district. You are borne back at times when you find yourselves almost hopelessly outnumbered. But that's the time to attack."

A standing vote of appreciation was tendered both Barrows and Bryan, as well as Mrs. Bryan, who is accompanying her husband on their sojourn in the west.

TRIBUTE TO SNAPE

In speaking of Snape, President Bryan said:

"If you should walk down the main street of Utica, New York, today, where I used to know the Rev. Mr. Snape, and ask anyone, you should happen to meet what his favorite sport was, he would reply, 'John Snape.'"

The entertainment consisted of musical numbers by the University of California Glee Club. The captains of the various U. C. athletic teams, including those of football, baseball and basketball, were introduced to the Lions.

S. M. Sample, president of the Reno Den of Lions, spoke briefly on the Lions' convention that will be held in Oakland on July 18 to 21. He declared that thirty-five delegates from Reno would be on hand to lend their assistance in making the convention a huge success.

If Past Were Blank and You Awoke Crook?

IF you were in every way perfectly sane and normal, yet did not know your own identity—

That would be bad enough. But if you were to be revived after a battle of thugs in the heart of San Francisco and find that, according to all the evidence, you were yourself a member of a band of gangsters—what would you do?

H. Bedford-Jones builds a fascinating story of mystery and intrigue on a San Francisco setting in next Sunday's OAKLAND TRIBUNE. Chinatown, Japanese diplomatic intrigue and many other factors enter into the story.

In Sunday's TRIBUNE also former Secretary Daniels will tell "How We Fought German U-boats With Nursery Rhymes."

"Fighting Dope Fiends in Prison" will be the subject of George C. Henderson's interesting prison article.

"Edwin Markham's Oakland Days," by Henry Meade Bland, whose guest the poet has been since coming to California last week, will be a timely review of the work and recollections of the author of "The Man With the Hoe" in this community.

BOY, GUILTY OF WOMAN'S DEATH, ESCAPES DEATH

John H. Baker, 17, Will Be Sentenced by Judge Church Saturday.

John H. Baker, seventeen-year-old murderer of Mrs. Emily Turner, will know his fate Saturday morning when he will be brought before Superior Judge U. S. Church for sentence.

After but fifteen minutes' deliberation late yesterday, the jury hearing his case adjudged him guilty of the murder of the aged woman perpetrated at Mrs. Turner's farm on the Fish ranch road outside of Berkeley on August 30, 1917. The jury recommended a sentence of life imprisonment rather than the death penalty as was asked by Deputy District Attorney Theodore Wittschen in his closing argument.

Baker heard the verdict calmly. His mother, Mrs. Ella Gray, who has been at his side throughout the trial, was not in court.

The lad was but 14 years of age when he committed the crime. He broke eight of the aged woman's ribs and choked her to death with a pillow. Robbery was the motive though he obtained but a 50-cent piece. After killing Mrs. Turner, testimony brought out, he carried the body to a well and buried it.

Wittschen in his closing argument reminded the jury of the youth of the lad and the disadvantages he has had through heredity and environment.

Five women were on the jury that convicted the boy.
